LOOKING DOWN ON MARIN'S AUDITORIUM

This unusual view of the Veteran's Memorial Auditorium at the Marin County Civic Center was shot yesterday from the basket of a snorkel fire truck by Independent-Journal photographer Jim Kean. The San Rafael Fire Department was at the Civic Center with pumpers and snorkels for practice drills. Some $3 million has been poured into the 2,100-seat facility in the past four years by Marin County and the state, $519,000 of it since Jan. 1.

Mideast War Fear Along Tense Canal

Cease-Fire End Spurs Blackout, Evacuations

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Egypt imposed a partial blackout in Cairo today and evacuated civilians from the Suez Canal following expiration of the Middle East cease-fire. Fears were expressed both in Egypt and Israel that an accident could touch off new fighting.

"Anything could set it off now —the sonic boom of a passing plane or an accidental gunshot — anything," one western diplomat told UPI correspondent Nat Gibson in Cairo. Israeli newspapers also warned of a possible accident that could bring new conflict.

Official sources in Cairo said three Israeli planes flew over Egypt's canal positions this afternoon, creating a war scare. The Egyptians sounded air raid alarms but no shots were fired, the sources said. The sources said the Egyptians also spotted military movements on the Israeli side during the night.

The Cairo diplomat described the situation as "highly dangerous" but expressed cautious optimism that the United Nations cease-fire observers stationed on the canal would be able to prevent any sudden outbreak of firing from intensifying into a full scale battle.

Political sources in Cairo said Egypt was evacuating the majority of the civilians still living near the Suez Canal to rear areas.

Both Arab and Israeli troops were on full alert the length of the 103-mile Suez Canal, but hours after the truce expired there were no reports that hostilities had been resumed. Sadat refused to extend the cease-fire but diplomats believed a truce would continue on an hour-to-hour basis.

Official sources said the partial blackout was ordered by Interior Minister Sharawi Gomaa, underlining the seriousness with which the government views the situation. He also issued "urgent orders on civil defense measures" after a meeting with his top aides.

A similar blackout order has been nominally in effect since the 1967 Arab-Israeli war but many people paid little attention to it.

Both Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban and Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad were reported beginning new initiatives to ease the Mideast situation.

The Israeli afternoon newspapers Maariv and Yedioth Aharonoth said Eban would leave for the United States within eight days for talks in New York with U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring and in Washington with President Nixon. Both forecast increased U.S. pressure on Israel to ease its hardline stand.

Cairo reports said Riad would

North Vietnam Pouring Elite Troops Into Laos

SAIGON (UPI) — Military sources said tonight North Vietnam is pouring elite troops into Laos to counter the strike against the Ho Chi Minh Trail by the 24,000-man South Vietnamese task force, despite 1,000 aircraft strikes that have destroyed 800 supply trucks in the past four days.

A South Vietnamese general reported his forces had destroyed 13,139 tons of Communist munitions in Laos. The strike against the Ho Chi Minh supply trail appeared so successful Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai flew to Hanoi to discuss the situation.

Military sources said the North Vietnamese reinforcements and supplies were moving west of the normal supply routes which were hit again today by fighter-bombers. More than 1,000 sorties were flown again today by fighterbombers, helicopter gunships and supply helicopters.

The military sources said Communist truck traffic over the past four or five days had gone back to a level of 1,200 to 1,500 vehicles per day from the low point of 500 to 600 daily reported last Thursday by President Nixon.

Lt. Gen. Hoang Xuan Lam, commander of the South Vietnamese task force in Laos, said the South Vietnamese had destroyed 1,341 tons of food supplies in the month-old operation and that truck traffic south on the Ho Chi Minh Trail had been cut to a "minimum."

The new troop and supply movements from North Vietnam were to the north and indicated a major counterattack by the North Vietnamese was in the making. Lam admitted the fighting so far had been hard and "we are meeting the elite of the North Vietnamese troops."

New fighting broke out meanwhile along Route 9, the axis of the ARVN thrust into Laos, and South Vietnamese armored units were trying to open the road to "relax some of the pressures on U.S. helicopters." The road is heavily mined and vulnerable to attack and helicopters have been used exclusively to take in supplies.

Lam told a news conference at his Ham Nghi command post near the Laotian border the food and armaments was enough to supply three Communist divisions totaling 36,000 men for one month.

The capture Saturday of the Ho Chi Minh Trail junction of Sepone, 27 miles inside Laos, has "decreased traffic to a minimum," Lam said.

South Vietnamese spokesmen in forward areas inside Quang Tri Province reported government marines with support from air strikes and artillery killed at least 250 North Vietnamese troops in an 18-hour

Army Colonel Denies $4,000 PX Bribe

WASHINGTON (UPI) —An Army colonel denied today he took a $4,000 bribe while he was commander of the Post Exchange (PX) system in Vietnam.

Col. Jack Ice repeatedly told the Senate Investigations Subcommittee, "No sir ... I did not, sir." He was questioned closely on testimony that he had accepted the money, then paid it back when threatened with exposure.

The subcommittee is in its fourth week of renewed hearings on alleged bribery and corruption at PXs and servicemen's clubs on military bases around the world.

Ice, who commanded the Vietnam PX system in 1967 and now is stationed at the Presidio in San Francisco, was called to testify immediately after Jacques H. Adler, a diamond merchant from Denver, testified how he became involved in the alleged $4,000 transaction.

Adler charged that no one was able to get authorization to establish a concession at military bases without first making "financial arrangements" with the men who ran club and PX systems.

"These people knew all the tricks of the trade and they knew them well," Adler said. "The matter was well-known to all of us that concessions were not obtainable in Vietnam without bribing Col. Ice."

Adler said that a Korean colonel, K. K. Lee, complained to him in 1967 that his family was forced to pay Ice $4,000 cash to win a laundry and drycleaning concession in Vietnam. Adler said that when the concession was not awarded to Lee's family, he volunteered to help Lee get the money back.

He said it was arranged for the money to be paid back through the Denver bank account of an Adler employee. But as soon as the transaction was completed, he said, Vietnamese police raided his Saigon office, threatened to jail his employes and fined his firm $33,177 for illegal currency transaction.

Ice denied the account.

Hijacker, 16, Changes Mind

MIAMI (UPI)—A teen-ager, apparently spurned by his girl friend, hijacked an airliner today but later changed his mind and gave himself up in Miami.

The youth commandeered a National Airlines jetliner during a scheduled stop at Mobile, Ala., and ordered it to Montreal. Once in the air, however, he decided to give himself up and told the pilot to fly to Miami where FBI agents arrested him.

Authorities identified him as Thomas Kelly Marston, 16, a sophomore at Davidson High School in Mobile.

Sentry Shooter Gets Six Years

BERLIN (UPI)—A British military government court sentenced a 22-year-old West Berlin medical orderly to six years in jail today for shooting a Soviet army sentry.

Court President Sir Leslie Block found Ekkehard Weil, an admitted admirer of Adolf Hitler, guilty of "malicious attempted murder for base motives." Three months Weil spent in jail awaiting trial will be deducted from the six years sentence.

Soviet sentry Ivan Zcherbak was shot while on guard duty at the Soviet war memorial in the British sector of West Berlin on Nov. 7, 1970. He recovered from his wounds and testified at the trial.

'Hanoi In Trouble, Wants Help'

By K. C. THALER

LONDON (UPI) —North Vietnam disclosed today that Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai had just visited Hanoi in connection with "U.S. aggression." Diplomats said the visit meant Hanoi is in trouble and wants help.

First diplomatic assessments of the unexpected visit said Peking in turn is determined not to allow the Hanoi regime to be defeated militarily or to be weakened to the point of political crisis.

The diplomatic assessment said the Chou visit reflected the apparent success of the current U.S.-backed South Vietnamese operation in Laos against the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

The high level of the Chinese mission, its composition, the time of the visit and not least the fact that Hanoi asked for the Chinese leaders all point to new development of crisis proportions, the assessment said.

Just what Hanoi wants and what Peking is ready to give remains a matter for speculation at this early stage of the Sino-Vietnamese get-together. Peking all along has urged Hanoi to go on fighting to victory.

Nor was it ruled out that a similarly composed Soviet mission might go to Hanoi—or, alternatively, that top level talks might be initiated in Moscow. Anything less than that would mark a clear shift by Hanoi to Peking, at the expense of Moscow.

Chou has not left China for five years or more. He quietly dropped plans for a visit to Africa last year.

Diplomatic sources noted that among those accompanying him are not only top party chiefs but also the deputy chief of staff of the Chinese army.

The Hungarian news agency MTI quoted "Peking observers" as saying Chou's journey and his talks in Hanoi "came after the Chinese government declared it will take every measure to provide support to the peoples of Indochina and will not allow the Americans to do with those peoples as they please."

MTI said the official Peking newspaper Peoples Daily published a commentary today warning that "the American acts of aggression bear a threat to China, which will not remain indifferent." It reported a "sympathy demonstration of millions" in favor of Chinese government policy.

'Biggest Manhunt' In Turkish History

ANKARA (UPI)—A Turkish government spokesman said today the gunmen who kidnaped four U.S. airmen were "professional urban guerrillas" subsidized from abroad.

"This is the work not of ordinary university students, but of a small group of professional urban guerrillas," the spokesman said. "They are subsidized from outside Turkey and use the tactics of South American guerrillas. Some of the ringleaders have been trained by outside groups."

The airmen —S. Sgt. Jimmie J. Sexton of San Angelo, Tex., and Airmen 1. C. Larry J. Heavner of Denver, Colo., James M. Gholson of Alexandria, Va., and Richard Caraszi of Stamford, Conn.—were abducted at gunpoint Thursday and held for $400,000 ransom.

The kidnapers threatened to shoot the captives unless the money was delivered by 6 a.m. last Friday. The ransom was not paid and no word has been heard from the kidnapers since the deadline.

Troops with mine detectors returned to Ankara's Middle East Technical University today to resume their search of the grounds and six miles of underground tunnels that honeycomb the area carrying the campus heating system.

Turkish authorities consider the university a breeding ground of radicalism.

Supreme Court Rejects 'Specific War' Objectors

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court refused today to allow draftees to claim conscientious objector status because of opposition to a specific war such as Vietnam. The vote was 8 to 1 with Justice William O. Douglas dissenting.

In the majority opinion in two test cases, Justice Thurgood Marshall declared that Congress in enacting the selective service law intended to exempt only persons "who oppose participation in all war — participation in war in any form."

Of the argument that a draftee should be able to single out a particular war as grounds for conscientious objection, Marshall wrote:

"Persons who object solely to participation in a particular war are not within the purview of the exempting section even though the latter objection may have such roots in a claimant's conscience and personality that it is religious in character."

In his dissent, Douglas said of the majority ruling: "Conscience is repudiated ... The Court has done violence to the basic philosophy of the First Amendment and we take a step backward."

The decision upheld lower court rulings against two men who refused to serve in Vietnam.

Guy Porter Gillette of New York City was sentenced to two years in prison for refusing to report for induction. Louis A. Negre of Bakersfield, Calif., sought to get out of the service after he had been drafted.

In other major actions, the Court:

—Decided on a tie, 4-4, vote to let stand a ruling by Maryland's highest court that the controversial Swedish film, "I am Curious (Yellow)", was obscene. The tie vote did not set a high court precedent in law but merely affirmed the state court judgment.

—Refused to hear an appeal by atheist Madalyn Murray O'Hair who claimed the astronauts on the Apollo 8 and Apollo 11 flights to the moon improperly injected religious activities into their operations.

Government Enters Testimony Of Calley Killing Before My Lai

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)—A veteran of Lt. William L. Calley's platoon testified today that two weeks before the My Lai assault he heard Calley threaten a Vietnamese farmer, then heard a gunshot, and later saw the farmer dead in a well.

The witness, Billy Carney, 24, a Meridian, Miss., factory worker, did not say he saw Calley doing the shooting. He was called in the government's attempt to show that Calley had the ability to premeditate murder around the time of My Lai and that he had an intent to kill at My Lai.

Carney was the 20th rebuttal witness called by the government in its attempt to prove that Calley murdered 102 civilians in the Vietnamese hamlet on March 16, 1968, in four specific instances involving either himself or his platoon members at his order.

Earlier, the court eliminated as a potential rebuttal witness Maj. Gen. Samuel W. Koster, who has been cleared of charges of covering up the My Lai affair.

Carney was preceded to the stand by Dennis I. Conti, 21, a Providence, R. I., truck driver who was the only government witness to say he observed all four incidents of slaughter involving Calley.

They are, as charged by the government: killing at least 30 women, children and old men at a trail intersection, killing at least 70 after pushing them into a drainage ditch, blowing off the head of a middle aged man who had his hands in a praying position, and slaying a baby after slinging it into the ditch.

Asked what he thought Calley's mental condition was that day, Conti replied:

"He seemed pretty calm to me ..."

Carney said that the well incident occurred while the platoon Calley commanded was working alone on a mission in a Vietnamese village.

"There were two farmers working in the field," Carney said. "Lt. Calley wanted to talk to one. I heard him say that if he didn't talk and tell what he wanted, he would throw him in the well.

"I was in the first squad, and we formed a perimeter. About 10 minutes later, I heard a gunshot.

"Later I went back by the well and I saw a dead man in the well—he'd been shot."

Carney said that Ronald D. Grzesick of Holyoke, Mass., an interpreter, was with Calley at the time.

Carney testified that he had attended a company briefing given the day before My Lai by Calley's immediate superior, Capt. Ernest L. Medina, the company commander, and that Medina gave no instructions to "gather up and kill unarmed women and children."

Calley and more than 20 other defense witnesses have said Medina ordered everything in the village killed, and Calley testified he followed those orders as a good officer should.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Strike Delayed

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The United Transportation Union called a strike against two major railroads Sunday night but then voluntarily postponed it until Thursday when the lines asked a federal judge to block a walkout.

The strike was called without advance notice for midnight Sunday against the Burlington Northern and the Seaboard Coast Line railroads.

The rapidity of the UTU in calling it off indicated the action was a strategy move by the union since "selective strikes" have been ruled illegal by federal judges in some similar cases in the past.

Negotiations aimed at avoiding a nationwide strike were recessed Saturday —without any date for new talks —to allow each side to study the other's offers and to prepare for more discussions.

Union officials postponed the strike against Burlington and Seaboard until 2 p. m. EST Thursday to give U. S. District Judge John H. Pratt time to arrange a hearing on the railroads' request for a temporary restraining order against the strike.

Trouble Confined

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—A heavy buildup of troops in the city's riot areas confined trouble today to a few isolated flareups in which Roman Catholic youths hurled gasoline bombs and stones at army patrols.

An army spokesman said the city was "generally calm" and "much quieter than previous nights."

The first religious parades of Northern Ireland's "marching season" touched off trouble Sunday in two areas. In the militant Roman Catholic New Lodge Road area, a tronghold of the provisional Irish Republican Army (IRA), youths clashed with troops for several hours.

Cancer Fight

NEW YORK (UPI)—The American Cancer Society said Sunday it hoped to accomplish by the mid 1970s the virtual elimination in the United States of deaths from uterine cancer.

The society (ACS) in its 1970 annual report said that research developments and improvements in surgical and radiation treatment for cancer would save 212,000 Americans from the disease this year.

But it added, more than 100,000 Americans who could be saved by existing methods still die each year.

"In part to meet that challenge, we have set a specific goal for the middle of the new decade we have entered. We are striving to make the Pap test universal among women who should be getting that test regularly thus enabling physicians to treat women with uterine cancer in its earliest and curable stages," the report added.

Missiles View

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon said Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., was "very close" when he claimed the Soviet Union is deploying a new and more powerful missile system.

Jackson said Sunday "the new developments are ominous indeed."

"We do not know quite what it means, but I can say to you that these are huge new missiles that from a qualitative point of view certainly present a difficult problem for the United States to face as we move into the 1970s," Jackson said.

The chairman of a Senate subcommittee on National Security said the new weapons system has missiles that are apparently "superior to the SS9, not necessarily in yield but in quality."

Nixon told UPI Sunday that "He's (Jackson) very close to it. He's concerned about the Soviets. We're very aware ... on the other hand I do not believe our expressing, as a government, trepidation about this would be helpful."

Back In Service

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's postal service creaked back into operation today and began dealing with a blacklog of 70 million pieces of mail accumulated during a 47-day strike.

Postal officials estimated about 11 million items were in the nation's internal pipeline waiting to be delivered with another 60 million items overseas waiting to come in.

The strike, one of the longest in British history, cost the post office at least $64 million.

The return of the mail was especially welcomed by millions of pensioners, many of whom do not have telephones.

Las Vegas March

LES VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — as the wave of welfare demonstrators swept into Caesars Palace casino, startled gamblers looked up from their craps and blackjack tables and nervously pocketed their chips.

Those trying to beat the one-armed bandits were more intrepid. Not even a demonstrator riding a two-wheeler down the rows of whirring machines disturbed their reckless rhythm.

More than 500 persons protesting Nevada welfare cutbacks marched peacefully Saturday down the four-mile length of "The Strip," from Circus to Caesars Palace. Led by Jane Fonda, the Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy and peace activist David Dellinger, they forced the first closing of the gambling casino at Caesars in three years.

The march, which caused a massive traffic jam on "the strip," was described as "peaceful" by sheriff Ralph Labm. No arrests were made.

Nixon Accused

WASHINGTON (UPI)—AFL-CIO President George Meany today accused the Nixon administration of solicitude for big business and a disregard for public welfare, and urged Congress to step in with its own social and economic reforms.

Among other things, he said Congress should raise the minimum wage, create half-a-million public service jobs and boost Social Security benefits by 15 per cent.

"The AFL-CIO submits that the Congress cannot look to the executive branch to offer a coherent, progressive legislative program designed to meet the needs of the present," he said in testimony prepared for the Joint Economic Committee of Congress.

"We believe the Congress must take the initiative in shaping such a program on behalf of all the people."

To Air Force

LONDON (UPI) — Prince Charles traded his Buckingham Palace bachelor pad for a Royal Air Force-approved student residence today and bade farewell to civilian life for up to five years.

The 22-year-old heir to the British throne was beginning a five-month course in advanced flying training at the RAF's college at Cranwell, 150 miles north of London.

In September, he goes into the Royal Navy for up to five years.

At Cranwell, the prince will have the rank of flight lieutenant and will have to salute senior officers. At his own request he will receive no pay. His mess bills will be sent to Buckingham Palace.

Charles will live in a college-approved residence with three other students. Also sharing the apartment will be the prince's detective bodyguard.

Washington Boy, 16, Dead After Shooting At Motorists

GREENWATER, Wash. (UPI)—The 16-year-old boy who had "never been in any trouble" was found lying face down in the snow, killed by one of two rifles he had used Sunday to riddle passing automobiles and wound four persons.

"I can't see any reason for it," said William H. Egnew Sr., the father of the victim and an inspector for the Seattle Fire Department. "He was too good humored ... too stable."

William Herbert Egnew Jr. had perched himself in a "foxhole-type" crevice atop a 100-foot cliff and began spraying .22 caliber rifle bullets at passing automobiles on U.S. 410. At least 18 vehicles were hit, including an ambulance which had come to take away one of the wounded.

The unsuspecting targets of the barrage said after the episode they never heard a word from the youth, who only returned their shouted pleas to stop shooting with more bullets.

"We were riding along just talking about things, teenagers, drugs, things like that," said Mrs. Mary C. Pluewnarz, 31, Buckley, one of the victims.

"Then I heard something hit the window ... and I saw a little hole in the glass. I felt something on my arm, like a blow. I remember thinking that a rock hit the window. I put my hand on my sleeve and there was blood."

Mrs. Pluewnarz, like the rest of those shot, was not seriously wounded. The bullet was removed at a hospital in Enumclaw, about 14 miles west of here.

"At first, I thought my engine blew up," said Jaques M. Lescan, 24, a ski instructor wounded in the foot by a bullet which went through a wing window.

The other two wounded by bullets were Eugene H. Terrien, Steilacoom, and his son, Douglas, 12, who were on their way to a skiing holiday.

Two other persons were cut by flying glass from shattered windshields.

"When they (the victims) came around a curve to one side of him," said Capt. Fred Pingry of the King County Sheriff's Department, "he was looking right down at their cars."

Two deputy sheriffs and a state trooper worked their way up a logging road behind the youth and approached him from the rear.

When they could not gain young Egnew's attention, "they threw a snowball down at him, but there was no movement," Pingry said. "They inched up and found him dead."

They found 51 shell casings in the snow around the body. One of the rifles was equipped with a telescopic sight.

A King County public safety official said, "From what we can gather, he'd never been in any trouble."

Poll On Suburbs Explodes Myths

NEW YORK (UPI)—A poll by Louis Harris for Time magazine apparently explodes some myths about suburbanites. They are not all wealthy Republicans and do not oppose blacks moving into their neighborhoods, Time said Sunday.

Wealthy suburban residents do oppose poor Negroes, but that is because of their financial condition, not their race.

"Blacks who can afford to live in a high-income community would be acceptable, it seems, while the poor, of whatever color, would not," the magazine said.

As for politics, the article said: " uburbanites are not automatically Republicans; on the voting rolls half are Democrats, a third Republicans."

Time said suburbanites "are not enormously affluent." Nearly half of the families have incomes less than $10,000 and one-third of them have a union member in the family.

Most adults living in the suburbs are happy there with 44 per cent voicing no serious complaint about their neighborhoods, Time said. The major complaints listed were high taxes and the cost of living which Time said are problems for city dwellers as well.

But their teen-age children are not as happy. "Nearly three-fifths are 'often bored,' and 43 per cent say that they would like to live somewhere else," Time said. But the big city their suburbs are attached is not the attraction. Fifty-four per cent of the youngsters would prefer a more rural setting, the article said.

Murdered Girl Identified As Pacific Union Coed

ANGWIN (UPI) — Napa County homicide investigators visited the campus of Pacific Union College here this weekend in search of some clue to the mysterious death of a 20-year-old coed whose body was found in a shallow grave near her abandoned automobile.

Lynda Christine Kanes of Porterville disappeared Feb. 26 and her body was found with a fractured skull, a wire noose wrapped around the neck and numerous bruises.

Detectives interviewed friends, fellow students and teachers of the coed Sunday.

"We're hoping somebody will recall seeing something that could be our lead to the killer," said Sgt. Ken Narlow of the Napa County Sheriff's Department.

The body was found in an area where the elusive Zodiac killer claimed one of his victims, but investigators said there was no reason to believe that the Zodiac was involved in Miss Kanes' death.

The girl's body was found Friday, hidden between some rocks and covered by brush. The site was about 250 yards from where her car was found abandoned a week earlier.

A bra, neatly folded, and a jacket belonging to Miss Kanes were found near the car.

An autopsy by Dr. Owen Thomas proved "inconclusive," according to Napa County Sheriff Earl Randol.

Randol said the final determination would be made by the detailed pathology examinations at the University of California in San Francisco.

FEED PLANT VICTIM OF FIRE

The mill was destroyed Saturday despite the efforts of 51 firemen and 16 pieces of equipment. Damage to the feed mill building at 195 Bailey Avenue was estimated at $125,000. Mill manager Arnold Johnson said that an additional $35,000 damage was done to feed processing equipment. The blaze was discovered at 6:50 a.m. by an employee, but fire fighters said the fire had probably started sometime after midnight.

San Rafael Yacht Owner, Three Friends Rescued

I-J Special Report

A San Rafael yacht owner and three friends were rescued early today after their boat sank in Southern California waters, the Coast Guard reported.

Barry Heifetz of 28 Twin Oaks Avenue, was reported in good condition as were Harold Cogswell, Charles Libra and Phillip Randle, all of Berkeley.

The Coast Guard said that Heifetz called for help about 1:30 a.m. after his 47-foot ketch, "Blue Sea," hit a rock off the north end of San Clemente Island, which is about 75 miles northwest of San Diego.

The four men abandoned the sinking boat and were in a lifeboat when a Coast Guard helicopter found them. The helicopter blew the lifeboat ashore on to the island and then picked up the men, officers said.

The four were then taken to San Diego.

In early Europe, a gentleman was defined as one who had an aristocratic background, wealth and did not have to work.

Man Is Critical After Car Crash

Richard J. Barajas, 18, of Emeryville, was reported in critical condition today at Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital with severe head injuries suffered in an accident at 6:40 a.m. yesterday on San Antonio Road, south of Petaluma.

The driver of the car, Melvin Bounds, 21, of Oakland, was reported in satisfactory condition at Community Hospital of Sonoma County with chest injuries.

The California Highway Patrol said the car slid on loose gravel and struck a fence.

'First Call' Issue Due Hub Council Discussion

The San Anselmo City Council, meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. at city hall, will continue discussion of providing "first call" police protection to Sleepy Hollow.

At its Feb. 23 meeting, the Council made it clear it would not approve police contract between the city and the unincorporated area.

The council said further, it would discuss tomorrow eliminating the "first call" courtesy extended the Marin County Sheriff's Office in covering Sleepy Hollow.

Under the "first call" agreement, San Anselmo police cover emergencies in Sleepy Hollow and other unincorporated areas until a sheriff's unit arrives.

The council also is expected to accept a narcotics identification kit from the Ross Valley Kiwanis Club for the city's police department and will consider bids for resurfacing of tennis courts at Memorial Park.

4 Vehicles Stolen In San Rafael

Four vehicles were stolen in San Rafael in the past few days, one theft resulting in an arrest and another in a search.

Robert Edward Webeck, 15, of 574 Woodbine Drive, San Rafael, was arrested at 4 p.m. Sunday by Fairfax police and was booked into Juvenile Hall on suspicion of auto theft, according to San Rafael police, who said he was caught in a pickup truck taken Saturday from Richard Michael Schwartz of 859 Butternut Drive, San Rafael.

A man who identified himself as Steve Solano of Larkspur, was being sought for taking a 1966 Austin Healy for a test drive at 6 p.m. Friday from Marin Bay Lincoln Mercury at Third Street and Lincoln Avenue and failing to return it. Salesman Kenneth James Pitto described him as white, about 24 years of age, six feet tall of medium complexion and black hair.

A 1970 model motorcycle was taken from beside his home between 11 p.m. Saturday and noon yesterday, Eugene John McCready of 12 Hubbell Court, San Rafael, reported to police.

A 1970 model motorcycle and two bicycles were taken from his unlocked garage between 5 p.m. Thursday and noon Friday, Cortney Gordon Balzan of 1201 Grand Avenue, San Rafael, reported to police.

Reinecke Views Pollution In American River Tour

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A group concerned with pollution of the American River today enlisted the help of Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke after escorting him on an 11-mile "inspection" trip by canoe.

Reinecke, paddling in the bow of a two-man canoe, sped through riffles and rapids of the river Saturday in the lead of a 12-boat flotilla.

He observed outfalls of sewage and storm drains and bank erosion, which the Save the American River Association (SARA) hopes to control to prevent pollution of the river.

Reinecke told the group he was sympathetic to their efforts to maintain the water quality of the river, which is threatened by sewage and a potential slower rate of flow.

The Federal Bureau of Reclamation plans to divert some of the American's flow to other cities and counties, particularly those along the dry range land of the Sierra foothills.

Members of SARA hope to convince the bureau to maintain at least a 1,500 cubic feet per second flow to keep pollutants moving downstream and keep the river from stagnating.

Reinecke's and 10 other canoes safely maneuvered through the rapids, but one boat carrying three men capsized in the 55-degree white water of San Juan Rapids.

Carl Sweet of SARA, Robert Mallette of the Audubon Society and Vic Biondi of a Sacramento television station (KCRA) were dipped in the churning water.

Military Pullout

SINGAPORE (UPI) — When Britain completely pulls out its troops and hands over its military bases to Singapore and Malaysia by the end of next year, about 30,000 persons will be directly affected and another 10,000 will be indirectly involved.

New Vice President Of College

Charles L. Praul, a retired Air Force colonel who has served as director of extramural programs at Golden Gate College in San Francisco for two years, has been appointed vice president for administration at the college.

Praul, of 14 Garner Drive, Novato, retired from the Air Force in 1968 after serving two years as commander of Hamilton Air Force Base.

In his new duties he will direct the college's financial planning and manage its physical resources and administrative services.

A native of Rockport, Ill., Praul is married and the father of four children.

Feud Panel Invites Testimony

The principals in the bitter feud between the Marin Human Rights Department and the police-community relations program have been invited to appear before a five-man fact-finding committee Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. at the Civic Center.

The fact-finding body, headed by Chairman Milen C. Dempster of Mill Valley, will start the probe by delving into the case of Anne Smith, who was secretary for both the police community relations program and for the human rights department.

As secretary to the police-community relations program, she had been drawing $650 per month. In the transfer papers that returned her to the human rights department, her title was listed as secretary-steno instead of secretary. Because of that switch, her pay was cut to $576.

Donald C. Moody, former director of the human rights department, tried to get her salary restored but failed. Because of this, and the bitter feud with Bella Aaron, director of the police-community relations program, Moody resigned Jan. 31 after only six weeks on the job.

The fact-finding committee has invited Mrs. Smith, Moody and Mrs. Aaron to the Wednesday hearing. Thereafter, the committee will meet every Monday at 2:30 p.m. and every Friday at 9 a.m. until the probe is completed.

Dempster, the committee chairman, was picked last week after a two-week search. He is a retired field examiner for the National Labor Relations Board in San Francisco.

Boy, 14, Arrested Inside Building

A 14-year-old boy was arrested at 12:14 a.m. yesterday inside the San Rafael Medical Group offices at 1540 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael police reported.

Gregory James Throop of Spokane, Wash., was cited for burglary, according to police, and released to officials at the San Rafael Military Academy where he is a student.

Illegitimate White Births In State Up, Study Says

BERKELEY (UPI) —More women in California, particularly white women, have illegitimate children than their counterparts elsewhere in the country.

That is the inference to be drawn from a study released here Sunday by the State Department of Public Health.

Mrs. Beth Berkov, a public health statistician who took part in the study, said in 1970 an estimated 46,000 illegitimate live births occurred in California, continuing "a trend in which the ratio of illegitimate births has increased from an estimated 9.4 per cent in 1966 to nearly 12.9 per cent last year."

The report released Sunday was based on findings in a study of births during 1966 and 1967.

During that period, the report said, illegitimate births declined slightly among black women in California while the rate for white women went up about 8 per cent.

For white women in 1967, the rate was 20.7 illegitimate births per 1,000 unmarried women age 15-44 in California compared to 12.5 for the United States.

The rate for black women of the same age group was between 81.2 and 103.1, depending on the method used in tabulation. This was roughly comparable to blacks in the rest of the nation.

Of the total of approximately 337,000 live births registered in California in both 1966 and 1967, the report listed 31,804 (9.4 per cent) as illegitimate in 1966 and 35,215 (10.5 per cent) in 1967.

California does not record legitimacy status on the birth certificate and the estimates were based on a comparison of the surnames of parents and children.

"The higher rate in California women may be due to a number of factors," Mrs. Berkov said, "including a general surplus of women in the child-bearing ages, greater frequency of divorces and more permissive attitudes toward premarital sex."

Ethiopia has diverse peoples who speak more than 70 languages and follow Christian, Jewish, Moslem and pagan religions.

Flood Zone Revamping To Be Eyed

Proposed revamping of the Novato Flood Control Zone Advisory Board will go before the Marin County Board of Supervisors tomorrow.

Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste will ask that three incumbents on the advisory board be replaced by Dr. Leo J. Becnel, Jack Kniveton, and Thomas Nolan in an effort to broaden the agency's scope.

Supervisors will also consider appointments to fill vacancies on the human rights commission and the juvenile delinquency prevention commission. H. D. (Tim) Williams has resigned from the rights commission, and Douglas W. Scott from the delinquency commission.

The supervisors' all-day meeting will start at 9 a.m. on the third floor of the Civic Center Administration Building.

Other items on the agenda include:

VD — Sausalito pharmacist Frederick S. Mayer will report on the increase of veneral disease in the county and urge measures to combat the problem.

EOC — Novatans for Racial Equality will seek representation on the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council board of directors.

McNEAR'S FIRE — Insurance adviser Walter W. Carter will recommend an $11,295 insurance settlement for loss of a McNear's Beach office building, gutted by fire last Aug. 8.

GNOSS FIELD — The county counsel will report on the type of insurance available for the county airport at Gnoss Field. The county administrator complained last week that fixed base operators at the airport are not carrying the type of insurance specified in their lease agreement with the county.

HOUSEBOATS — Marine Inspector Richard L. Larson will recommend some other way of removing dilapidated houseboats then by towing them to the Army Corps of Engineers depot in Sausalito, as directed by the supervisors last week.

FACT-FINDING — A five-man committee, created to probe the squabble between the human rights commission and the police-community relations program, will ask for clarification of its duties.

ENGLISH PUB — Charles Felix will present a master plan for his English pub and restaurant at the entrance to Muir Beach.

MARINVIEW — Allan-Marin Co. will submit a tentative subdivision map for Marinview unit 4, where 50 townhouses and 16 standard homes are planned on 26 acres in Tennessee Valley.

REZONING — Shirley Monoogan will seek apartment zoning to allow five units on 19,000 square feet at Thomas Drive and Central Drive, Alto.

Septic Tanks On Board Agenda

The effect of a proposed ordinance banning the use of septic tanks in the San Geronimo Valley will be discussed by the Lagunitas School District board today at 7:30 p.m. at San Geronimo Valley School.

The district has two septic tanks and trustees will hear a report on how the proposed legislation would affect them.

In other business, the board will hear a report on student participation at board meetings hold a closed session to instruct its agents in contract negotiations with clerical workers.

Garbage Rate Hike Due Hearing

A request for an increase in garbage collection rates by Fairfax Garbage Disposal Service will be considered by the Fairfax City Council when it meets tonight at 8 o'clock at the Fairfax Women's Club.

Also on the agenda is consideration of a leash law to cover commercial areas, recommended by the Marin County Council of Mayors and Councilmen, and discussion of a state-required plan to contend with civil defense emergencies and natural disasters.

'Civil Disobedience' Call By Actress

Actress Jane Fonda paid a visit yesterday to Angela Davis in the Marin County Jail and then went on to San Francisco to call for a spring peace offensive of "massive civil disobedience."

Miss Fonda, clad in a sweater and bell-bottomed jeans with no bra, appeared pensive as she waited for the elevator which leads to the jail in the Hall of Justice at the Civic Center.

After spending about 15 minutes visiting with Miss Davis shortly after noon, the actress reported that the jailed Communist was "beautiful, strong and free."

She called Miss Davis a "political prisoner" and "not a criminal."

From Marin, Miss Fonda went to San Francisco where she addressed a rally at the University of San Francisco and announced plans for the spring offensive.

"What we need is civil disobedience," Miss Fonda said. "What we need is laying our lives, our bodies on the line in massive protests."

Object of the protest is the end of the war in Southeast Asia as well as ending poverty, racism and sexism at home, Miss Fonda told 1000 persons attending the rally. The gathering was in support of 13 nuns and priests indicted in an alleged plot to kidnap presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger.

The spring offensive will start April 2 with a mule train procession by poor people down Wall Street in New York and culminate in moratoriums across the country on May 5 to "close the government down."

"I am a revolutionary woman," the actress told a group of reporters after the rally.

Asked how she rationalized her own affluence, she replied, "I'm not a do-gooder," explaining that it was not necessary to impoverish oneself in order to fight social ills.

Miss Fonda had flown to San Francisco from Las Vegas, where she led nearly 2,000 marchers Saturday down the "Strip" and into casinos to protest Nevada welfare cuts.

She flew to New York from San Francisco yesterday to begin rehearsals for an antiwar skit she plans to stage outside the gate of Fort Bragg, N.C., next weekend.

Cyclists Win Ranch Activities

Marin County Motorcycle Association today won the right to use the Anita Gambonini Ranch near Marshall for riding activities, but under strict restrictions.

Ralph D. Cairns, deputy zoning administrator, approved the use permit with these conditions:

Cyclists must stay on existing trails and not cut across open pasture, motorcycles without mufflers will be confined to the valley and the area north of Marshall-Petaluma Road, no riding will be allowed on public roads, and offstreet parking must be provided.

Gerald M. Diaz, president of the association, assured Cairns that the members will comply with all conditions.

Minister Quits Marin Campus

Rev. Charles G. Robertson, who for five years has served as the Protestant minister to the College of Marin campus, has resigned effective June 30.

In submitting his resignation, Robertson, 31, told the Campus Ministry Committee he plans to travel and study in Europe with his wife, Theodosia.

Paid by the independent ministry committee, he serves, however, as an unofficial counselor to students.

Robertson stirred controversy in 1968 when he and other ministers chained themselves to servicemen in Marin City in protest to the war in Vietnam. He also has been involved with draft counseling at the college and has headed a group called the Marin Council for Draft Education, promoting draft counseling in public high schools.

call in the Big Four envoys in Cairo to discuss developments in the Mideast situation and urge them to have their countries shoulder responsibilities during this critical stage.

Military analysts of the two Israeli newspapers said the real danger on the canal now is how local Egyptian commanders react to the new situation. They said one mistake by a hotheaded local commander could well start a fourth Middle East War.

Israeli deputy Premier Yigal Allon told Israeli schoolchildren today everything possible will be done to bring peace to the Middle East and save them being caught in the draft.

He spoke to a gathering of high school pupils in the Red Sea port of Eilat.

"We will try to make our political struggle yield a durable peace treaty which will assure the safety and honor of all nations in the region," Allon said. "We shall do everything possible for you so that when you reach draft age you shall have no more wars."

The only reported action was a clash between Palestine guerrillas in Syria and Israeli troops. An Israeli military spokesman said "a number" of long-range rockets fired by the guerrillas from Syria slammed into a kibbutz on the Israeli-occupied Golan Heights at 10 p.m. Sunday — two hours before the cease-fire expired — but caused no casualties. Israeli artillerymen returned the fire.

rillas nor the Syrians officially accepted the cease-fire, although the Syrians did not initiate any fighting during the seven-month truce.

In other Middle East developments:

—President Nixon, in an interview with UPI White House correspondent Helen Thomas, said both the United States and the Soviet Union are exerting "a restraining effort" to keep Egypt and Israel apart. "Neither side will gain and both will lose" if hostilities resume, Nixon said. The President said administration foreign policy officials were trying to get a new cease-fire and "I am cautiously optimistic on getting a cease-fire."

—Sadat, in a 28-minute television address to the nation saying he would not extend the cease-fire, announced he had made a secret trip to Moscow March 1 to confer with Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and President Nikolai V. Podgorny. "We discussed everything clearly and frankly and I returned to Cairo completely satisfied ... and confident the Soviet Union is maintaining its positive support of our just struggle," he said.

Revenues To Be Studied

The Dixie School District's expected revenue for 1971-72 and teachers' salary wage proposals will be considered by district trustees at 8 p.m. Wednesday in district offices at 35 Trellis Drive, Terra Linda.

The study on expected revenue was prepared by a citizens finance advisory group appointed by the board and includes budget comparisons with previous years and proposed salary schedules.

The Dixie Teachers' Association also is slated to present its initial salary schedule proposal for next fiscal year.

Larkspur Girl Reports Assault

A 16-year-old Larkspur girl was raped yesterday in Larkspur by a man who picked her up while hitchhiking, police said today.

Officers said the girl told them she accepted a ride in Mill Valley from a man with whom she had ridden before.

This time, however, he refused to let her out on Magnolia Avenue as she requested, instead drove to the San Andreas High School parking lot on Doherty Drive and attacked her. The attack occurred at 1:35 a.m., officer said.

She described the man as about 25 to 30 years of age, with medium length blond hair, a mustache, five feet-11 inches tall, 170 pounds and driving an older model two-door sedan, blue in color.

Militant Marinite Charged In Assault

A young political militant from Marin County who once taught a class in revolution at College of Marin has been charged with assault to murder a Texas narcotics officer, the Independent-Journal learned today.

Dennis Michael Marnell, 26, is also accused of possessing a .45-caliber automatic, against the law in Texas, where all handguns are prohibited, Texas officials said.

The arrest stems from a narcotics raid on a Fort Worth residence early in the morning of Nov. 1. Fort Worth police said today that Marnell is accused of shooting at a plainclothes officer outside the residence and that the gun was taken from him when he was arrested.

residence was being used at the time as White Panther Party headquarters, but that the officers who raided it were looking for narcotics.

Several other persons were arrested at the time of the raid but are charged with drug offense.

The Tarrant County district attorney's office said today that Marnell's case has not been set for trial yet either on the felony assault nor the misdemeanor gun possession charge.

Marnell, free on bail, is reportedly living in Corte Madera. A friend said that he is attending College of Marin, but college officials said he was last registered there during the 1970 spring semester.

Marnell, a self-proclaimed anarchist, taught the revolution course at the college in 1969.

battle six miles inside Laos that began Sunday night. Seventeen government marines were reported killed.

Officers said government troops in bomb-shattered Sepone uncovered a cache of 2,000 122mm rockets near the Communist supply point and destroyed them by directing air strikes on the site. Lam said 150 rocket launchers were found in Sepone.

About 700 South Vietnamese troops were in Sepone today, with 700 others to the north and about the same number to the south, spokesmen in the field said.

Job Cutbacks On Sausalito School Agenda

A request by the superintendent for authorization to notify personnel whose jobs will be eliminated next year because of budget reductions will be considered by the Sausalito School District board at 7:30 p.m. today in Bayside School.

Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg explained that all employees the district does not intend to rehire for the coming school year must be notified by March 15.

The district board will also continue discussion of facilities use for 1971-72 and a preliminary budget for next year.

In addition, the board will meet in closed session to discuss employment of personnel and to instruct the superintendent in negotiations with employee organizations.

OBITUARIES

Ruth E. Dubs Services

Funeral for Ruth E. Dubs, a resident of Sausalito since childhood, will be tomorrow at 10:30 a.m. at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael. Burial will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Mrs. Dubs died Saturday in a San Francisco hospital after a long illness. She was 75.

Born in San Francisco, she lived in California all her life and since infancy in Sausalito. She lived with her husband, Charles J. Dubs, a retired engineer for the Northwestern Pacific Railroad, at their house at 421 Johnson Street.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by a daughter, Helen E. Furber of Cloverdale; a son, Charles J. Dubs Jr., of San Rafael; her mother, Isabell McNeill of Mill Valley, and five grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The family requests contributions to the Harkness Cancer Research Fund at Fell and Baker Streets, San Francisco.

GRACE DORAN

A mass of the Resurrection for Grace F. Doran of San Francisco, mother of Patricia Savelli of Mill Valley and Sister M. Alma O.P. of San Rafael, will be tomorrow at 10 a.m. at Saint Brigid's Church, Broadway and Van Ness Avenue, San Francisco.

A Rosary will be recited tonight at 8 o'clock at McAvoy-O'Hara Mortuary, Geary Boulevard and 10th Avenue, San Francisco. Burial will be at Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

Mrs. Doran died Saturday in a San Francisco hospital after a long illness.

She was born in San Francisco and lived there most of her life. Her husband, Thomas A. Doran, a former San Francisco pharmacist, died in 1957. He was a toll collector on the Golden Gate Bridge at the time of his death.

In addition to her two daughters, Mrs. Doran is survived by a sister, Catherine Halterman, of Santa Cruz; two brothers, ev. Richard Hodge, OFM, of Los Angeles, and Edwin B. Hodge, of San Francisco; and six grandchildren.

The family requests donations to the scholarship fund at Dominican College in San Rafael.

WILLIAM BICKLE

Word was received here today of the death of William Bickle, a former resident of San Anselmo and Petaluma, in St. Maries, Idaho.

Bickle, 61, died last Tuesday in St. Maries. Funeral has been held there.

A native of Plymouth, England, he came to San Anselmo in 1944. He worked as a driver instructor for Pacific Gas and Electric Co. for 21 years. He moved to Petaluma in 1963 and then in 1965 he retired and moved to St. Maries.

He was past mater of Fairfax Lodge 556 Free and Accepted Mason,s Bethel Lodge 246 International Order of Job's Daughters of Larkspur and St. Maries Lodge 63 F and AM.

He is survived by his wife, Mabel; a daughter, Barbara Lee McPhedran and three grandchildren, all of St. Maries.

Sewer Pact To Be Studied

A cooperative agreement for a North Marin-Southern Sonoma sewer study will be considered at the Petaluma City Council meeting today at 7:30 p.m.

Under the plan, Petaluma would join with Sonoma County, Sonoma Valley, Novato, Las Gallinas Valley and San Rafael in the subregional study.

The council will also consider capital outlay appropriations and a resolution supporting federal revenue sharing for cities.

FOREST SUR

Forest J. Sur, former geologist and mining engineer and a member of a pioneer California family, died yesterday at his Mill Valley home after a long illness. He was 85.

A native of Wheatland, Yuba County, Sur had lived in Mill Valley since his retirement in 1955, residing at 210 Cleveland Avenue. His grandather, a Spaniard, came to California in the early 1800s and operated a placer gold mine in Placer County in the 1840s.

Sur was a graduate of Vander Naillen College of Engineering in San Francisco and later studied at the University of Nebraska. His work took him to many of the early gold mining centers of the West, from Nome, Alaska to Goldfield, Nev.

He was instrumental in the discovery of many important fields in Canada, Wyoming, Arkansas and Colorado and also discovered uranium fields in New Mexico.

Sur was a member of the Farmington, N.M., Animas Lodge No. 15, Free and Accepted Masons, the York Rite of Freemasonry, the Shiprock Commandery No. 15, Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry, Santa Fe Consistory in New Mexico, the Islam Temple of San Francisco and the Marin Shrine Club. He was a past commander of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, Flotilla 14 and a member of the American Institute of Mining, Metallurgical and Petroleum Engineers.

Sur is survived by his wife, Bernice; a daughter, Mrs. John J. Linker and three grandchildren, all of Mill Valley.

A Masonic funeral service will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow at Russell and Gooch Funeral Home, Mill Valley. Inurnment will be private. The family prefers contributions to the Shrine Crippled Children's Hospital in San Francisco.

MORRIS HARRIS

Morris Harris, father of Dr. Alvin J. Harris of San Rafael and Richard M. Harris of Sleepy Hollow, died yesterday at a San Francisco Hospital following a long illness. He was 87.

A resident of San Francisco, Harris moved to that city 65 years ago from his native Poland. He worked as a real estate broker in San Francisco, retiring 40 years ago.

He was a member of the Congregation Emanu-el, Congregation Beth Israel, and the Urban Buena Angling Club.

Harris also belonged to the Marin Rod and Gun Club and the San Francisco Chapter of B'Nai B'Rith.

Besides his sons, he is survived by a daughter, Lucille Brown of Washington, D.C., two sisters, Rose Zimet and Stella Tomsky of San Francisco. He is also survived by eight grandchildren.

Funeral will be tomorrow at 1 p.m. at Sinai Memorial Chapel, San Francisco. Entombment will be at Salem Garden Mausoleum, Colma.

The family requests memorial contributions to the Franklin I. Harris Memorial Fund, Mount Zion Hospital, San Francisco.

HERBERT EVANS

Funeral for Dr. Herbert McLean Evans of Berkeley, internationally known biologist and father of Gail Evans LaForge of Mill Valley, will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow in the Berkeley Hills Chapel.

Evans, 88, died Saturday in a Berkeley hospital.

He was best known as the discoverer of Vitamin E and co-discoverer, with J. A. Long, of the human growth hormone.

He was born in Modesto and received his bachelor of science degree at University of California at Berkeley in 1904. He received his medical degree from John Hopkins University in 1908 and joined the faculty there. He was appointed professor of anatomy in the Berkeley campus in 1915.

Doctor Evans retired in 1952 but was recalled to duty each year to continue his research, finally retiring in 1966. He was the author of more than 750 scientific papers.

He was a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, a member of the National Academy of Sciences, the Kaiserliche Leopoldinische-Carolinische Du Deutche Akademie Der Naturforscher, Societas Regina Medicorum Budapestinensis, Americah Physiological Society and the Society for Experimental Biological Medicine. He was past president of the American Kysociation of Anatomists, a founder of the History of Science Society, Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi, Alpha Delta Pi, Alpha Omega Alpha and Nu Sigma Nu.

He is also survived by eight grandchildren, three of whom are the children of another daughter, the late Marion Evans Kaesar.

Editor Resigns Over Ali Fight News Ban

MANCHESTER, N.H. (UPI) —Publisher William Loeb, who has refused to carry any advertising in his newspapers for tonight's Cassius Clay -Joe Frazier fight because of Clay's refusal to enter the Army, also has banned all news stories.

The news blackout triggered the resignation of David James as managing editor of the St. Albans (Vt.) Messenger, who charged Loeb with "suppression of the news and press censorship."

Loeb owns the Manchester Union Leader, the largest newspaper in New Hampshire, the St. Albanys Messenger, the New Hampshire Sunday News and the Connecticut Sunday Herald.

In a front page editorial in the Vermont Sunday News, Loeb reiterated his longstanding criticism of Clay's refusal to serve in the armed forces.

"Any able bodied Amrican who will not fight for his own country doesn't deserve to be allowed to fight in the prize ring and make millions of dollars just because someone else is fighting the battles he ought to be fighting on the battlefronts of the world," the editorial said.

Campaign Starts

The campaign for San Rafael Board of Education got under way Saturday night as Francis X. Kelly launched his candidacy with an open house at Cal's Steak House in downtown San Rafael.

MEN'S HAIR STYLISTS

Modern Barbers Are Ahead By A Hair

By JEFF GREER

Dredged from dim childhood memories, there is a rhyme that goes something like:

"His hair, oh, his hair!
Looked like it was combed
With the legs of a chair!"

But now we know that that windswept, unruly look about the locks of the male Kennedys and many other "beautiful people" is the result of much careful effort and a fair amount of money.

The new hair styles are a mixed blessing, according to Marin County barbers. Some of them echo the nationwide complaint that too much hair is staying on men's heads instead of piling up under the barber's chair.

The average Marinite is visiting his barber less often these days, said Manuel Martin, operator of a Strawberry barber shop. He is secretary-treasurer of Marin Barbers' Local 582. He and others said the old two to three-week routine has now stretched to as much as seven weeks.

But barbers "are educating themselves to manage the new styles and offering a wider range of services," Martin reported.

Al Pedroli, owner of a San Rafael barber shop, felt that "It's not the men themselves. It's their wives, who figure their husbands will look younger and more dignified" with their hair not so closely shorn.

"And the older persons are trying to keep up with the younger ones. The younger ones are trying to rejuvenate the world," Pedroli asserted.

He said that new men's clothing styles, particularly from Europe, influence hair styles. The Continental businessman's shaggy look of recent years is "getting a little shorter to look like a haircut but not a haircut," according to the hair styling magazines, Pedroli said.

He recalled that "anyone who wore a 'zoot suit' 20 years ago had to have a duck tail. Short hair in back just didn't go with the clothes."

A Novato area barber, who didn't want to be named, was more critical of the longer hair. He charged it was throwing many barbers out of work. "You'll see one or two chairs in every barber shop empty, with no barber behind them," he argued.

Pedroli and other barbers mentioned that there had been an upsurge of men's hair products compared to a few years ago.

"A lot of the barber schools are pushing their students to use more equipment and products — which the schools sell," Pedroli said. He charged many of the barber college graduates are "stylists who want to go to Hollywood, but they can't give all-around haircuts, crew cuts, short sideburns and the like."

Not so, said the operator of one of Marin's men's hair styling establishments.

Steve Hasse, who runs an ornate men's hair salon in Northgate, declared barber college graduates are going jobless and older barbers are quitting their trade "because they don't know how to handle the longer hair."

Hasse's shop operates by appointment only and he said its appointment book stays filled.

The full treatment in Hasse's shop is a far cry from what he called the "three-minute routine that is all some barbers know how to give."

His routine involves a special shampoo ("with protein to build up your hair, not break it down"), a hair dryer, a special scissoring ("we almost never use the clippers") and even a curling iron. A finishing shot of hair spray often is used to make sure the wind doesn't destroy the carefully achieved windswept look.

The whole process takes about 90 minutes.

As for "what the boys talk about under the dryer," they don't, much, in Hasse's shop.

"I'm too busy concentrating on what I'm doing to talk much," Hasse said. "If they want to talk, they can do it over a beer later in a bar."

In place of talk, a patron can spend his time looking at the Victorian era decor, with walls covered by placques Hasse and his co-stylists won in competitions, and certificates from special hairstyling courses.

Hasse gives novice patrons a sort of education along with the works, often warning them that products they had used were damaging their hair.

"Protein will build it up; protein's magnetic. It'll make your hair look healthy and neat without breaking it down like everything else does," he said.

The youthful hair stylist has no hesitation in telling a customer to shed a beard in favor of a moustache, or in saying that he could not properly style a nape because "you've been butchered with the clippers."

Hasse's final advice is "you can comb your hair with your fingers. It'll stay that way for days."

The bill was $10.

Nowadays some barbers may be hurting, but for others, it's shampoo and a haircut, eighty bits.

Reasons For Higher Gas, Electric Bills

Cold, windy weather with increased heating requirements are responsible for higher gas and electric bills this month, according to Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

Gas consumption records were broken from mid-December to early March, with highs ranging from 3.63 billion cubic feet on Dec. 2 to an all-time record of 3.76 billion cubic feet March 2.

Average daily gas usage for the 1970-71 winter season is well above that of a year ago, the company noted. This January's average was 3.1 billion cubic feet, compared to last January's 2.4 billion cubic feet.

Electrical usage also has shown an increase, PG&E said. The average residential customer used 461 kilowatt hours per month in 1971, compared to 435 kilowatt hours last year.

Congressmen Offering $100,000 Reward In Bombing Of Capital

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Congressional leaders today offered a $100,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who set off a bomb in the U. S. capitol last week.

The reward announcement followed a meeting of leaders of the House and Senate to discuss tightening security of the Capitol in wake of the bombing which heavily damaged several rooms in the Senate wing in the early morning of last Monday.

The Senate's leaders, Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and Hugh Scott, R-Pa., also announced that the Capitol police would be converted into a fully professionalized force, with all patronage positions terminated.

The reward money has been contributed by private donors, the leaders said.

In a statement, House and Senate leaders said the $100,000 reward has been posted "for information leading to the arrest of the person or persons responsible for the bombing of the United States Capitol, March 1."

The statement added: "Any person or persons providing information will be fully protected. Sources of information will be regarded as completely confidential."

The chief of the Capitol's 591-man police force, James M. Powell, has put his men on a six-day week to compensate for a shortage of manpower. Today's announcement of an end to patronage followed a call Sunday by Assistant Senate GOP Leader Robert P. Griffin for a professional force.

DRUGS IN THE CLASSROOM: Threat Or Promise?

By ARNOLD ARNOLD
(First of six articles.)

According to Mr. and Mrs. Youngs of Indianapolis, who lived formerly in Little Rock, Ark., their son Ross and their daughter Michele were diagnosed as suffering from minimal brain dysfunction (MBD) by teachers in their Little Rock primary school. Neither child ever received a neurological examination, while school authorities allegedly attempted to persuade and finally to pressure the Youngs to permit their children to be placed on a drug regimen to modify their behavior and to assist their learning in class.

After three years of refusal and feeling harassed, the Youngs moved to Indianapolis. There both children are doing well inclass, are happy, and get good grades in academic subjects and for behavior. Each is winning prizes for superior achievement in art and in science. Both have learned to read well without drugs and without any special treatment.

The Little Rock School, attended by Ross Youngs, seems to have shown little interest in the fact that he had only a single kidney that functioned, and that he had been in and out of hospitals since early childhood for surgery and other treatment. This would have been sufficient to disturb any child and to cause learning problems in school. But under these circumstances especially, the drugs most commonly used to modify children's behavior and to assist their learning might have proved extremely hazardous.

The Little Rock school denies Mr. and Mrs. Youngs' charges and there is little chance of proving or disproving the various allegations. But the Youngs' case is not an isolated one. Many parents throughout the United States complain of similar experiences.

There areparents who will not admit that their child might be defective and who react unreasonably when special treatment or remedial teaching are recommended. On the other hand, many schools, school districts and states have instituted large-scale drug programs for treating children with learning or behavior problems. The schools refer such troubled or troublesome children to physicians and clinics, most of which are ill-equipped to examine, diagnose or prescribe for them adequately.

According to the National Institute of Mental Health, at least 150,000 school children below puberty ages are given drugs at home and in schools to help make them tractable and to assist their learning. Other estimates suggest that these drugs are presently prescribed for as many as 300,000 and more children, and their numbers are growing. MBD has become a favorite diagnosis for children who are difficult or who do not learn to read properly. Schools in New York, Nevada, California, Michigan, Illinois, Hawaii, Maryland, and lately Indiana are among those who have instituted programs for drug mediated behavior control of school children, in collaboration with clinics and private physicians.

The drugs used are usually Ritalin and amphetamines — "speed" as they are known among adolescent and adult addicts. They belong to the family of wake-up, pep-and reducing pills that accelerate body processes and that have been under attack from health authorities because they are highly addictive and extremely dangerous. But they have a claimed, opposite, calming effect on a very few truly brain-damaged children in pre-adolescent years.

Neither the medical literature nor recent congressional hearings have spelled out that except in rare and special cases, these drugs do have the same effect on pre-puberty children as on adults. Many physicians are not aware of this fact and so an inadequately examined child may equally be "turned on" by such drugs.

They are not a cure even for true MBD children. They merely treat the symptoms, calm a small fractions of these children and make them reachable. The real "cure," if any is possible, lies in the hands of trained and dedicated specialists, teachers and parents, and requires great care, love, dedication and patience.

As used in the schools, these drugs merely keep normal, if difficult and sometimes exceptionally bright children, euphoric or frozen in their seats in dull and regimented classrooms. Many of them are just bored or suffer temporary disciplinary, emotional, learning or other problems that have nothing to do with MBD. Others who deviate from the expectations of standardized intelligence or achievement tests tend to be lumped together into the general "minimal brain dysfunction" and "learning disability" categories.

One highly respected pediatric neurologist, Dr. aothur Rose of New York, states that while some of these drugs offer temporary relief to some MBD children, they represent a tiny fraction of even these.

One of the many dangers of indiscriminate use of drugs for learning assistance and behavior control is that children are given the impression, already far too prevalent among them, that any problem can be solved through drug use. While fighting drug addiction among teenagers, some schools are turning primary grade children on to them.

It is indeed alarming when a social scientist, Dr. Herbert Krugman, an executive of General Electric Corp., suggests in a recent article in Opinion Quarterly: "The time may come when the mass media may create special (subliminal) programs to help people modify certain attitudes and behavior . . . For early childhood education there may be the opportunity to accept the fact that many children fidget in class . . . Mild drugging of these children . . . may be helpful to their educational achievement."

Other scientists sensationally predict that within the foreseeable future all children are likely to be given drugs along with their morning milk or juice to aid their memory and learning in school. It is foolhardy to pin our hopes on such simplistic solutions in the absence of conclusive research or real knowledge.

The 1970s is likely to be the decade in which great progress will be made in the sciences that deal with the physical and chemical properties of the brain and of life itself. But to date no chemical has been discovered to cure brain damage or dysfunction, to help people overcome undesirable innate or acquired traits, or to aid memory or learning. Some drugs can aid in the treatment of a few, properly diagnosed brain damaged children. But no one knows how they work or why or how they affect children in the long run.

Shortening Work Week To Get On Welfare

An increasing number of labor unions are demanding, and getting, a 35-hour work week for members. Several recently have proposed that the work week be shortened to 32½ hours.

The Tamalpais High School District local of the California Federation of Teachers in a recent presentation suggested that teachers have a maximum classroom load of four periods per day, plus an equal amount of time during the working day to prepare the lessons — thus presumably avoiding home work. If each class were an hour long, this would mean 16⅔ hours of classes and 16⅔ hours of preparation per week — a total of 33⅓ hours.

IF THE TEACHERS should get this, and if other unions should get a 32½-hour week, married members with children would be entitled to apply for welfare as "unemployed" under the standards of California's Aid to Families With Dependent Children program.

The state's AFDC rules now classify anyone who is employed for less than 35 hours per week as "unemployed."

This is just one of the many strange things in welfare laws and regulations that lead to mis-use of what was intended as a beneficent effort of government to protect citizens against dire poverty.

This one can be corrected by a simple change in rules. Robert B. Carleson, the new director of the state's Social Welfare Department, has scheduled hearings on reducing the maximum hours of employment for AFDC eligibility to 100 per month — which is the federal requirement.

AT FIRST GLANCE, it might seem there would be no likelihood of a teacher, for instance, qualifying for welfare, even though employed less than 35 hours per week. However, that's only at first glance.

There are other things in the never-never land of welfare regulations that make it quite possible for a well-paid person on a short work week to qualify for AFDC.

First, there is the federal "30 and one-third rule." By this, $30 is lopped off the gross monthly income, then one-third of the remainder is lopped off, before figuring the net income that may entitle welfare.

The state then subtracts also the average federal income and social security taxes applicable to the earnings, allowance for transportation (which may include payments on a new car), union dues, uniforms, child care expenses at $50 per month per child, and $25 for miscellaneous personal expenses.

A PERSON RECEIVING $970 per month for a job that takes less than 35 hours per week winds up by this method with "net income" of $105 per month.

The state's formula sets a minimum of $338 per month to support a family with three children. Therefore, the fictitiously "unemployed household head is entitled to draw $223 per month AFDC.

IT IS TO GET RID of such nonsense as this that Gov. Ronald Reagan has proposed sweeping and detailed welfare reform.

There may be "bugs" in the governor's plan. There probably are. But the legislators who are attacking it should take thought of what they are protecting: a system by which the person with a short work week and fairly high pay is subsidized while one employed for longer hours at less pay is not.

Antitrust Law Application To Unions Needs Clarifying

In the Clayton and Norris-LaGuardia Acts, Congress limited the application of the antitrust laws to labor unions but, contrary to a widespread belief, it did not exempt unions from the laws. The courts have occasionally tried to clear up the resulting cloudiness but with only limited success.

The Supreme Court made one such effort the other day when it ruled on a case involving the United Mine Workers. Under an agreement with large coal operators the UMW said it would not enter into wage pacts "applicable to employes covered by this contract" on any basis other than "those specified by this contract."

Subsequently the union began to press smaller coal operators to accept the terms of the national contract. A number of the smaller operators brought suit, charging that the union had conspired with the larger firms to drive the little companies out of business by forcing on them wage costs that they could not pay.

THE SUIT was dismissed by a federal district court. It said that, under the rules applicable to most cases, the UMW "impliedly" did agree to an illegal conspiracy, but because of the Norris-LaGuardia Act the union was not liable. An appeals court later upheld the ruling.

The Supreme Court, however, reversed the lower courts. It did not hold that the UMW had violated the anti-trust laws,

Resignation Should Not Be Reported

I have given much thought to the matter, before writing you about your front page story, announcing San Rafael High School's Principal, Dr. Alan Ellsberg, is leaving the district. I was at the PTA board meeting when he mentioned the fact, and although he did not specifically ask us not to make it public yet, I cannot believe anyone there did not get that impression. Therefore it was a breech of good faith, of which you are notorious.

The I-J can send both reporter and photographer to the school to get a front-page picture ("newsworthy"?) of trash on his desk, but hasn't the courtesy to even make a phone call to verify the facts in this case.

. . . The I-J has made an unattractive name for itself in the community for this continual knit-picking of San Rafael High School, and no other high school in the county. When something occurs to warrant news coverage, fine. But it is rather elementary that criticism is much more effective when it is constructive than when it is destructive — as many of your "news stories" and editorials have been. Don't you understand the damage you are doing to the many students who are trying to create pride in their school?

Mr. Bryce W. Anderson's series of articles on schools have been in many cases informative and enlightening, but his obvious antagonism of SRHS is unjustified and offensive.

Now that you have put Dr. Ellsberg in the position of "lame duck", which I should think would make it difficult for him to effectively administer for the remainder of his term, will you please consider calling a halt to your abuse, and try to give the new administrator, whoever he may be, a helping hand and a little cooperation? County Bookmobile Found Inadequate

We love to read. We enjoy going to the library. However, with small children, one 2½ years and one 8 months, we have to depend on the services of the bookmobile for our library. The bookmobile is sadly lacking in everything: size, ease of entering (those steps are difficult for an adult, nearly impossible for a child to negotiate), many of the children's books are stacked in cartons and not visible, the lighting is bad, there is no ventilation, more than five people in the bookmobile present a crowd.

It seems very sad that a county such as Marin, that prides itself on so much, has to provide its residents with such an ugly, insufficient excuse for a library on wheels. What can be done to get a decent sized bookmobile with attractive shelves lined with books, decent lighting and all the other basic amenities that make going to the library fun rather than a drab, meaningless experience on a dirty old truck?

Mrs. LAWRENCE M. GREEN
San Rafael.

(According to the San Rafael Public Works, the residence of reader Green on Surrey Lane is within the San Rafael city limits, not within the county library district which provides the bookmobile; so the service, however inadequate, is something which the Greens are provided free by the county in view of their distance from the San Rafael Library. — Editor.)

Pepperland Gets Vote Of Support

I was pleased to see Pepperland survive the most recent scrimmage, but I am sure there will be others. I was disappointed that counsel (Joseph E.) Sheeks didn't ask if it was proposed to close all of the high schools in Marin County, since there is pot smoking going on there too — not condoned by school authorities, by any means, but do they deny it's happening?

I had the pleasure of meeting Mr. (Ben) Blatt on one occasion and was impressed by this young business man (and that's what he is, you know — not a purveyor of psalmody). He is simply bringing young music of quality to the young people of today, and doing a good job of it under great duress. I say, "Hang tough, Mr. Blatt, and carry on!"

'Reichstag Fire' Bomb Plot Won't Undermine Government

WASHINGTON — Those who planted that bomb in the men's room of the U.S. Capitol aren't going to accomplish what they want.

They want to so infuriate the American people that Congress will be driven to massive repression.

They hope to push a free society into such a state of fear and uncertainty that it will commit self-destruction.

They are doing this by taking a page from the book of the German Nazis who themselves set fire to the Reichstag to provide a pretext for crushing the extreme left.

THE AMERICAN bomb-planters apparently were trying to precipitate a "Reichstag fire" in reverse; that is, they wanted to stampede Congress into such a mood of repression as would put the government on the defensive and turn the bomb-planters into martyrs.

It is not going to work.

They have misjudged the temper of the times. Perhaps a year ago, shortly after the Kent State and Jackson State campus tragedies, a bombing of symbolic terror might have had the ingredients of such a consequence.

But not today. It is not happening and I do not believe it is going to happen.

WHOEVER DID this evil thing, whether it be the Weathermen whose official spokesman, Bernadine Dohrn, stated publicly recently that they were putting aside violence, or some other misguided revolutionary, they're not helping themselves or the causes they serve.

They are losing friends and not influencing people. It must be very disconcerting for them to find that they're not even making important enemies.

A more prudent, more professional and more thorough protection will have to be provided for all congressional buildings. Such protection has been very hit-and-miss in the past and has often provided more patronage than protection.

That will be done, but wise public officials are warning that the one thing the bomb-planters most want is to create a climate of hysteria and a demand for extreme repression.

Democratic leaders Sen. Mike Mansfield and Republican leader Sen. Hugh Scott are counselling against yielding to any such temptation. President Nixon is saying that the public buildings must be kept open to the public and attorney General Mitchell is carefully describing the bombing incident as "something less than a conspiracy."

IN A STATEMENT published in the New York Times Jan. 19, Miss Dohrn claimed that the Weathermen were going to turn away from bombing and come "out into the air." She said that the "deaths of three friends (Weathermen who lost their lives in an explosion at one of their own 'bomb factories') ended the military concept of what we are doing."

But among those who are rushing to take credit for the Capitol bombing, a letter signed "The Weather Underground" to the Associated Press suggests that the Weathermen are back at the old stand doing what comes naturally to the violent-prone.

The Weathermen have long been on the side of violence. Either they prefer violence or they know that they have no chance whatsoever of winning the American people to their views by democratic means.

THIS ISN'T the first time a bomber has put an explosive in the Capitol of the United States. But Congress is showing no sign of losing its poise.

My own conviction is that if democratic government is ever undermined in the United States it will not be by the bombing or a building; it will be by the too feeble functionings of its institutions.

That's what we need to watch far more than the bombers.

Vanishing Right-Of-Way Endangers Transit Plans

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Virtually every mass transit system envisioned for Marin depends on an exclusive right-of-way, but the last remaining railroad right-of-way to Southern Marin soon may vanish unless prompt action is taken to preserve it.

This timely warning comes from Arthur J. Giddings of Larkspur, long an advocate of reviving the old joint railroad and ferry system that served Marin until the Golden Gate Bridge was built.

Regardless of whether that system ever would be practical again, Giddings is on the button when he warns that the right-of-way to Sausalito may be lost forever unless its use for transit is reserved immediately.

THE OLD RAILROAD right-of-way to Tiburon has been sold to that city for use as a bicycle and pedestrian path, and Giddings fears that the same end will come to the Sausalito line.

His concern was triggered last month at news that A. G. Schoonmaker Co. will sell its Sausalito property. The company was the major weight blocking the last two unsuccessful bids by the railroad to abandon the Sausalito line.

With Schoonmaker gone, the railroad can be expected to try again — and very well may succeed this time.

GIDDINGS, 68, a retired electrician at Northwestern Pacific Railroad's Tiburon shops, says that most people have no idea of the asset about to vanish. Judging from the lack of action by the county and the Golden Gate Bridge District, he apparently is right.

A related suggestion came to us to demonstrate the possibilities of the line by hauling public officials down to Sausalito on a self-propelled car. The railroad has such a car, used between Willits and Eureka Friday through Monday, and the idea was to bring it down to Marin for a midweek test run from San Rafael to Sausalito.

Not a bad idea — if the railroad can be convinced to give it a try. The railroad presumably would not want to do anything to prolong its Sausalito operation, but it may be willing to try the test run as a pitch to sell the right-of-way.

Probably no one could afford it except the bridge district.

ANOTHER SUGGESTION was that the Schoonmaker property be converted into a ferry terminal. Also intriguing.

Giddings' thoughts on what happened to the Sausalito line cast a novel light on the situation in Sausalito. He objects that the Tiburon line was "relegated into oblivion by the wishes of a local few for a bicycle trail. No local group should ever have the power to make changes that can impair the welfare of the vast majority."

That hardly sounds like the system in Sausalito.

Associate Warden Takes Issue With 'Middle Class' Prison Report

Although James Park, associate warden at San Quentin Prison, says that author Jessica Mitford "was kind of mixed up" when she quoted him in an article in Atlantic Monthly, he remembers his interview with her fondly.

"I kept telling her that middle class persons didn't understand what jungles prisons are," Park said. "She got a funny look on her face when I said that, and finally a woman with her said, 'No one's ever called Jessica middle-class before.' "

Park laughingly explained that it soon occurred to him that Miss Mitford, an Englishwoman, comes from a country where class distinctions are taken pretty seriously and that the author definitely is upper crust.

AS TO THE MEAT of Miss Mitford's article, entitled "Kind and Usual Punishment in California," Parks said that the noted author confused two issues.

"A prisoner in a state prison accused of a new felony while in jail has no legal rights at all," Miss Mitford wrote. She quoted Park as saying, "We find him guilty or not guilty administratively."

Actually, Park explained, when he made that statement he was not referring to prisoners accused of new felonies.

"Of course, prisoners accused of felonies have the same rights in court as anyone else," Park asserted.

What he was talking about, he explained, was cases where it is not possible to make formal charges against a convict.

"Take a case where one prisoner stabs another one. The witnesses are afraid and won't testify, so the district attorney can't prosecute. But we can often figure out who the guilty person is and take steps to deal with him administratively," he said.

AS FOR MISS Mitford's blasting of the California system of indeterminate sentences, Park said, "People don't seem to remember what an advance the indeterminate sentence was when it first was made law."

Under this system, prisoners who are deemed ready to reenter society are released earlier than those who are not judged so. Miss Mitford is right when she says that the indeterminate sentence is universally hated by the convict — who would much rather know exactly how much time he has to serve.

"I'm afraid that a change to a definite sentence would cause judges to give longer sentences than most men now serve," Park said. "I think it would hack up the minimum in most cases."

He feels, however, he said, that persons convicted of such crimes as burglary probably should receive definite sentences.

"It's when you get into sex offenders and that kind of thing" that Park feels determinate sentences don't make much sense.

Planners Due Sign Ordinance

The San Rafael Planning Commission is slated to recommend changes to the proposed sign ordinance at its 7:30 p.m. meeting tomorrow in City Hall.

The ordinance under consideration would restrict new signs to a maximum of one square foot per foot of building frontage. After final approval by the city council, it would also require that present signs that do not conform would have to be removed within 90 days after adoption.

The commission is also slated to discuss and make recommendations concerning the ordinance governing tidelands and waterways.

Prison Reform Lacks Appeal For Politicians

By ERNEST B. FERGURSON

PARCHMAN, Miss. — As you approach Parchman from either direction along U.S. 49 W, the thing that announces where you are is a big sign with the words "Mississippi State Penitentiary" flanked by a picture of a guard aiming a shotgun and on the other side a bloodhound sniffing human tracks.

That is Parchman Farm's version of public relations.

Not long ago I described the system of conjugal visits allowed prisoners here in terms that might lead the unknowing reader to believe that Parchman is an example of enlightened prison reform right across the board. Not so.

In fact, permitting prisoners to have sex with their visiting wives began years ago largely because those involved were black and the white officials who allowed it considered that because blacks didn't have any morals anyway it didn't matter.

What began with shoulder-shrugging tolerance now is official policy, and other prison systems across the country are experimenting with conjugal visits. But Parchman is at least as laggard as the rest in otherwise treating prisoners as human beings.

Because it is in the deepest South and so many of its 1,800 inmates are blacks, it may be more so. It has had a reputation for decades as the end of the line. Life here is the subject of one of the most pathetic of the old work blues songs.

Parchman Farm runs at an unbelievably low per-prisoner per-day cost — $2 for everything: food, shelter, clothing, guards and what there is of rehabilitation. That is because the inmates are scattered over 22,000 acres of fertile delta soil, efficiently growing enough cotton and soybeans so the penitentiary can return to the state each year about $1.7 million of its $2.8 million operating outlay.

That fact, the spread-out farming operation, stands with geography and the blackness of the prison population behind most of the scandal that has festered here.

Last month a federal court ruled that 163 persons arrested in a 1965 civil rights march at Natchez are entitled to cash damages because the treatment they received on arrival here "violated even minimal standards of decency mandated in the treatment of convicted felons . . . That treatment has no place here. We deal with human beings, not dumb driven cattle."

The defendants in that federal suit included two Natchez police officials and C. B. Breazeale, former superintendent at Parchman.

Now there's a new superintendent, a one-time sheriff named Thomas Cook, but it does not mean the scandals have ended.

At Greenville, the family of Danny Bennett, a prisoner who was beaten to death last June by prison trusties, filed a federal suit for damages six days after the finding in favor of the Natchez demonstrators.

Still another suit is pending against the use of armed trusties. A joint legislative prison study committee, one of many, has called for other changes. Cook is actively pushing them during the current legislative session at Jackson.

And that, eventually, is where prison reform always founders — not just in Jackson, but in Albany, Annapolis, Sacramento and every other state capital. It founders on politics.

A convict, especially a black one, is at the very bottom of the list of citizens to whom any politician feels he must cater. Typically, an elected official is afraid even to seem to care about the prison situation. This is truer now than ever, re-enforced by such unsurprising evidence as last week's Newsweek poll finding that 75 per cent of Americans think convicted criminals are let off too easily and put that at the top of the things that ail American justice.

Cook, understanding politics, ascribes good motives to those opposing his efforts to end the armed trusty system, consolidating many of his prisoners in one more manageable center to make that feasible, and to make prison board appointments nonpolitical.

But state Sen. William Burgin, chairman of the appropriations committee, declared that he was "a whole lot more concerned about a number of other things in this state than building a concrete palace for law violators," and said the state House "went wild" when it voted to end the trusty system.

It hardly needs adding that Burgin is ambitious to move up to Congress to replace Thomas Abernethy of the First District, and he is finely attuned to the opinions of the folks back home in Columbus, near the Alabama border.

$17,000 Theft On List Of Burglaries

Twenty residential burglaries were reported by Marin and Southern Sonoma law enforcement agencies last week, including the theft of more than $17,000 in personal possessions from a San Rafael home.

Residential burglaries reported in unincorporated areas were:

LARKSPUR

Wednesday — Personal possessions valued at about $10,000 taken Tuesday from the home of Truman O. Williford and Andrew W. Marquis, 29 Lark Court.

Friday — Personal possessions valued at about $318 taken between Feb. 24 and Thursday from the home of John Meloney, 36 Tamalpais Avenue.

MILL VALLEY

Monday — Personal possessions and liquor valued at $248 stolen Friday from a garage storage area at the home of Daniel M. McKenna, 316 Eldridge Avenue.

NOVATO

Monday — Personal possessions and cash with a total value of $100 taken Feb. 26 from the home of Homer Joseph Kinsley, 406 Ridge Road.

Thursday — Cash totaling $55 and a personal possession valued at $5 taken Wednesday from the home of Peter Schmidt, 1529 Hill Road.

SAN RAFAEL

Monday — Cash totaling $10.65 stolen Feb. 26 from the home of Norma H. Young of 332 Devon Drive.

Monday — Personal items valued at $150 stolen from the garage at the home of LaFayette Noah of 96 Elena Circle sometime during the last two weeks.

Thursday — Personal items valued at $350 taken from the home of Thomas E. Grayson of 136 San Rafael Avenue between Feb. 20 and Wednesday.

Thursday — Personal items valued at $17,150 reportedly stolen Feb. 26 from the home of Marilyn A. Miller of 107 Bungalow Avenue.

Friday — Personal possessions valued at $100 taken Thursday from the room of Michael J. Constantini of Dorm 3, Room 338, San Rafael Military Academy.

No residential burglary was reported in Belvedere, Cotati, Fairfax, Corte Madera, Petaluma, Rohnert Park, Ross, San Anselmo, Sausalito and Tiburon.

Burglaries in unincorporated areas reported by Marin County sheriff's deputies were:

FAIRFAX AREA

Thursday — Personal possessions valued between $700 and $1,000 taken Feb. 28 from the residence of Hildegard Berliner of Bolinas Road.

HOMESTEAD

INVERNESS

Tuesday — Personal possessions valued at $1,500 taken from the residence of Marilyn R. Stokeld of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Marin Rangers Finish Course

Four rangers from state parks in Marin County have completed a nine-week training program in park operation and law enforcement run by the state Department of Parks and Recreation, the department said.

Completing the course at Asilomar Conference Grounds in Pacific Grove, Monterey County, were Henry L. Richards of Stinson Beach State Park, Donald M. Ritchie of Samuel P. Taylor State Park, Larry R. Helm of Mount Tamalpais State Park and Robert C. Grace of Angel Island State Park.

Indian Election Toll Mounts To 74 Dead

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Two more violent deaths were reported in Calcutta today, bringing to 74 the number killed since India's general elections began March 1.

One man was found shot to death and another stabbed fatally after supporters of a political party went on a rampage and attacked their rivals.

Cox Family Gets Nixon Invitation

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President and Mrs. Nixon have invited the family and friends of Edward Finch Cox to an "Irish Evening at the White House" March 16 at which they are expected to announce the engagement of their daughter Tricia to the Harvard law student.

Mrs. Nixon's 59th birthday falls on that date and there will be a joint celebration. Guest of honor will be Prime Minister and Mrs. John Lynch of Ireland.

Invitations have been received by Col. and Mrs. Howard Ellis Cox and by many of their 23-year-old son's friends. The wedding is expected to be held in the White House about June 12.

High-Flying 'Cinderella' Murdered

NEW YORK (UPI)—An ex-showgirl, known as the Cinderella of the Ozarks before she married one financier who fled to Brazil to escape fraud charges and who later became secretary to another, was found stabbed to death in her littered hotel room Sunday, her face bashed in.

"It's a vicious murder and it seems as if it was done for revenge," Deputy Police Inspector William Connelie said today. The medical examiner's office was trying to determine how long she had been dead.

The victim was Sarah Naomi Wallman Belle, 36, who had been married to Earl Belle and currently was secretary to Lowell Birrell. Both men had constructed financial empires in the 1950s and both fled to Brazil when charged with fraud.

Mrs. Belle had been indicted with Birrell and Anthony Z. Lieberman, operator of a Philadelphia travel agency in June 1969 in another stock fraud case involving a New Jersey drug firm, but the charge against her later was dropped.

An employe of the Hotel Chalfonte near Lincoln Center found Mrs. Belle's body on the living room floor of her 16th floor, 2 1-2 room suite. The rug was spattered with blood and more than 200 empty whisky, vodka and wine bottles and knee-high piles of newspapers littered the room.

Police said the $240-a-month suite had been registered since Jan. 30, 1970, to Corporate Image Builders, Ltd., of 475 Fifth Ave., a management consulting firm started by Birrell some years ago.

An official of the once fashionable hotel, which now takes in welfare families, said Birrell had paid the rent by the month.

Birrell, who lives with his wife in Brigantine, N.J., a shore community more than 100 miles from here, came to New York by bus Sunday night to tell the police all he knew about Mrs. Belle.

Elevator operator Leon Leone told police he discovered Mrs. Belle's door ajar at about 2:30 p.m. Sunday and saw her body face down on the living room rug.

Police said Mrs. Belle, who was wearing green slacks and a white blouse but no shoes, had been stabbed repeatedly and her face had been bashed in with a blunt instrument.

The former showgirl married Belle, now 38, in 1958 before he fled to Brazil to escape charges in connection with the disappearance of $875,000 from the Eastern Investment Development Corp. He obtained a proxy Bolivian divorce from her in 1961.

Marine Survey Work To Begin March 20

A San Francisco company will be doing about 15 days of marine survey work near Angel Island beginning March 20, the Army Corps of Engineers has announced.

The corps advised mariners to beware of a floating barge.

Pacifists Disclose Secret Peace Talks

PARIS (UPI)—Chief Hanoi negotiator Xuan Thuy told a group of American pacifists that he had resumed the long suspended secret peace negotiations with President Nixon's chief peace negotiator, a spokesman for the pacifist group said today.

Stan Dale of Chicago, a newsman for radio station WDAI in the Chicago area, said Xuan Thuy made the disclosure during a meeting with some of the 170 American pacifists currently in Paris for meeting with the delegates to the Paris peace talks.

"Xuan Thuy told us he had met privately with Ambassador (David K. E.) Bruce several times," Dale told newsmen at a news conference called by the pacifist groups from the American Friends Service Committee, clergy and laymen concerned, and the fellowship of reconciliation.

The remark was the first indication that secret negotiations between the United States and North Vietnam had been resumed.

Both sides broke their self-imposed rules on secrecy surrounding the so-call "private talks" more than 18 months ago.

Xuan Thuy publicly criticized the way in which Henry Cabot Lodge handled the talks, and shortly thereafter President Nixon disclosed the number of meetings and said they had not produced any significant progress.

ALL THE WAY from Nigeria, West Africa, comes Mrs. Palmer Ofuoku to live in Marin while her husband spends 18 months at the Baptist Seminary in Strawberry working for the master of divinity degree. She displays some of the things she brought from home — at left a wooden tray she carved herself in school showing an elephant and decorative trees, a wood handled shopping bag in which she carries groceries (in her lap), and in her hand a handbag of young donkey skin such as Nigerian women favor. In Marin just over a month, Rebecca Ofuoku is studying English and music while here. (I-J photo by Jim Kean)

Fear Of U.S. Turned To Joy

Rebecca Ofuoku left her native Nigeria in January to join her husband, Palmer, with some fears about being accepted as a black in the United States.. But her fears turned to joy when she found warmth and friendliness both in Alabama and in Marin, here she is living while her husband studies at Golden Gate Baptist Seminary in Strawberry.

Asked how she felt about coming to a strange country, Rebecca replied, "I had a mixed feeling. I was sad to leave my children and my people, but glad to join my husband, as he had been away for three years. I was afraid, too, because I was told some horrible stories about the feelings of people in Alabama toward the blacks, but when I got to Birmingham to visit a friend who grew up in Nigeria, I found a different thing entirely. The people were so friendly, and I liked them so much."

In order to be with her husband for the last 18 months of his work for the master of divinity degree, Rebecca had to leave four of her six children in a boarding high school in Nigeria and the two younger and an adopted nephew with her sister.

Her husband is an experienced pastor and a former teacher. In fact, he was Rebecca's teacher before they were married. In preparation for their return, Rebecca is studying English and music. With her mission school background she is already fluent in English.

DURING THE war in Nigeria, Rebecca said, food was very scarce, so she grew yam, cassava, corn, okra, and raised chickens to feed her family. Her church was not closed as some were, but many people were afraid to go, afraid that a bomb might explode, she said.

Speaking of her family background, she said,

"While my father was away, acting as bodyguard and messenger for his father, the chief, my mother made most of the living for the family, as Nigerian women often do.

"MANY WOMEN still make the living. Women are farmers, women are traders. Women work hard and get old so fast. A woman will have a baby on her back and carry a heavy load on her head, or ride her bicycle a long distance carrying a load. She is lucky if she has children old enough to do the cooking. If not, she will cook after she gets through working all day. The uneducated men do just hatever they want to. The educated men don't like to have their wives work so hard," she explained.

Indicating that changes have come in Nigeria, Rebecca said that industrialization is taking place.

"We produce all of our own clothes and dishes now, but we do not make any cars or bicycles yet. We still import sugar and milk. Young people can still build their own homes when they marry. Very few rent. Land is not expensive and they are able to put up concrete block houses."

Changes are not so noticeable in food and cooking. "In Nigeria cooking takes a very long time. We cook over an open fire, outdoors. All the food is fresh. We have yams that weigh from 18 to 20 pounds. We make two different things from yam: yam flour, like instant potatoes, and boiled or fried yam with cassava which we grate to make garri.

Then we have plantain. When it is ripe you slice and fry it in palm oil or ground nut oil. 'Tis so good, so sweet, like sweet potato. For seasonings we eat a lot of hot pepper and tomato. We grind tomato and onion," she said.

"We have fruits, pineapple, mango, avocado-pear, guava. The greatest delicacy is fresh cheese, made from cow milk, not boiled. It is white and very tender.

"IN CALIFORNIA I do not know how to cook. It is good that most of the food is almost cooked. You just warm up and eat. But bakery is difficult for me."

In spite of Marin County's "cold" weather, Rebecca has made herself very much at home, living in a seminary apartment and making friends with other student wives.

FOR EQUAL LEGAL RIGHTS

Financier's Quiet Crusade

By JOAN LISETOR

"I'm not a Carrie Nation," says Lorraine L. Blair, "but it is up to women like me to help bring about the necessary changes and bring to the attention of the public that there are laws that discriminate against women."

In Marin from her Chicago home to promote her book, "Answers To Your Everyday Money Question," which has just come out in paperback, Mrs. Blair discussed her 36 years in the traditionally male world of finance.

Mrs. Blair heads the Finance Forum of America, an educational finance forum which she founded as the Women's Finance Forum of America in 1935 for the working girl to help with personal budgeting.

"MY MOTHER and I lost our estates during the Depression. I had to go to work to support my small daughters, my mother and a large family of aunts," she says. "In the finance world Ilearned things I wanted to share with other women. Women's clubs were having lectures on art, so I lectured to them on money — how to handle it.

"The women asked, 'Can't I bring my husband, my father, my boyfriend?' I started letting the men come but waited 25 years to change the name."

The twice widowed grandmother is a member of Presidents' Commission on the Status of Women. She and the other 19 members meet four times a year in Washington, D. C., as an advisory council to the President. Her specialty is the Equal Rights Amendment.

"Mrs. Chisholm (Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y.) says she has been discriminated against more as a woman than as black. We must bring sexual discriminations to the attention of all," she says.

"The Equal Rights Amendment would be better understood if it were called the equal legal rights and responsibilities amendment. People would understand it gives men rights too, and it has nothing to do with personal relations and nothing to do with opening doors or giving up seats, but if I wanted a seat on the Stock Exchange I wouldn't want to be refused on the basis of sex.

"IF A woman qualifies and is physically fit for a job the basis should not be sex. If a woman wants to be a jockey, a taxi driver or lift weights, the law should not discriminate. Some men are not qualified for these things, but it should be based on ability not the law."

If the Senate passed the Equal Rights Amendment today it would take seven years before it went into effect, Mrs. Blair estimates.

"Equal rights make beautiful relationships between men and women," says Mrs. Blair. "If each has a career each must respect the other's. Marriage should not be a 90-10 arrangement. Each must contribute, and one should not dominate the other. They should be partners and not inhibit one another.

"The ideal husband encourages his wife's talents, and a wife should not feel jealousy if her husband is successful.

"It takes a big man, secure within himself, to take pride in his wife's successes."

DURING HER visit in Marin, where she is staying with her granddaughter, Mrs. James D. Lang Jr. of Fairfax, she has made radio and television appearances. In Chicago she appears on her own show, "Finance Forum of the Air," answering the questions of viewers who call her for advice on handling their financial affairs.

Mrs. Blair is proud of the fact that she has broken traditions by being the first woman guest at some of Chicago's most exclusive men's clubs.

In 1952 she founded Lorraine L. Blair, Inc., an investment house and serves as its president and treasurer, and she is also the owner of Raylor Insurance Co., also based in Chicago.

She worked while her children were very young and says she was fortunate to have a family who could care for them. For the women who do not, she says, child care centers are necessary.

"THIRTY MILLION women are employed today, either because they are single or out of the necessity for two incomes. A woman can have children and work, but I don't think every woman who bears children is a mother."

She says she brought her two daughters up with the freedom of choice, and neither chose to go into her businesses, but one daughter, who wanted nothing to do with business, received $5,000 from her husband to invest in the stock market.

"Her interest has grown and she has gradually come into the business," Mrs. Blair says, "but I am glad I never pushed her into it."

"EQUAL RIGHTS make beautiful relationships between men and women," says Mrs. Lorraine L. Blair who learned the world of finance and then taught other women and men how to handle money. She is on the President's Commission on the Status of Women which has endorsed the Equal Rights Amendment for women.

Stay With Children In An Emergency Like Earthquake

By KATHLEEN NEUMEYER

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Lving through an earthquake, hurricane or tornado is a terrifying experience for everyone, not least the children.

In the aftermath of Southern California's devastating earthquake Feb. 9, many youngsters expressed their fears by behavioral regression —they resumed sucking their thumbs, wetting the bed and didn't want to leave their mothers' sides.

Dr. Stephen J. Howard, director of clinical services at San Fernando Valley Child Guidance Clinic, which has treated more than 400 parents and children since the quake, said youngsters were most upset because they realized their parents were afraid.

"This happened in the dark," Howard said. "Lights were out, people were stumbling about looking for flashlights, screaming 'stay where you are' or 'get under the doorway.'"

Howard said many parents made the mistake, after the quake ended, of rushing around the house surveying the damage, leaving the children alone in their darkened bedrooms.

"MY ADVICE, in an emergency, is stay together," he said. "Children are not so much afraid of being injured or even being killed as they are of being left alone and being separated from their parents."

A clinic spokesman said most of the youngsters brought in for treatment had not expressed their fears aloud to their parents. In therapy they said they were afraid to go to bed now "because the bed might go wiggle-wiggle."

Many of them did not understand what the earthquake was, and their parents in some cases had answered their questions by saying it happened "because it was God's will."

"There was visible relaxation when the reason for the earth tremors was explained," the spokesman said.

The experts said it was better to admit to the children that everyone is afraid during an earthquake or other natural phenonmenon.

Marin Charitable Foundation Ends Deb Ball Sponsorship

No more white-gowned debutantes will be associated with the Marin Charitable Foundation. The Marin Debutante Ball of the past nine years is officially over.

Instead, the foundation is taking on a whole new youthful look, widening itself to form a Junior Auxiliary of up to 100 girls representing North Bay high schools.

The girls' organization will be made up of high school sophomores, juniors and seniors, a decision established by a vote of the Marin Charitable Foundation members to "disassociate the foundation with the term 'debutante' and with 'presenting debutantes at a ball'."

The new look for the '70s will see an auxiliary set up to appeal to the ecology and community service-minded young women of Marin. Members will be chosen on the basis of their community and school activities and the group will contribute community service and hold fund-raising activities to benefit other youth in Marin.

Mrs. William Murray Jr. of San Rafael is director of the auxiliary for the foundation.

Each new auxiliary member will have a sponsor from the auxiliary and from the foundation. New members will be introduced in the spring.

The juniors will set up four annual meetings, and one-day workshop is planned to acquaint members with volunteer activities in Marin, leading to community service by the girls.

Funds raised by the auxiliary will go to the foundation's allocation committee, which will include a representative from the youthful auxiliary. A $5 annual membership fee has been established for the girls participating.

Already the auxiliary has a tentative steering committee of some 15 volunteers, and the whole auxiliary has held one meeting.

Members of the newly-formed auxiliary will be introduced at a party March 19 at 3:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. George F. Jewett Jr. in Ross, and afterward the steering committee will discuss ideas for the group's first year.

Tentatively a large party or event is planned for the year, possibly to be held in the summer. The auxiliary is considering a yearly party to honor the senior girls who are members.

New president of the adult Marin Charitable Foundation is Mrs. F. William Mosden of Ross. In past years the foundation has contributed funds from the Marin Debutante Ball and other events it sponsored to programs that benefit Marin youth.

Rebecca Crisp Will Be Wed To Daniel White

The engagement of Rebecca Crisp to Daniel White has been announced by her parents Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Crisp of Corte Madera.

She is a graduate of Redwood High School and an employee of Sierra National Bank in Greenbrae. Rebecca attended the College of Marin and is the sister of Jacki Crisp of Santa Cruz and Tom Crisp of Davis. Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Radloff of Napa and Mrs. Margaret Crisp of Oakland.

Deniel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil E. White of Larkspur, is also a graduate of Redwood High School. He attended College of Marin and will graduate from Sonoma State College in June. He is employed by Redwoods Presbyterian Church in Larkspur. His brother is Neil White Jr. of San Rafael and Mrs. Ruby Greving of Mill Valley is his grandmother.

The couple plan to be married on Christmas Eve.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Gifts Of Candy Are Dandy But An Exerciser Is Wiser

DEAR HELEN:

For 15 years, my husband has given me candy on Valentine's Day. This February, he gave me an exerciser — one of those machines for firming up and losing weight. Is he trying to tell me something? — HALF GAINER

DEAR GAINER:

If the machine fits — use it.

DEAR HELEN:

My wife goes for a different kind of women's lib, the Jackie type — as in "liberating" Ari's money! She spends like there was no tomorrow. And she thinks credit cards have no ceiling.

See, she was raised rich. What she wanted, she got. And, after we were married, she could still run to Daddy every time my paycheck wouldn't stretch, and can't understand why I'm so stubborn about it.

I insist on paying my own bills and living on my money, not his. — RIGHT OR WRONG?

DEAR R. OR W:

Right!

Credit cards and joint checking accounts are for mature adults who can use them sensibly. Your wife is still a pampered little Daddy's girl. Maybe an outside jobwould help her grow up. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

What good is it to rate a movie "X" then show it at a drive-in where kids can gather on a hill above and watch the whole thing free?

A favorite teen-age parking spot today overlooks our town's bluest open air theater. Sure, they can't hear the words, but actions speak louder than . . .

What can be done? — MAD DAD

DEAR MAD:

A legislator has already introduced a bill, hoping to ban X-rated outdoor movies.

You might write a letter to your city council. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm expecting our first child in a few weeks. My husband has had three by a former wife, and I have two by my first husband, so we aren't new at this.

So why is it that my husband has refused to come near me in bed since I was four months pregnant? He says it might hurt the baby, but I fear it's because he no longer loves me. He goes out a lot, although he's very sweet to me when he's home — much nicer than before, when we fought constantly. You see, he wasn't very true to me. I found him with several cheapies before he calmed down.

One more thing: He had a stubborn infection and, after four doctors, one finally found this gonorrhea. What do you think? — REJECTED

DEAR REJECTED:

I think your last paragraph tells the tale and I hope you have been thoroughly checked and treated. Until your husband is sure he is cured, it's essential that he continue to keep his distance. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

ANTERO RIVASPLATA came from Peru to San Francisco where he met and married Marguerite Sevilla 50 years ago Feb. 28. She had come with her family from Mexico. The couple bought property in Novato in 1927 and spent summer vacations there away from the home in San Francisco until moving to Novato in 1949.

50th Anniversary Reception 'Like The United Nations'

Mr. and Mrs. Antero Rivasplata of Novato celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Feb. 28 in Novato when their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Rivasplata, also of Novato honored them at a reception at the Novato Community House.

More than 200 friends and relatives attended the wedding including four brothers and six sisters of Mrs. Rivasplata. Two other sisters were in Mexico and unable to attend.

Mr. Rivasplata met Marguerite Sevilla when she came to San Francisco with her family in 1920 from Mexico. He had come to San Francisco from Peru in 1919. They were married in 1921 at the Church of Our Lady of Guadalupe in San Francisco.

They bought property in Novato in 1927 where they spent their summer vacations, until building their present home in 1948. Moving to Novato in 1949.

A machinist for the Railroad for several years, he opened his own plumbing shop in San Francisco in 1930. He and his son also built houses in Novato.

"I thank the Lord for our family," Mrs. Rivasplata said. The couple spend a great deal of time with their three grandchildren, Terry 16, Charles 13 and Edith, 8 years old.

Photography has been Mr. Rivasplata's hobby and sewing and embroidery have been Mrs. Rivasplata's pastime. They both like to travel and have traveled to Mexico and Peru many times. Mr. Rivasplata has a brother and sister living in Peru.

Mr. Rivasplata became a member of the Masonic Lodge, King Solomon Seaport Lodge in 1927 and he is also a member of the Scottich Rite and a charter member of Hamilton Lodge. Mrs. Rivasplata is a charter member of Novato Chaper 609, Order of Eastern Star where she served as an officer. She is also a member of the White Shrine, however, she said she is not active in club work and she now stays home and "takes care of him" she said, her eyes sparkling as she looked at her husband.

Speaking of their reception on Sunday, Mr. Rivasplata said "it was like the United Nations," as so many nationalities were represented.

The highlight of the day, they both said, was when their son played a song on the violin as a special request of his father, and then danced with his mother.

Parents Should Admit Fear

going to happen to us, rather than nothing is going to happen to you. Don't isolate the child in his fear."

"Let's admit we were frightened, it's nothing to be ashamed of," Howard said.

Howard said it was natural for youngsters to wish to sleep with their parents after such an experience.

"They have a right to be scared and they have a right to be with their parents in an emergency and be assured the parents will protect them," he said.

However, after the danger is past, youngsters should be encouraged to return to their normal routines, sleeping in their own room and going to school, he said.

The doctor said it was important for parents to talk out the problem with their children, because sharing anxiety is a way of overcoming it.

Protein Needs

The recommended daily allowance for protein is 65 grams for an adult man, 55 for an adult woman, 45 for a 10 to 12-year-old boy and 50 for a young girl.

Burn-Proof Clothing Scarce Despite Four-Year Old Law

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Nearly four years after Congress passed a law to tighten standards on flammable fabrics, no new standards have yet become effective.

By next December, a new standard will require that rugs and carpets be less flammable than they have been. But no new standards have been set on any clothing or upholstery material.

In the meantime, an estimated 4,000 people are killed each year when their clothing, bedding or other home furnishings catch fire. Some 175,000 people are injured in this fashion every year, most of them small children or elderly or disabled people.

The 1967 amendments to a previous law which banned "torch" sweaters and other extremely flammable materials declared that "available evidence makes it abundantly clear that the toll in terms of death, injury and disfigurement from fires involving wearing apparel and interior furnishings is far greater than need be."

LAST NOVEMBER, the Commerce Department finally got around to proposing a standard of flammability for children's sleepwear. Public hearings were held in January, and the Department is now sitting through the comments made then and received by mail.

But a standard may be a long way off, for industry spokesmen said the standard was too stiff and would cause consumers to stop buying cotton items because of the odor and feel of chemically treated material.

As evidence, they cited experience in Great Britain where such a standard has been in effect and in some stores in this country where fireresistant children's clothing has been test marketed. In both cases, buyers preferred items other than those made with chemically treated cotton.

It is still possible to buy flame-retardant children's clothing at some nationwide department store chains — and some bedding and sport shirt items — but the proportion of such products on the market is very small.

Why aren't consumers given a choice of fire-resistant or non-fire-resistant products of all types?

FIRST IS the reluctance of buyers to choose the chemically treated items over the others when both are available. Manufacturers are not rushing to add flame-proofing chemicals and raise prices to pay for them in the face of experience to date.

Second is the absence of cheap and effective processes that can be applied to the wide variety of textile products. A process for the heavy material might not work for a lighter one. Flammability depends greatly on weight, width of weave and type of fabric.

Among natural fibers, wool is generally the least flammable and cotton the most flammable, with others in between. Among man-made fibers, rayon is generally most dangerous while glass, modacrylic and saran are virtually flame-proof.

Rather than bursting into flames, the thermoplastics such as nylon and acrylic melt into a sticky syrup that can cause deep burns. The degree of hazard depends a lot on which fabrics are combined into a product.

For people who cannot find what they want on the market, there is a way to improve the fire resistance of such items as cotton. It calls for mixing seven ounces of borax with three ounces of boric acid dissolved in two quarts of hot water.

But the effects will last only until the material is washed.

PRESS GUIDE IS AVAILABLE

A guide for press chairmen of organizations interested in getting news to the Marin Women's Section of the Independent-Journal is available at the San Rafael main office and the Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma I-J offices.

The booklet, "Getting News Into Your Newspaper," is issued as a service of the Independent-Journal Women's Section to assist press chairmen for women's organizations.

The booklets at the San Rafael office may be obtained from the switchboard on the main floor.

Boys Club Auxiliary Elects New President

A mother of four, Mrs. Richard Lewis, has been elected president of the Petaluma Boys' Club Auxiliary. Mrs. Lewis and her husband, an engineer at Hamilton Air Force Base, are the parents of Keith, 17, Gregory, 15, Mark 9, and Lisa Ann, 6. The family has lived in Sonoma County seven years.

"Supporting club activities through fund raising is the primary purpose of the auxiliary," Dolores Lewis says of the organization.

She has been a member for four years and has served on its board of directors since 1969. Membership is open to any woman in the Petaluma community.

Born in St. Louis, Okla., Mrs. Lewis is a graduate of Livermore High School in Livermore. Her other club interest is the St. Vincent de Paul Mother's Club.

Special interests of the new president include all spectator sports, especially ones in which her sons participate.

ART REVIEW

Disturbing Reality Despite Confusion

By LAURA DEVENDORF

SAN FRANCISCO — "Steel is Real" is the theme of the joint sculpture show by Richard Colombini of Corte Madera and Richard Decker of San Francisco, through March 15 at the San Francisco Art Institute, 800 Chestnut Street. Exactly what they mean by that theme is never quite clear. But if stretched to suggest that their work has presence, then the show is titled accurately.

Steel of itself is imposing, and especially so, when twisted and massed into the aggressive forms chosen by Colombini. In several pieces based on "Plant Forms," he creates spiked, pincered and twisted painted sculptures which seem more like mutated insects locked in combat than the soft twining imagery of growing things. They are angry, brutal things — hard and determined in their blackness and committed to action in their excited and abrupt wanderings.

This same sense of things taking off in every direction is inherent in other, more compact or mechanistic subjects in Colombini's work. And usually thrust or interlocking parts are the things which cause it.

In one sculpture, a network of orange pipes is pierced in several directions by black pointed shafts and a silver arrow. While in "Slash, Snip, Slice," a gigantic wire cutter snips at a pair of broken shears, part of which returns the favor by fracturing the wire cutter, while the other part hacks the sculpture's chisel-shaped base which itself is squashing a metal pipe.

All these statements have a slightly disturbing quality which makes them matter. By comparison, Colombini's other things seem ordinary or confused as to the point they want to make. And seeing Colombini's things played against Decker's makes the latter's facility for understatement even more apparent.

Even Decker's busiest, most organic pieces are far leaner lined. And for continuing interest they depend more on the pools and beads of melted metal and the surface subtleties caused by brushing or burn, than they do on active designs. At his best, Decker can make the starkest idea seem a complete experience as in the simple, copper toned tower topped by a rounded shape cut only by a silver plane with a hole in it.

As a sculptor, Decker is restrained, strong, subtle and a little too derivative. Colombini has a lot of undirected energy which borders confusion. But each has a sense of dramatic presence and a facility for the difficult steel medium which should be limited in the future only by their development of ideas.

Women's Group Sets Antidraft March

The Marin branch of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom will sponsor an antidraft march tomorrow beginning at 10:30 a.m. at the old courthouse in San Rafael, according to Kathleen Martin, treasurer of the group.

Many of the women will bring their young sons with them, she said. The marchers will walk to the post office branch on D Street, where the Selective Service System office for Marin is housed.

Candlelight Series Sets Final Event

Mill Valley's Candlelight Series will conclude on March 28 at 8 p.m. in Brown's Hall with a concert by French flutist Michel Debost, accompanied by pianist Christian Ivaldi.

Debost, recently appointed first flutist of the newly formed Orchestre de Paris, is a graduate of the Paris Conservatory and has won first prizes in international competition in Moscow, Prague, Munich, Geneva and Rome. Debost has appeared as soloist with major European orchestras.

A professor at the Paris Conservatoire National, pianist Ivaldi has toured Europe and Canada with various groups and soloists, such as soprano Regine Crespin.

Ivaldi's association as a duo with Debost started in 1958. They have made recordings and some 200 appearances together.

Each minute of the day the federal government pays interest on the national debt of about $39,000, says the House Appropriations Committee.

Medi-Cal Overhaul Bills Set This Week

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation incorporating major features of Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposed overhaul of welfare and Medi-Cal is expected to be introduced this week.

The governor has said that California taxpayers will face an increase this year and every succeeding year unless the multi-billion dollar programs for the needy are reformed this year. The bills will play a key role in balancing his $6.7 billion state budget.

Vital parts of the restructuring program —which Reagan outlined last week in a 180-page message to lawmakers — include "family responsibility" to support welfare members, meeting requirements of the "truly needy" by trimming payments for the "affluent poor" and requiring the ablebodied to work.

Democrats complained that the 1971 session already was more than two months old and the governor hadn't sent lawmakers bills on which to act.

"Significant parts of the program will be ready for introduction next week," State Human Relations Secretary James Hall told the Senate Finance Committee last week. "The bulk of it will be ready."

"We ask you to come fully prepared," warned Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, committee chairman. "Don't come in with old, stale statistics. There's nothing that will shoot you out of the water quicker than that."

But George Steffes, the governor's chief legislative aide, said at the close of business Friday that it had not been decided who would carry the program in the legislature.

For the whole program to function as envisioned, the legislature, Congress and the Nixon Administration would all have to approve.

Hall said some regulation changes not requiring legislative endorsement are already in effect.

For example, he told the committee, a new rule adopted on an "emergency basis" is aimed at preventing illegal aliens from becoming eligible for welfare. He did not elaborate but Reagan has said he wants all such persons to prove "they are legally entitled to remain in the United States and that such persons intend to reside in California permanently."

Theme Of Festival Announced

"Kaleidoscope" will be the theme of the Performing Arts Festival planned by students of Dominican College of San Rafael in conjunction with students from neighboring colleges on March 27.

The festival will be in the garden area adjacent to Bertrand Hall on the Dominican campus.

Continuous events will be an "automatic" art demonstration by Masatoyo Kishi; photography and weaving exhibits and modeling of gowns from the Julia Weber collection.

Special afternoon entertainment will include a mime performance, drama scenes, foreign language performances, poetry reading and music.

Drama students from the College of Marin will perform "Pyramis and Thisbe," a scene from the last act of Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream."

Evening events scheduled from 5 to 9 p.m. include a buffet supper with musical entertainment and a special program featuring Rita Abrams, composer of "Mill Valley," who will perform on various instruments including the medieval flute, early guitars and mandolins.

Police Puzzled In Killing Of 5 In Cycle Gang Fight

CLEVELAND (UPI)-The duel of knives and chains among members of two motorcycle gangs that left five men dead and 21 injured Saturday night still has police confused about exactly what happened.

Police Chief Lewis Coffey appealed Sunday to residents of the East Side neighborhood where the near-riot broke out at the Polish Women's Hall to give information to police. He promised anonymity.

The only explanation the police could make for the brawl, which erupted at a motorcycle exhibition show, was that it was the culmination of a feud between members of the Akron Breed and the Violators, a motorcycle club from New York affiliated with the Hell's Angels. "They came armed for trouble,", according to Police Prosecutor Everett Chandler, who said he was considering first-degree riot and first-degree murder charges against some suspects.

Seventy-three men and four women have been taken into custody for questioning, but no one has been accused in connection with the fighting or the deaths.

The atmosphere in the hall became very tense about 30 minutes before the fights began, the police said, when about 150 members of the Akron gang filed into the hall "in military style."

Nine policemen had been sent to the hall after police received an anonymous tip that there would be trouble. They confiscated many weapons, including knives, chains and clubs, before the two groups squared off.

Patrolman Lawrence Davis, 36, and his partner, Thomas Burton, 36, were among the first policemen to reach the scene.

Davis said a short time after he arrived, "all hell broke loose."

"We didn't know where to turn," Burton said. "We just started clobbering everyone."

City's Riots Breed Canine Breakdowns

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—A marked increase in the number of dogs suffering from "nervous breakdowns" in this riot-torn city has been noted by the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (RSPCA).

"Animals are very sensitive and the sudden explosions, shootings and noise can play havoc with their systems," an SPCA official said.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

MOBILE CLASSROOM

Taking School With Them, They Learn To Live As Family

By GEORGE NEVIN

With new school buildings in Marin County ever on the rise, Forest Knolls teacher Patricia J. Wright takes issue with the theory that magnificent structures equal good education.

In fact, the 29-year-old Miss Wright, who certainly has no edifice complex, thinks a permanent classroom is a barrier to learning. And she's put her theories into action with Pacific Trek Day School, which she founded in September.

For the student body of four, Miss Wright's Volkswagen camper is the passport to all of Northern California. And their experiences, they say, add up to the most interesting, most educational and certainly the most mobile school they've ever attended.

Their enthusiasm mirrors their teachers's belief that "containment in a classroom is a negative factor in learning."

"Confining children to one physical location is a form of sensory deprivation, especially during their most sensitive period, their prime learning time," Miss Wright said.

Miss Wright, who spent six years teaching in traditional public and private schools, also thinks the freedom of Pacific Trek has given her a fresh outlook on education.

"When there is a classroom base it's tempting for a teacher to indulge in inertia," she said. "But with a class in a camper or at my home or in public libraries, there's no chance of settling down."

One of the best features of the school, the teacher and students say, is that questions can be answered directly, not through books.

Field trips taken by the class since September have included a fish hatchery west of Sacramento, where salmon were spawning; the Pacific Coast near Monterey, to watch migrating whales; a logging camp in Mendocino, and, closer to home, the Bolinas Marine Biology Laboratory and shrines, museums and parks in Marin, Sonoma and San Francisco.

The longer trips, three-day camping jaunts, serve the additional purpose of training teacher and students to get along with each other, share chores and keep to a schedule.

They also have provided valuable training for the school's final exam in May —a two-week camping trip. "We don't know where we'll go yet," explained Miss Wright. The kids will decide and make all the arrangements — getting brochures, making reservations and buying the food."

All this emphasis on trips doesn't mean the Pacific Trek Day School is one big outing — far from it. "Half of each day usually is spent doing academic work at a library or my home," Miss Wright said. This enables her to tutor her charges individually in whatever subjects they need.

The students, all 12 years old (the school can accept students from 8 to 13), say they've never learned so much academically.

"I didn't get anything out of public school,'' said Bill Wright, Miss Wright's brother and the son of Jean Wright, 92 Railroad Avenue, Woodacre. "By fourth grade I just refused to do the work."

Two years of private school in the East Bay didn't help much either, he said. "Then I started to worry about not learning anything, so I came to this school."

At Pacific Trek, Bill found qualities lacking in the other schools — intensive tutoring and an individual interest in him as a student. With his desire to learn rekindled, Bill plans to attend public school next year in preparation for high school the year after — and then, perhaps, college.

Another student, Peter Marshutz, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Rogoff, live at 1040 Erica Road, Tamalpais Valley, agrees that his basic skills, especially math and reading, have improved considerably since he joined Pacific Trek.

Miss Wright concurs. "They (the pupils) have made amazing progress in math this year, They'll all pass my skill in the subject before the end of the year."

Peter and Susan Brown, daughter of Assemblyman Willie D. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, were tutored by Miss Wright last year at a private school in San Francisco.

The fourth student, Laura Spake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Spake of 372 Richardson Way, Tamalpais Valley, was out with the flu when an Independent-Journal reporter accompanied the school on a short field trip last week.

After a morning of study in the Mill Valley Public Library and a picnic lunch in Old Mill Park, Miss Wright drove her brood across the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge to tour a water treatment plant in the East Bay.

The bridge toll-taker greeted the camper occupants cheerily. "I've read all about you," he said as the teacher-driver dropped coins into his hand. "Where are you going today?"

The destination was the Sobrante Filter Plant in El Sobrante, operated by the East Bay Municipal Utility District. The group took a tour of the facility and learned how the water, fed by melting snow in the Sierra Nevada, is borne 110 miles through three huge aqueducts to serve the district's 1.1 million residents.

As might be expected in its first year of operation, Pacific Trek hasn't yet figured out answers to all the problems.

Both Susan and Peter think the school would be better with more students. "I miss playing capture the flag like we did last year,'' Susan complained good-naturedly. It's hard to get much of a game going with only two players per team, she said.

Miss Wright also frets about the small class size. "Ideally it would be better to have two classes. Two buses and 12 children would give us more breadth of personality and experience." But the maximum in each bus, she believes, should be six children.

The chief problem, she readily admits, is money. Even with tuition at $2,000 per pupil, her gross income doesn't match the salaries of most public and private school teachers in Marin. And from that gross must be subtracted operating expenses for the bus, all educational materials (Miss Wright doesn't use textbooks), insurance costs ("exorbitant," she says) and the cost of all the camping trips that so delight her students.

"I'd like to buy another bus and hire another teacher," she said, "but it's hard to find someone to work for the starvation wages I could afford to pay."

She's also hoping for a foundation grant to continue the school and permit her to lower the tuition and give scholarships, but fears she may not be able to hold out until one comes through. Besides, she said, competiton for such grants is very keen.

In the meantime, she gratefully accepts contributions from private parties interested in backing her unusual school.

Although it's hard to gauge the success of Pacific Trek in Conventional terms, Miss Wright said the parents of her students are pleased with their progress.

"They've noticed the children who tended to be shy have become more expressive and now will stand up for their rights," she said. "Others who were too aggressive have become less intensely focused on themselves and are willing to give a little."

In Miss Wight's opinion, the most important lesson the children have learned is how to live together like a family.

"The standard classroom creates an artificial environment of 35 children of one age," she said, "but our school is more like a family unit, with social interaction on a day-to-day basis. If we come to a difference of opinion we can't run away from it. We have to drop everything and face it."

As a result, she said, "We've had some pretty heavy experiences. Being so familiar with each other makes the children more vulnerable in some ways, because they can zero in on each other's weaknesses, but they also grow very close, too."

With at least two returnees expected from this year's crop of students and great interest from other parents, Miss Wright feels she will have no trouble filling her little school bus next year.

"And I can carry on another year by getting a summer job," she said.

After that, the future of Pacific Trek Day School may hinge on the generosity of contributions and foundations and her friends, who volunteer their time to do the necessary administrative work.

Death Row Man Stabbed, Mum On Who Did It

A Death Row inmate at San Qeuntin prison was stabbed yesterday but refused to tell officers how or by whom.

Million L. McShane, 29, was seen walking around the exercise area for the row about 1:25 p.m. as if he were injured, officers said.

McShane was questioned by officers and he showed them a puncture wound in his chest but refused to say how he was wounded. He was reported in good condition today at the prison hospital.

Officers found a seven-inch bed spring honed down to a sharp point and attached to a broom handle elsewhere in the cell block but none of the other prisoners would talk about it either.

McShane came to San Quentin in July 1969 from Los Angeles County after being convicted and sentenced to death for shooting a victim he had kidnapped.

Six Marinites Initiated Into Sororities

Six Marin co-eds attending the University of California in Berkeley have become members of National Panhellenic Sororities.

Alpha Phi sorority initiated two Kentfield girls — Betsy Block, a graduate of Redwood High School in Larkspur, and Judy Torrison, a graduate of Katherine Branson School in Ross.

New members of Delta Gamma are Linda Ball of Kentfield, a graduate of Redwood High; Barbara Biancolana of Greenbrae, graduate of San Francisco's Convent of Sacred Heart; and Ann Bolcom of Belvedere, graduate of San Dominico School, Sleepy Hollow.

Terra Linda Merger Before Local Agency

Merger of the Terra Linda Recreation-Park District with the Terra Linda Community Services District will come before the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission Wednesday night.

Commissioners will meet at 8 o'clock in Ross Town Hall.

If the merger resolution is approved, the matter must go to the voters of Terra Linda for approval. At the same election, a new five-man board of directors will be elected.

The commissioners have five other items on the agenda, all pertaining to the Novato area.

Novato Sanitary District seeks the annexation of 44 acres of open land at the end of Trumbull Avenue, to be developed by Sono-Marin builders. This is a continuation of the Marin Highlands development.

Robert A. Abeling, who owns a half-acre lot at 1625 Indian Valley Road, wants to get out from the city of Novato because the rest of Indian Valley is in the unincorporated area.

The city of Novato will ask for the following annexations:

1. Thirteen acres at the corner of Eucalyptus Avenue and Center Road, to be developed by Esquire Homes.

2. Fourteen acres at the intersection of Novato Boulevard and Eucalyptus Avenue, where cluster-type single-family homes are planned by Norman T. Gilroy.

3. Thirty-five acres east of Marin Valley Mbile Country Club, where a mobile home park is planned.

Poinsetia flowers were first brought to the U.S. from Mexico about 1830 by Ambassador Joel Robert Poinsett, the first U.S. representative to Mexico.

RECYCLING

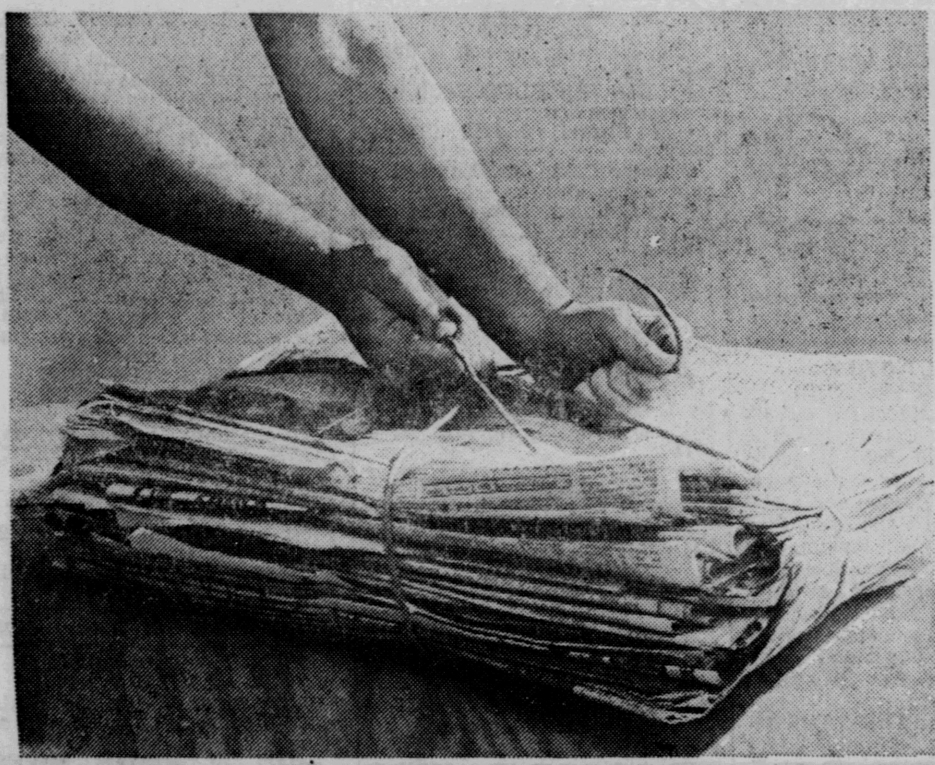
put recyclables in the trash can - tins, newspapers, bottles. Help "recycle" them that they may be used again. Throwing them away is not only a waste but helps destroy the environment.

What to do, how to do it. Join this growing movement in Marin to help protect the world you live in

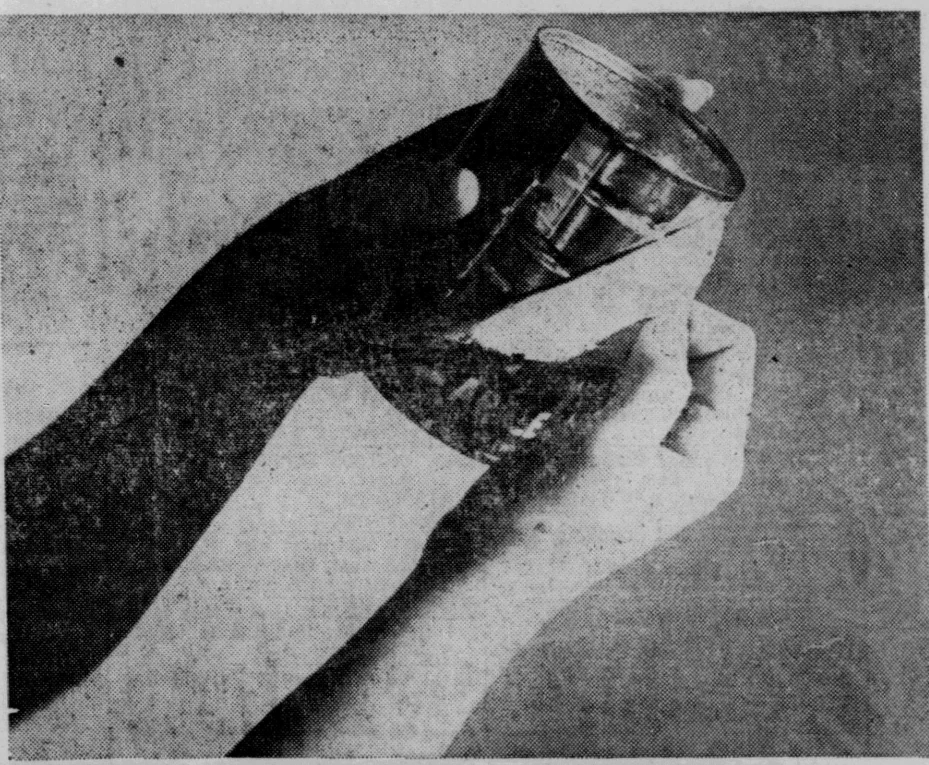
You've read a lot about ecology, about recycling. Now you can personally do something about it. A new county-wide ecology movement called "SURVIVAL" is now operating recycling depots at seven high schools in Marin (one near you). These are drop-off depots, open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. each Saturday and Sunday. All you need to do is gather your recyclables, as shown below, and take them to one of these centers. They'll do the rest.

Scores of dedicated young people are working on this project, demonstrating, in a practical way, that there IS an alternative to fouling our environment with our own trash. Join in and do your share. It will take you a little time, a little thought. But don't measure the rewards by "time". Measure them against the alternative. It's your world. Help live in it!

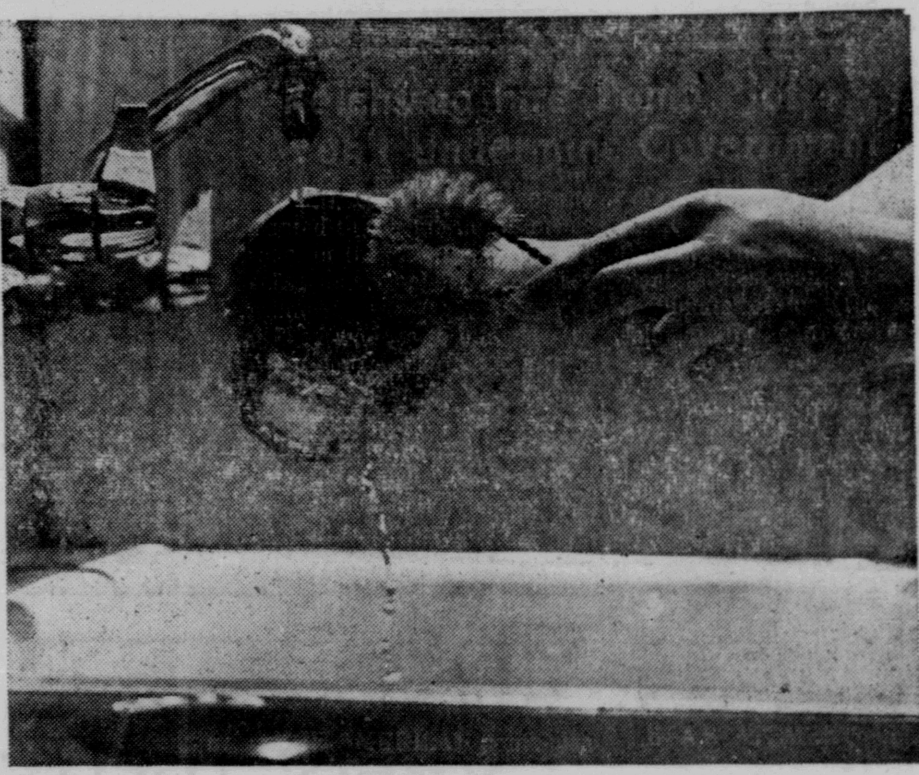
DO THIS in preparing newspapers, tins and glass for recycling



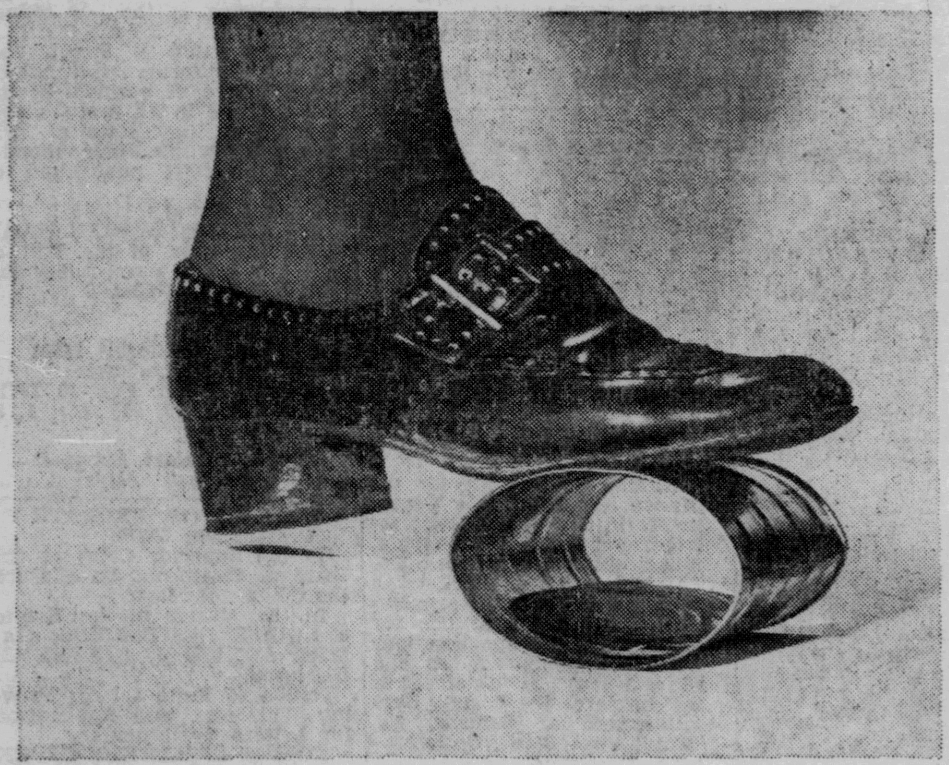
1. NEWSPAPERS: Cross-tie them securely in bundles which can be lifted by a girl. What better way to get rid of your old newspapers?



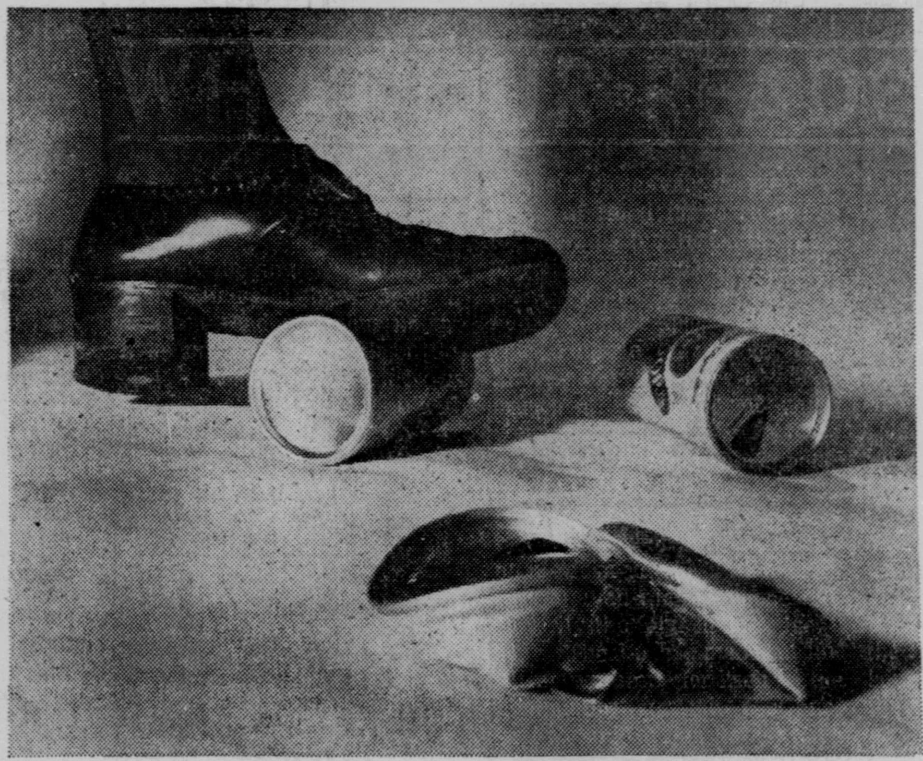
2. TIN CANS: Labels must be removed for recycling. Painted-on labels are OK.



3. RINSE OUT all cans to help protect the health of others working at the recycling depots. It's recommended that you soak dogfood cans.

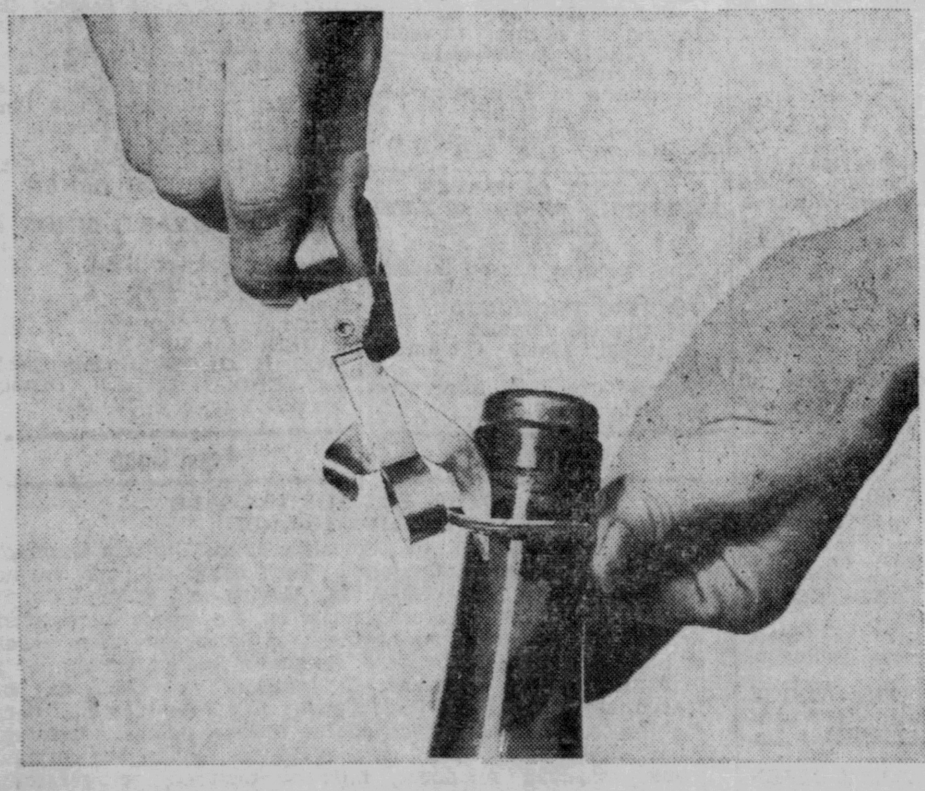


4. STEP ON IT! After placing both ends inside, flatten the can by stepping on it. Keep separate boxes or bags for tin cans.

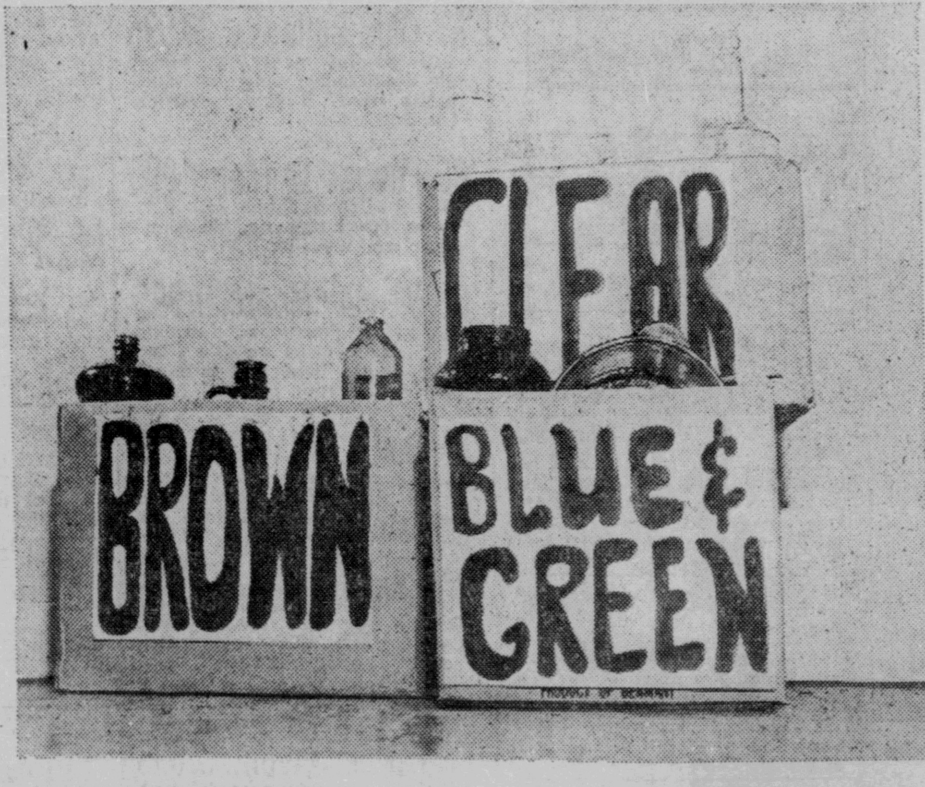


5. ALUMINUM CANS are easily flattened by stepping on them. Separate aluminum from tin cans.

6. BI-METAL CANS must be flattened also. Put them in a separate container.



7. TAKE OFF THE RING! Aluminum rings on all bottles must be removed. Use a can-opener and pry off. They can't be processed otherwise.



GLASS: All glass bottles must be separated by color. Use separate bags or boxes for "Brown," "Clear," and "Blue & Green" bottles.

DROP OFF YOUR RECYCLABLES AT THESE HANDY DEPOTS

Depots are open at the following high schools on Saturdays and Sundays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Look for them.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Who Remembers The Kid's Fight?

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Personally, I am not going to one of tonight's closed circuit telecasts of the Joe Frazier-Muhammad Ali fight. It's a small protest of my own. I just can't bring myself to go.

I have nothing against the fighters involved wanting to make a lot of money. That's perfectly natural, and they are doing what any smart businessmen would do—taking advantage of the market.

The same goes for the promoters and all others connected with the fight—I have nothing against them for wanting to make all that loot.

The reason I am not going to watch the fight, or contribute my dollars to the take, is that I would somehow feel ashamed and humiliated to help out a sport that the public, not too many years back, seemed finally to be done with in a major way because of its brutality.

And I would somehow feel cheapened to know I was willingly swept along by the tent show atmosphere that is part of the razzmatazz theatrical flavor surrounding the fight. It may be a small thing, but I don't like to feel I can be had that easily.

This is one fight where the true villain is the public—and not one of the boxers. For, by falling for the promotion of the match, hook, line and sinker, the public reminds us sadly that we have not come as far as we like to think from the 1930s and 1940s. And it reminds us that televised brutality is often easily forgotten.

For those who may not remember, ABC-Tv used to have a Fight-of-the-Week years ago, until finally the public got sick and tired of the series. But what really killed national interest in televised boxing was the fatal beating absorbed by Benny (Kid) Paret while millions watched. A wave of revulsion towards boxing swept the nation at the time, but apparently we have overcome that enough to regress.

I am no bleeding heart when it comes to rough sports. I am a fan of tough, competitive athletic action. But watching the weekend television shows that helped promote the bandwagon of the Frazier-Ali fight, I felt again the revulsion that was common after Paret died.

By now, of course, almost everyone has jumped on the bandwagon for tonight's fight, although the better sportswriters have rawn a proper bead on the goings-on. Nevertheless, the paying public offers itself up, almost begging to be taken advantage of. On video, I see a Vitalis commercial in which both Frazier and Ali take part —and who can blame them for laughing all the way to the bank?

There is one hopeful note, however, amid all the hoopla leading up to tonight's match: According to various reports, the fight is not selling tickets as well as expected in grassroots Middle America. And I like to think that maybe this is a sign that there is still some old-fashioned, down-to-earth horse sense in areas not yet desensitized by big town sharpies, who are the easiest marks of all.

Five Lectures On Artist And His Role

A series of five lectures on the artist and his role in society will be given tomorrow through Thursday at the College of Marin by Laguna Beach artist Dion Wright.

At noon tomorrow, Wright will discuss The Artist in Society in Room 252 of the college's Fine Arts Building. Three lectures are set for Wednesday, at 2 p.m. in the College Center on Evolution — the Painting, at 3:20 p.m. in Room 26 on Transcultural Synthesis and at 8 p.m. in the College Center on The Creative Artist in America.

The final talk will be on The Creative Process at 2 p.m. Thursday in Room 95, Olney Hall.

In addition, Wright will work mornings in the College Center on finishing a painting. His appearances are sponsored by the College of Marin Community Services Office and the Associated Students. All lectures are open to the public.

Superior Court On Two Charges

Albert Daniel Torres, 20, of no known address, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on charges of robbery and grand theft. He is to be arraigned next Monday.

Torres was arrested Feb. 11 after he allegedly grabbed a 17-year-old boy leaving a Sausalito billiard parlor and took $1.15 from him.

Doctors Report Way That Relieves Itching, Pain Of Swollen Hemorrhoidal Tissues

First Applications Give Prompt, Temporary Relief in Many Cases

There's a most effective medication that in many cases gives prompt relief for hours from such hemorrhoidal discomfort and actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by the inflammation. The answer is doctor-tested Preparation H®.

There's no other hemorrhoidal formula like Preparation H and it needs no prescription. Ointment or suppositories.

Martha Thinks Lindsay A Mark

NEW YORK (UPI)—Martha Mitchell, wife of Attorney Gneral John N. Mitchell, would like to see Mayor John V. Lindsay run for president—but not as a Republican.

Mrs. Mitchell was one of the thousands of readers of the New York Daily News who took part in a poll on whether the mayor should switch parties and try for the White House, the News said in today's editions. She checked the yes boxes on both counts and wrote: "He would be more fun to defeat!!"

Daily News Washington bureau chief Jerry Greene received her permission to reproduce her ballot, the News said.

As for age, she checked the "over 35" box, but she checked all the boxes for political affialiation—Democrat, Republican, Conservative, Liberal and Independent. For occupation she said, "Defender of America."

Singer Kills Son, Wife, Takes Life

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Bruce Cloud, 31, a former singer with the Dominoes, stabbed his wife and 2-year-old son to death and then took his own life, police said Sunday.

Cloud's body was found in his auto in a park. Police said he apparently was not able to kill himself with the knife and ran a hose from the car's exhaust pipe into the interior to pump in carbon monoxide gas.

The bodies of Cloud's wife, Margaret 27, and son Christopher, were found in the family's apartment. Police said a rambling, 12-page note written by Cloud described marital difficulties.

The deaths were listed as murders and suicide. Cloud sang ith the Dominoes in the 1960s and later appeared as a nightclub ballad singer.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Sometimes It Doesn't Always Pay To Make The Right Play

"The deepest finesse I ever took got my father in trouble," Edgar Kaplan told me recently. Kaplan, editor of The Bridge World, is today one of the most respected names in the game, but was not well known 25 years ago when he played in a friendly game with his father against two of the older Kaplan's best clients. Edgar Kaplan held the South cards of the hand shown today.

Opening lead — ♣ Q

WITH KING

West opened the queen of clubs, and Kaplan won in the dummy with the king. He led the deuce of trumps from the dummy, and East followed with the three.

"I did what any other bridge player would do," Kaplan related. "I could afford to lose one trump trick but not two. If I played the ace or king of trumps I might have to give up two trump tricks, and this is just what would have happened in the actual hand. But of course I took the safety finesse with the four of trumps."

This was a safety finesse because the contract was assured even if the finesse lost. If West could win the trick only two trumps would be left out, and declarer could later draw them with the ace and king.

VERY SUSPICIOUS

"As it happened, the four of trumps won the trick," Kaplan continued. "The player at my right gave a convulsive start and clutched his cards tighter to his chest. He gave me a look of dark suspicion and then looked worriedly at my father."

This was not all. Kaplan still had to limit the diamond loss to one trick. This called for another safety play. Kaplan drew two rounds of trumps with the ace and king, cashed the king of diamonds and then led a low diamond toward dummy.

SAFETY FINESSE

"When the eight of diamonds appeared, I took the safety finesse with dummy's nine. When this finesse worked, BOTH opponents glared at me."

Kaplan explained to his opponents that if his deep diamond finesse lost, only one diamond would be left out; and that he could later capture that diamond ith the ace. "They wouldn't listen," Kaplan reported. "They decided not to do business with the father of a card cheat — and it took eeks for my father to convince them that they hadn't been swindled. It doesn't always pay to make the right play."

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠- None
♥- J 10 5 2
♦- Q 10 8 6
♣- Q J 10 6 5.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid 1 no-trump.

The hand is strong enough for a response, but not for a bid of two clubs, which would promise about 10 points in high cards.

Anti-Squatter Law

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The City Council has adopted an ordinance permitting policemen and firemen to cite persons occupying uninhabited private or public buildings even if the structures are not posted against respassing.

ALMANAC

Today is Monday, March, 8, the 67th day of 1971.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Venus, Mars, and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Pisces.

On this day in history:

In 1894 New York became the first state to pass a law requiring dogs to be licensed.

In 1917 strikes and riots in St. Petersburg marked the start of the Russian Revolution.

In 1944 French authorities in Algiers adopted an ordinance giving French Moslems in Algeria the same rights as French non-Moslems.

In 1962 the house defeated a bill which would have increased its membership from 435 to 438.

Warning On Carpets, Rugs

The San Francisco Better Business Bureau has urged Marin shoppers to notify the bureau if they are dissatisfied in dealing with sellers of rugs and carpets in the Bay Area.

The bureau noted that carpet advertising has improved since it began a study of selling practices in the industry last summer.

It asks consumers who have encountered misrepresentation to write the bureau at 414 Mason Street, SanFrancisco 94102.

The Final Countdown For Fight

NEW YORK (UPI)—Joe Frazier and Cassius Clay battle tonight in Madison Square Garden for more than a heavyweight championship, $2.5-million apiece or even their personal reputations.

With 300 million people watching around the world, each fighter will be seeking that niche among the hall of immortals which only one out of millions ever attains. The winner will become a legend; the loser will become another man who failed.

Frazier doesn't know, or pretends not to know, what is at stake, saying that all the bout means to him "is security for my family and myself," but Clay, also known as Muhammad Ali, understands.

"I will not be doing any talking this time," Clay says. "This fight is too important for that. I must look my best because this fight will be seen by all the future generations. I must be the greatest."

The two men, so different in their styles both in and out of the ring, were kept apart throughout preparations for the bout, avoiding any face-to-face confrontation until they are nose-to-nose in the center of the ring to hear final instructions before the tolling of the bell at 10:30 p.m. tonight.

Even the weigh-ins were held separately for the two. Frazier was to emerge from his secret headquarters where he was hidden away on Sunday after a threat on his life to weigh in first, and he was to be followed by Clay to the scales in the same 20-foot square where they will fight tonight.

After threats were received that Frazier should "lose or else," the 27-year-old champion's headquarters were shifted to another hotel and the security force that has followed him throughout the last weeks of the growing drama was strengthened even more.

It has been an emotional confrontation since that day in January when the contracts were finally signed after 3 1-2 years of waiting.

Both fighters are black, but Clay has called his opponent the "white hope" and an "Uncle Tom" because Frazier more closely meets that ethic of white, middle class America as the modest, soft-spoken boy who came out of the scratch-out-an-existence farmland of South Carolina to gain fame and money for fighting his way to the top. It is the story that Joe Louis wrote the first chapter to a generation ago.

"What is this stuff about: All I had to eat was beans and a crust of bread and when it was cold outside we couldn't play because we didn't have no shoes," Clay says. "What about the businessmen who are successful? Nobody tells about how poor and hungry they were. It's usually about fighters, and more often black fighters.

"Hear a man when he says everything I have I owe to boxing, and I'll show you a stupid man. Why doesn't he try to use his brains a little? For three and a half years, I couldn't fight, but I wasn't hungry. I bought a Rolls-Royce

Warriors Drive For Playoffs

By LARRY MOWELL

OAKLAND — It has not been a banner year for Joe Ellis. His acrobatic jump shots — which contributed almost 17 points a game to the Warriors last year — have been off the mark this year.

His average has slipped to 10.7 points a game and his shooting percentage has dipped to .389, worst among the team's regulars.

However, Saturday night Ellis hit a pressure-packed 15-foot jump shot with 1:26 remaining that gave the home team a 104-101 lead and all the momentum it needed for a 109-103 win over the Baltimore Bullets.

"You never saw a happier guy than me when Joe put that shot in, both for the points and for up here," Coach Al Attles said pointing to his head.

Obviously, Ellis and the rest of the team will need all the psychological lift they can muster should they make the playoffs against Lew Alcindor and the Milwaukee Bucks, 63-11 this year.

The win moved the Warriors a step closer to that playoff berth because Chicago knocked off pursuing San Diego 105-99 in a preliminary game at the Oakland Coliseum. The Warriors lead Seattle by three games and San Diego by three and one-half.

Jerry Lucas, driving more than he has all year, scored 30 points and pulled in 22 rebounds, Center Nate Thurmond added 23 points and Jeff Mullins added 22, including a three-point play that sealed the victory.

Guard Fritz Williams scored 16, but his biggest contribution was on defense. He held the Bullets' leading scorer, Earl Monroe, to 8 points.

Gus Johnson, the team's second high scorer was also held to 8, but Jack Marin and substitute guard Jack Marin provided a cannonade of long jump shots that kept the score close.

Marin had 29 for the game. Carter added 28.

The Warriors, who drew 10,388 fans last night, return to action tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Oakland Coliseum against the Boston Celtics.

Haywood Decision Is Upheld

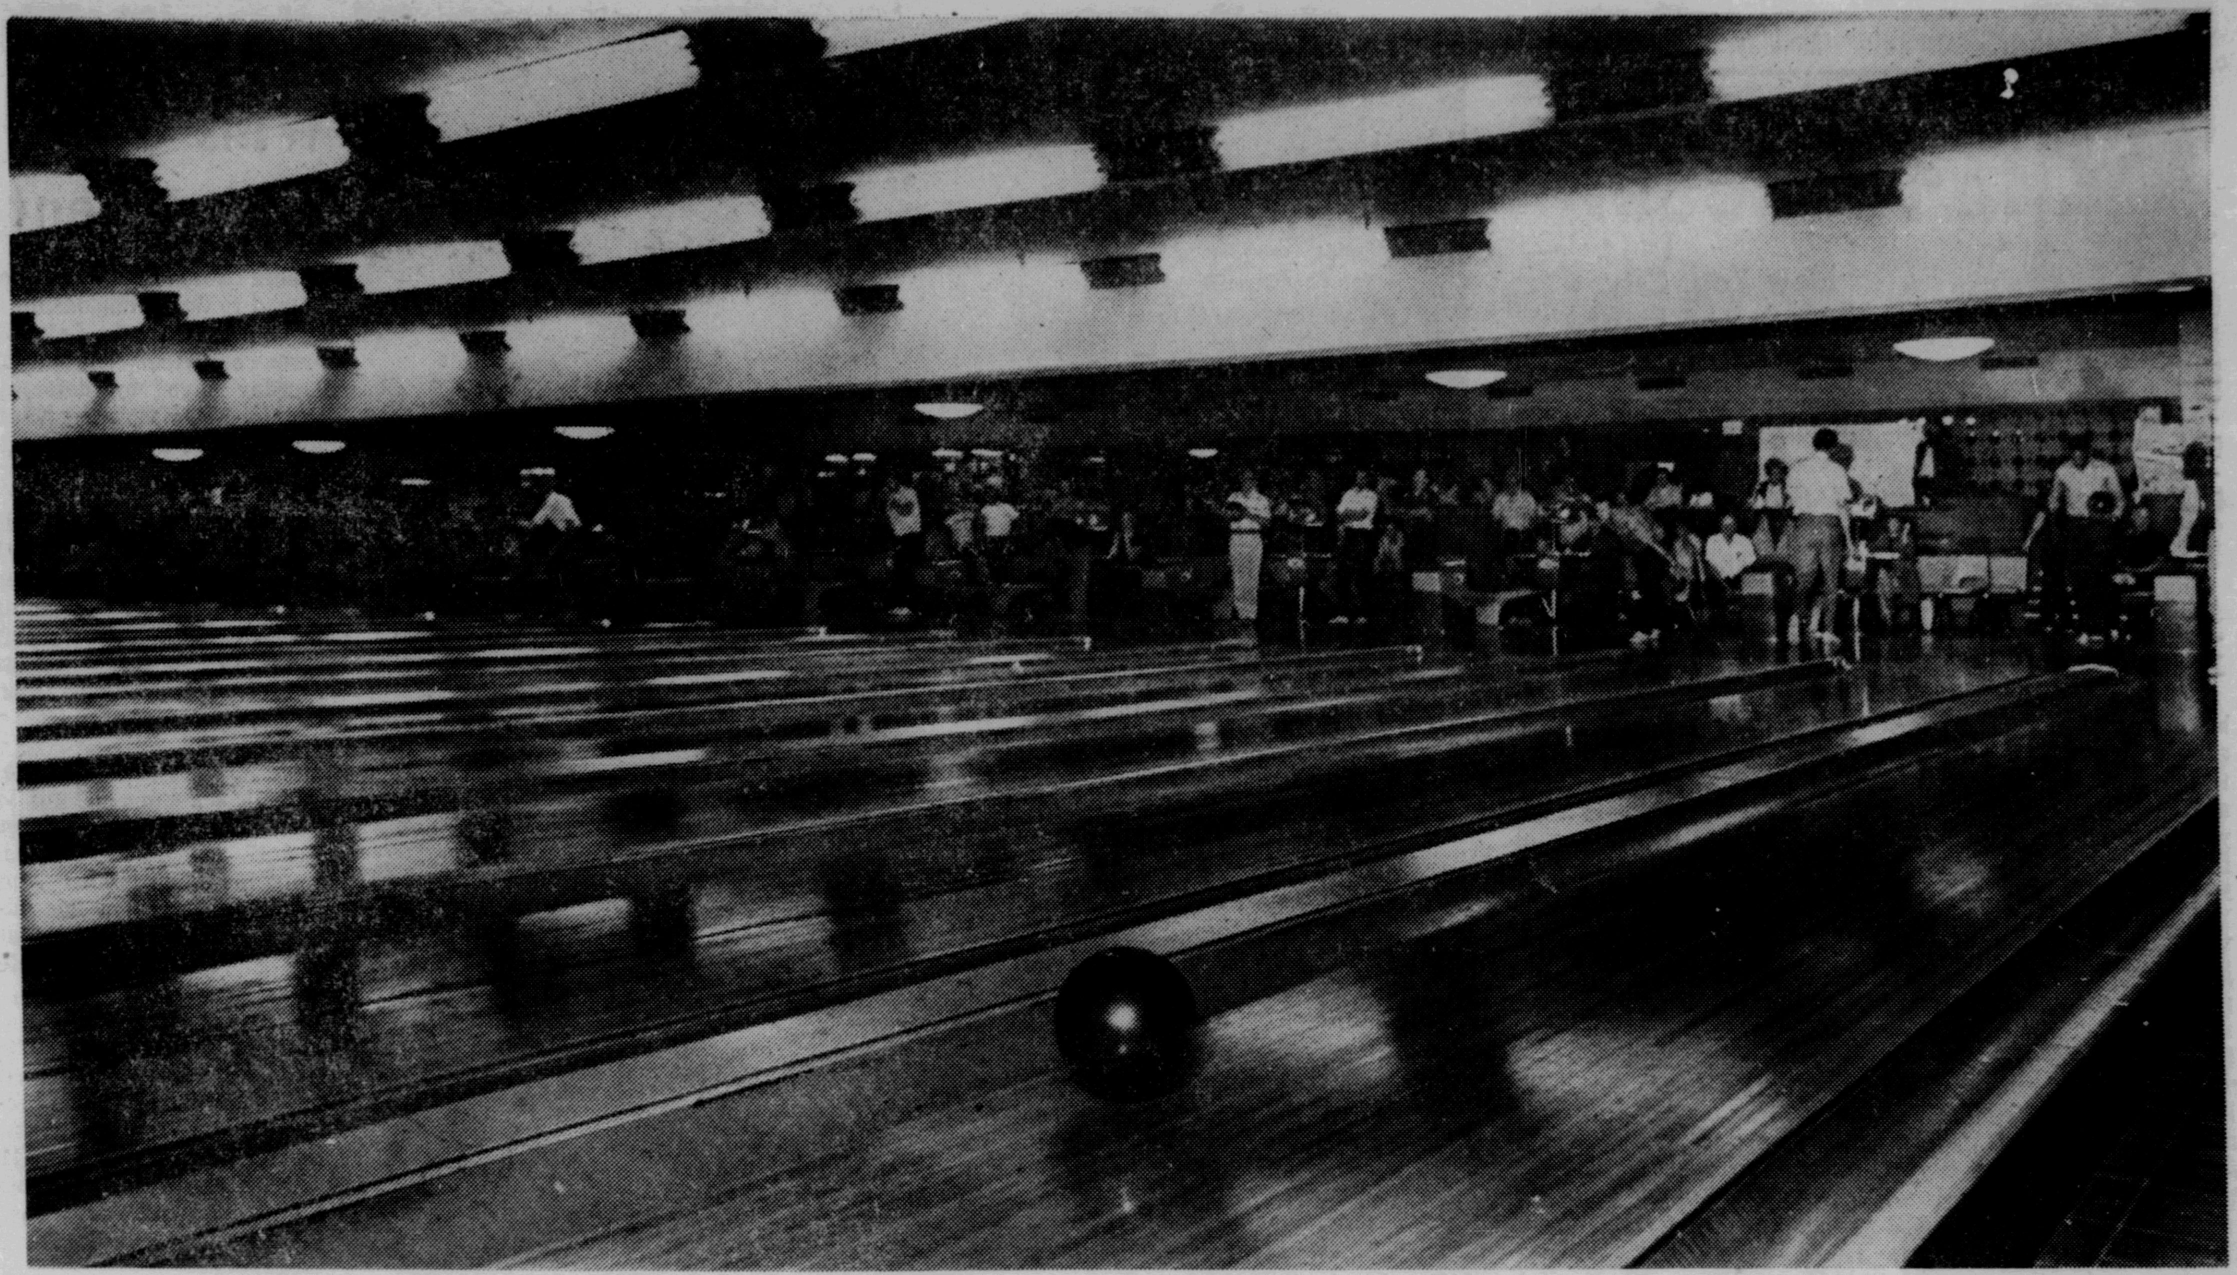
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court sustained today the March 1 action of Justice William O. Douglas in allowing professional basketball star Spencer Haywood to resume playing with the Seattle Supersonics.

The National Basketball Association (NBA) took the matter to the court itself after Spencer won the Douglas decision.

Haywood has been trying to finish out the season despite an NBA lawsuit against him in U.S. District Court in Los Angeles. The District Court barred the NBA from taking any action against Seattle to stop him from playing, pending outcome of the case.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals however stayed the effect of the district court's order but Douglas reinstated it.

The NBA is challenging Haywood's status in the Association. He shifted to the Seattle team from the Denver Rockets of the rival American Basketball Association (ABA).



MARIN BOWLERS OPEN FIRE IN CHAMPIONSHIP TOURNAMENT

This was the scene Saturday at Nave Lanes near Ignacio as the Marin County Men's Bowling Association opened its annual championship "City Tournament" with singles and doubles at the Nave house and team event at Greenbrae Lanes. The tournament winds up next Saturday and Sunday at both houses. Results of early leaders were not yet compiled today but will be published later in the week. (I-J photo by Alfred Arn)

J. C. Snead Wins Doral Open Golf

MIAMI (UPI)—"You hit it, go find it and hit it again."

That's golf, according to Jesse Carlyle Snead, who shot a steady 69 Sunday to win the $30,000 first prize in the Doral Eastern Open Golf Tournament. It boosted his 1971 winnings to $57,000, compared with a total take of $11,500 all of last year.

Snead, who won the Tucson Open for $22,000 two weeks ago, shot a four-round total of 275 to nick second place finisher Gardner Dickinson by a stroke.

Although he never trailed after taking a one-stroke lead into the round, it got a little tense on the 18th hole. Dickinson holed a seven-footer in the rain for a birdy three to pull within a stroke as Snead watched from down the fairway.

"That tightened down the nut a little," Snead said. The former baseball player with the Washington Senators farm system—and nephew of Sam Snead—also said as he was lining up for his second shot on the hole, one of the spectators hollered, "miss it."

Snead wasn't at all happy about the distraction, apparently from a Dickinson fan. "You don't expect that on a golf course," he said.

Snead matched three birdies on the front nine with only one bogey, then holed a three-foot birdy putt on the par five 10th and parred the rest of the way in, with the rain starting to fall when he was on the 18th.

In third place two strokes behind Dickinson was Miller Barber, who shot a 68. Gibby Gilbert shot a 71 for fourth place at 279 and bunched at 280 were Bruce Devlin, Bruce Fleisher and Terry Dill.

Jack Nicklaus shot a bogey six on the first hole and finished at one-over par 73 and 282. Arnold Palmer fired his second straight 70 for 287 and Gary Player shot a 70 for even par 288 over the 7,028-yard Doral Blue Monster course. Sam Snead shot a 73 for 291.

Dickinson said he was pleased with his game and said before the tournament started he would have thought his rounds of 12 under par would be enough to win.

"Sam ought to get Jesse (j.C.) to show him how to do it," Dickinson said. "Asked how it is to have another Snead playing, he said, "Yeah, there always seems to be one out there."

The 6-2, 195-pound Snead said his uncle had given him a lot of help, but "he said it was like trying to train a bear."

He said during his high school sports career and one year as a baseball, basketball and football player at a small Tennessee junior college, it would irritate him to be known as Sam Snead's nephew. But now, he

Marin Girls Lead Gymnastics Field

Chris Nikas of Terra Linda High School dominated the individual competition, and Tamalpais High of Mill Valley led Marin County teams to a near sweep of the Northern California Gymnastics meet Saturday at Terra Linda.

Tam finished first in the final computations, with Terra Linda taking third and Novato fourth. Montgomery of Santa Rosa broke the Marin stranglehold by taking second.

Miss Nikas, a senior, was the only girl to compete in the advanced class, and was not challenged by any of the beginners, novices, or intermediates in the field from some 25 schools.

San Rafael Divides Pair Of Games With S.F. Foes

The San Rafael High School Bulldogs opened their 1971 baseball season Saturday by splitting a doubleheader in Albert Park against two different San Francisco teams, while other MCAL teams, in their second day of non-league action, dropped three of four games.

San Rafael lost to Washington, 8-3, but came back to defeat Wilson, 3-1. In a doubleheader in Novato, San Marin won the first game of a twinbill against Galileo, 8-4, but lost the nightcap, 3-2. Terra Linda got beaten by Santa Rosa in that North Bay city, 4-2, and in the second day of the San Carlos Invitational Tournament, Marin Catholic was wiped out twice, by Hillsdale, 10-0, and then by San Carlos, 8-1.

San Rafael coach Jack Sims put entirely different teams on the field against the two city teams, with the exception of centerfielder Dirk Gansloser. In the first game, the Bulldogs went down to defeat despite outhitting Washington, 10-6. Mike Spezzi and Holt Green slammed two hits apiece in the losing effort.

San Rafael salvaged the nightcap against Wilson with two quietly-produced runs in the fourth inning. Craig Hecht scored on a balk, and seconds later Gregg Werner came home on an infield grounder by Rick Klarkowski, who also drove in the Bulldogs' first run with a double.

Catcher Jack Burnam had three hits including a double to pace San Marin in the opener, but Galileo's Steve Filipas, the losing pitcher in that game, came back in the nightcap to slam a last inning double that drove home the winning run and gave the city team a split.

After collecting just three hits in a season-opening loss to Napa Friday, Terra Linda could manage only four safeties Saturday and bowed to Santa Rosa. But two of the hits were doubles, by Jim Cottington and Bill Sherbert, and the latter was impressive in four innings he pitched.

"We just didn't get much pitching," coach Gary Hughes said after his Marin Catholic Wildcats got bombed twice to end up 0-3 in the San Carlos tourney. They didn't get much hitting either — only eight hits in two games. The only bright moments for the Kentfield team ame when Steve Sherry rapped a double in the first game, and Don Bianchini did likewise in the nightcap.

Serra of San Mateo won the tournament.

JIM MURRAY

New York City Before The Fight

NEW YORK — Well, how are things in Glocca-morra?

You come into this town, they should put a sign on the outskirts, "Management Not Responsible For Lost or Stolen Articles. Or Personal Injury." Darkest America.

Know what they have in the bushes now? Blow guns. And arrows tipped with sodium pentothal. They tranquilize you like a cape buffalo while they rifle your pockets. They're going to film the next "Tarzan" film on location here in Central Park.

The taxi rates went up 48%. You heard me. They got a notice posted on the windows. It reads something like, "If the meter reads $5.50, you pay $219.25." I know it doesn't prove out arithmetically, but let me tell you something: The meter trips every 72 seconds for "waiting time." You can go broke in a traffic jam. I got stuck in one the other night and finally told the driver, "Let me out here. I'd rather take my chances with the blow guns."

I won't say the city is run by Alice in Wonderland, but a headline on one side of the paper the other day read "Eight Thousand Fired." On the other side , it said "City To Pay $24 Million For Yankee Stadium." Bounce that around City Hall.

I'M BACK here to cover the Ali-Frazier fight, but until Saturday one fighter was in Florida, and the other in Philadelphia. That's because the fight is being run by amateurs. They gave each of these fighters $2.5 million in chas before they ever laced on a glove.

THEY'RE LUCKY the fighters bothered to train. When you get that much in front, the temptation would be to show up with champagne in the water-bucket and white tie and tails and treat the customers to a 15-round minuet, and then head directly back to your yacht.

So, they made the fighters show up for a "physical" last Wednesday. The doctors determined that neither one of them has leukemia, bad breath, pericarditis, athlete's foot, a fever, cradle cap, chicken pox, leprosy or hardening of the arteries. They also made sure they could frost a glass. The doctor made them touch the floor with their hands, say "Ah!" and take a deep breath. He then pronounced them alive.

Frazier had a blood pressure of 128 on one side of his body, and 120 on the other. Figure that one out. His pulse was 84. Ali's pulse was 80. But his tongue had callouses all over it.

THIRTY FLOORS above Park Ave. in a suite in the Waldorf Towers, Jack Kent Cooke, who put up $4.5 million to loose this spectacle on the world, sat and answered a constantly-ringing phone, and allowed as how he was enjoying the gamble. The head of Teleprompter Corp., the closed-circuit TV organization he controls, has just been indicted stay in New York and pump up the TV gate. If it was my $4½ million, I would have been poised on a ledge, but J. K. Cooke, who could see the good side of a train wreck, was as sunny as South Africa.

IF IT WAS my $4½ million, I would have been poised on a ledge, but J. K. Cooke, who could see the good side of a train wreck, was as sunny as South Africa.

"If I put 1½ million people in my seats around the world, we make $1½ million. That's $750,000 after taxes. That's 50 cents a seat."

IT'S ALSO 3% on his investment, which the government would be glad to pay him at no risk, one writer pointed out.

"There's no risk here," Jack quickly insisted. "We've got our money back already." But, just in case, he admitted he has insured the attraction at a cost of $1 million. Ali and Frazier aren't the only ones getting rich on the fight.

New York being New York, no one is wondering who is going to win the fight but how the fix is going to go. New Yorkers would look for the larceny in the story of creation.

Not that suspicion dampens their enthusiasm. You can't buy a ticket for the live fight. And, it will be close-circuited in the Felt Forum at $30 a head, and the Felt Forum is just down the hall from the real thing. It's another room in the Garden. It's also sold out.

It may be Boxing's last hurrah, but the funniest line of the week was that Muhammad Ali was going to register at the St. Regis "under an alias." One wonders what that could be — "Cheng Ching Po," perhaps?

One wonders also about a society that will eagerly pay two men $5 million to fist fight for 45 minutes, and fire 8,000 teachers because there's not enough money in the till to pay them for such a triviality.

Too Many Errors; Giants Lose Again

PHOENIX (UPI)—Alan Gallagher borrowed a page from Chicken Little in Sunday's exhibition baseball game.

The sky and a baseball seemed to fall on the third baseman of the San Francisco Giants with the bases loaded and two out in the eighth inning. He said he couldn't see the popup and muffed it for an error.

That opened the door for five Cleveland runs and the Giants' 3-2 lead was turned into a 7-3 loss.

But Gallagher refused to blame the blinding "high sky" over this Arizona desert city for the muff. "I just couldn't catch that blankety-blank ball," he said.

Only an inning earlier, Gallagher drove in two runs with a triple to spring the Giants to their one-run lead.

Today righthander Juan Marichal tests his arm seriously for the first time this spring when he goes against the Lotte Orions of Tokyo. The Giants and Orions haven't met since last spring when the Giants toured Japan.

Gaylord Perry worked the first three perfect innings for the Giants against the Indians. Other Giant pitchers were John Cumberland and Don Carrithers who had induced Roy Foster to pop to Gallagher in the eighth before the flood gates opened.

In three games this spring, the Giants have committed nine errors and allowed 12 unearned runs.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

It's A Good Start For Jim Maloney

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A one-game winner may turn out to be the most important pitcher in the California Angels' pennant fortunes for the second straight year.

The Angels staged a surprise threat for the American League West Division title when Clyde Wright, a one-game winner in 1969, enjoyed a 22-12 campaign in 1970. Now they're hoping that Jim Maloney, a one-game winner in 1970, will give them similar aid in 1971.

Maloney was acquired by the Angels after a 1-3 season with the Cincinnati Reds but is viewed as a potential 15-game winner on the strength of the 134-80 career record which he compiled in eight previous seasons with the Reds. Maloney was sidelined most of the 1970 season after suffering a torn Achilles tendon.

Maloney made his first appearance in an exhibition game with the Angels Sunday and pitched three scoreless innings in a 7-5 loss to the Chicago Cubs at Palm Springs, Calif.

"I was very pleased with the way he pitched," said Manager Lefty Phillips, who said during the winter that the Angels could win the West title if Maloney wins 15 games. "He pitched as well as you can ask for at this stage of the spring."

Joe Pepitone's three-run triple climaxed a six-run sixth inning rally which enabled the Cubs to score their victory but the Angels considered the loss less important than Maloney's spring debut.

On other fronts: Chico Salmon's ninth-inning homer gave the Baltimore Orioles a 43 victory over the New York Yankees. Mike McCormick yielded the homer and was the loser ... Ray Powell singled home the winning run in the seventh inning as the Minnesota Twins beat the Detroit Tigers, 4-3, for their second straight win over former manager Billy Martin.

Homers by Willie Stargell and Charlie Sands powered the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 3-2 win over the Philadelphia Phillies ... Bill Grabarkewitz hit a two-run double and Bill Russell drove in two runs with a double and a homer in the Los Angeles Dodgers' 2-0 victory over the Atlanta Braves. Hank Aaron homered for the Braves ... Rookie Rich McKinney had three singles and Carlos May hit a homer and a single to lead the Chicago White Sox to a 5-1 triumph over the Reds.

S.F. Golf Title To Gary Vanier

The 20-year-old golfer from Oakland beat veteran Verne Callison of Sacramento over 36 holes Sunday. Vanier and the 52-year-old Callison each shot one-under-par 71 over the first 18 holes. Then Vanier fired a 72 while Callison had a 75 on the final 18.

In Saturday's semifinals, Vanier ousted 17-year-old Bruce Robertson of San Mateo, 5 and 4. The balding Callison sank several pressure putts to turn back Lew Garbutt, a Sacramento lawyer, 2 and 1.

A's Dobson Rounding Into Form

TEMPE, Ariz. (UPI) — Chuck Dobson is rounding into form as a starter for the Oakland Athletics but relievers Jim Roland and Marcel Lachemann may need a little more work.

Dobson hurled four scoreless innings for the A's against the Milwaukee Brewers Sunday, striking out three and giving up two hits. However, Roland allowed one run and Lachemann was touched for two more as the Brewers downed the A's 3-2.

Andy Kosco homered off lefty Roland in the sixth to tie the score 1-1. Then Floyd Wicker doubled off Lachemann with two out in the eighth to score the tying and winning runs.

Oakland moved out to a 1-0 lead in the third when Frank Fernandez stole home on a double steal. The A's took a 2-1 lead in the top of the eighth.

The A's collected only five singles, including two by infielder Jim Driscoll. Bobby Brooks, Angel Mangual and Reggie Sanders got the others.

On Saturday at Mesa, Reggie Jackson powered two home runs, including one with the bases loaded, to lead the A's to a 13-9 win over Milwaukee. There were 19 walks in the contest which was the first featuring the three-ball walk experiment of A's owner Charles O. Finley. Batters walked with three balls instead of the customary four.

Santa Rosa Wins Cage Tournament

Santa Rosa High School romped to the championship in the annual Top of the Bay post season basketball tournament Saturday night by defeating Cardinal Newman, also of Santa Rosa, 80-58 at Sonoma State College.

A capacity crowd of 3,200 witnessed the final game, which was never in doubt. The Panthers outscored the defending champion Cardinals in every quarter, and had things wrapped up by halftime, when they led, 31-17.

In other final games, Miramonte of Orinda outdueled Napa for third place, 73-65, Liberty of Brentwood captured the consolation prize with a 66-41 victory over Woodland, and Sonoma, pre-tourney favorites, edged Eureka, 65-58.

Marin Mothers Win In Hockey

Marin Amateur Hockey League stars played in three Northern California all-star games Saturday, and in a game yesterday, mothers of Marin players beat mothers of Belmont players, 8-2.

Marin star Sean Mitchell scored a three-point hat trick to lead the NorCal all-stars to a 6-5 win over Berkeley, in Berkeley, while the Bantam and Pee Wee all-stars were tied by Belmont, 1-1 and 2-2.

SWIM RELAYS

Terra Lindans Dominate Meet

With meet records falling like snow in the Sierra, Terra Linda High School's Trojan swimmers rolled up 124 points to dominate aquatic teams in the 5th Annual Marin County Athletic League relays in Larkspur Saturday.

En route to the impressive victory, Terra Linda cracked three MCAL records, including the long free style relay, where sophomore Rich DeMont joined Thom Guthrie, Jim Barton, and Don Lafrenz to demolish the existing record by more than 10 seconds.

This same Trojan relay combination had set another meet record in the 400 free relay earlier in the day.

Also recording a new league record for Terra Linda were Dennis Knowles, Casey Flaherty, Jerry Taylor, and Jeff Grant in the 200 butterfly relay.

Leading a moderately impressive second place showing for Redwood were Paul Cane, Brian Hennessy, Doug Brockbank, and freshman standout Spencer Eldred, as they combined for two new league marks, in the 400 breast relay and the 400 individual medley relay.

Novato added to the record books in the diving relay, as superstar John Summerfield, coupled with Steve Sanders and Jim Ferris, easily outclassed the competition.

FINAL SCORING

Colored Gloves As Symbols Of Protest

Phoenix — Juan Marichal and Gaylord Perry came to camp this spring with colored gloves. The pitchingaces of the Giants said they intend to use them during the season.

Section 1.15 of the Official Baseball Rules states "The pitcher's glove shall be uniform in color, and shall not be white or gray."

Neither Marichal's nor Perry's new gloves violate that rule. They are blue, red and green, not a mixture of those colors but solid blue, solid red and green. Any mixture of colors would violate the "uniform in color" phrase of the rule.

Perry's new glove is red. Marichal has three new gloves — blue, red and green.

"YOU KNOW how red upsets bulls," said Perry. "Just think what my glove will do to hitters when I wave it in front of them."

"Blue is my favorite color," said Marichal, "but I also am going to use my red and green gloves, too. I plan to switch them each inning. I want to make the hitters mad."

Whether the colored gloves will be a distraction to batters, causing them to take their eye off the ball, remains to be seen. But colored gloves brought to Florida spring training camps already have prompted a protest from Gil Hodges. The manager of the Mets says he intends to make his protest official to Chub Feeney, president of the National League.

Perry feels that it's time pitchers were shown some consideration by baseball's rules committee which in recent years (1) lowered the pitching mound (2) narrowed the strike zone (3) passed tough legislation banning super sinkers more vulgarly known as spitballs and grease balls.

"And don't forget the jackrabbit ball they slipped in on us last year," said Perry, "or this year's lobbying for three-ball walks. All of the important rules changes these past years have favored the hitters. It's time something was done for pitchers.

WHILE WHITE gloves are banned for pitchers, white shoes are permitted. The A's wear white shoes. A high-kicking pitcher seemingly could cause a batter a distracting eye problem with white shoes. But the A's don't have any high-kickers in Marichal's class. Chuck Dobson is the A's highest kicker.

Marichal kicks as high as a chorus girl in his delivery. What if Marichal decides to wear white shoes this season? Had he given any consideration to that? "No," he smiled but the way he said it left the impression he would give the matter further thought.

Marichal's over-the-head-kick drooped last year when his stamina was sapped by a severe reaction to penicillin treatment for a mysterious virus he picked up in Japan during the Giants' unsuccessful experiment with overseas spring training.

He is kicking as high as ever this spring, completely recovered from last year's lingering illness. His kick, as it is, creates a natural distraction for batters. A white shoe kick by Marichal would look pretty except, of course, to hitters.

Petty Claims Win In Richmond 500

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)— Richard Petty, starting on the back row, quickly moved his Plymouth through the herd Sunday and claimed the Richmond 500 as his second victory of the five-race-old Grand National stock car season.

It was the 121st career win for the 33-year-old, Randleman, N.C., pilot, the winningest driver in stock car history. He finished with an average speed of 79.836 miles an hour in the 250-mile event.

Basketball

SANTA CLARA (UPI)—John Gianelli, 6-10 junior center from the University of Pacific, has been voted the most valuable player in the West Coast Athletic Conference by coaches.

Gianelli led the conference in rebounding and ranks fourth in the nation in that department while leading UOP to the WCAC championship.

Bowling

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI)—Veteran bowler Dick Weber threw four straight strikes to edge brother-in-law Norm Meyers and pocket $7,000 as the winner's share of the $60,000 Professional Bowlers Association Buckeye Open.

Weber was third going into the final round Saturday of the nationally televised tournament. He eliminated Don Russell and Wayne Zahn in the match games and then took Meyers 237-235.

Tennis

HAMPTON, Va. (UPI)— Romania's Ilio Nastase has another $18,250 today to spend on the girls.

The fun-loving tennis star defeated American Clark Graebner of New York Sunday in the U. S. National Indoor Tennis Championships, 7-4, 6-4 and 7-6 for the singles title.

Then he and fellow Romanian Ion Tiriac beat Grebner and Brazil's Tomas Koch in doubles, 6-4, 4-6 and 7-5.

FIGHT

and a new house because I was using my brain."

Frazier retaliates by calling his opponent "a phony and a clown" for failing to live up to the Black Muslim principles Clay preaches. "He has misled a lot of people," the squat Philadelphian says, "but, as for me, this is just another fight—for myself and nobody else."

Even the odds reflect the emotional pitch of the bout. Frazier is a slight favorite in the United States, but the rest of the world has established Clay as the choice wherever there is betting.

Physically, the advantages appear to lie with Clay. He is one of the largest men ever to reign as heavyweight champion, and Frazier is one of the smallest. The 29-year-old Clay is nearly four inches taller at 6-foot-3, has a 6½-inch reach advantage at 80 inches and also is heavier.

Not only that, but Clay also is faster, and his punching power, often underrated, can be testified to by his 25 knockouts in 31 consecutive victories. Frazier, whose biggest assets are his power, non-stop determination and ability to weather the firestorm of the ring, has 23 knockouts in 26 fights.

"No short-armed, slow-thinking, flat-footed fighter is gonna beat me," Clay boasts. "It'll be pop, pop, POP, and he'll know the masquerade is over. The press has turned him into a giant, and that's good. Because think how great that makes me when I beat him. Then you'll know who the champion really is."

Clay has never recognized Frazier as heavyweight champion, and neither has the cult that has grown up around Clay. Clay was at the height of his ability in 1967 when he was stripped of the championship and banned from boxing for refusing to go into the Army.

Not until Oct. 26 last year after a lengthy court battle was Clay permitted to fight again, and he made his return in eloquent style, stopping Jerry Quarry in three rounds. On Dec. 7, he became the first man ever to stop the hulking Argentine, Oscar Bonavena, in 15 rounds, and the stage was set for a meeting with Frazier.

Frazier had won his title on Feb. 16 last year by knocking out Jimmy Ellis, one of Clay's former sparring partners, in five rounds, and he followed with a two-round knockout over Bob Foster on Nov. 18. But his claim to the title was tarnished by Clay's return, and only a showdown could erase the stains.

The showdown will be seen in 35 foreign countries as well as 350 closed circuit television sites around the United States, and 19,500 fans, paying up to $800 on the scalpers' market for their $150 ringside seats, will be at the Garden. The live gate will amount to $1.25-million.

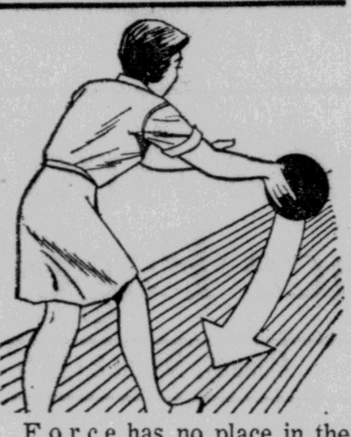
BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG



Force has no place in the science of bowling. Things should happen naturally. One of the easiest is letting the ball fall smoothly as you begin your second step and the backswing. Forcing will disrupt your rhythm.

A Pair Of Ties For Seals

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — You can hardly call the California Golden Seals matinee idols, but they are improving.

Notorious losers on the road, the Seals finally snapped out of their lethargic wanderings with a pair of weekend ties at Philadelphia and Pittsburgh in afternoon games. The Seals built a 3-0 lead over Pittsburgh Sunday afternoon only to have the Penguins storm goalie Gary Smith for three goals in less than four minutes in the final period for a 3-3 standoff.

That completed the final eastern swing this season for the Seals. They have two remaining "western" road games at Vancouver and Los Angeles.

Doug Roberts scored a goal late in the first period for California and teammates Gerry Ehman and Ernie Hicke tallied in the second period. Hicke's came on a power play and was the 20th of the season for the rookie.

But the Penguins bombarded Smith when the third period started and Andy Bathgate scored at 3:50. Then Syl Apps and Wally Boyer followed in quick succession for the tie when it appeared the Seals had wrapped up their fourth road win of the season.

On Saturday, the Seals scored three times in the final 8 1-2 minutes to gain a 4-4 tie with the Flyers. After Gary Dornhoefer's second NHL hat trick put the Seals behind 4-1, Dennis Hextall, Ehman and Tony Featherstone scored to even it up. Featherstone's unassisted goal came when he poked the puck into the net from between the pads of goalie Doug Favell.

As things stand, the Seals show a poor road record of 3-30-4. To put it another way, they have picked up only 10 points out of a possible 74 while away from home. Their last road win was over Detroit Dec. 20.

MCAL RELAYS

Records Fall In Prep Track

A full scale assault on the record book marked the Marin County Athletic League track and field relays that opened the 1971 season Saturday at College of Marin in Kentfield.

Eight league records were set, three by Tamalpais High School, and the Indians of Mill Valley took five of the 12 events to win the team competition.

Sparked by Gerald Robertson and Richard Brown, both of whom were involved in three of the record shattering events, Tam rolled up 47 points to edge Terra Linda, which set two marks and finished with 43. The only other team within striking distance of the leaders was San Rafael, which wound up 32 points and a record.

The team of Robertson, Brown, Braj Carry and Greg Biber stormed to record wins in both shuttle-hurdles events, 280 and 480 yards, and Robertson and Brown anchored a record setting four man effort in the high jump. That event saw the day's most outstanding individual performance, a 6-foot-3 leap by Robertson, who holds the MCAL record at 6-4. Biber and Carry also figured in winning the long jump.

Terra Linda won the other three field events, the pole vault, discus, and shot put in record fashion, to easily outdistance third place San Rafael. Bruce Little had a hand in victories in the shot and the discus.

Other events in which records were set included the 2-mile, where Redwood broke the old mark by 10 seconds with an 8:21 clocking, and the mile, which San Marin ran in 3:34.1, one-tenth of a second faster than the old mark.

FINAL SCORING

Tamalpais, 47; Terra Linda, 43; San Rafael, 32; Redwood, 19; San Marin, 18; Novato, 12; Drake, 6, Marin Catholic, 4.

Penguin Is Out

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Rookie left wing Greg Polis of the Pittsburgh Penguins may be lost to the National Hockey League team for the remainder of the season because of the flu and throat trouble. Polis has scored 18 goals for Pittsburgh this season—a record for a Peguins' rookie.

LOOKING DOWN ON MARIN'S AUDITORIUM

This unusual view of the Veteran's Memorial Auditorium at the Marin County Civic Center was shot yesterday from the basket of a snorkel fire truck by Independent-Journal photographer Jim Kean. The San Rafael Fire Department was at the Civic Center with pumpers and snorkels for practice drills. Some $3 million has been poured into the 2,100-seat facility in the past four years by Marin County and the state, $519,000 of it since Jan. 1.

Army Colonel Denies $4,000 PX Bribe

WASHINGTON (UPI) —An Army colonel denied today he took a $4,000 bribe while he was commander of the Post Exchange (PX) system in Vietnam.

Col. Jack Ice repeatedly told the Senate Investigations Subcommittee, "No sir ... I did not, sir." He was questioned closely on testimony that he had accepted the money, then paid it back when threatened with exposure.

The subcommittee is in its fourth week of renewed hearings on alleged bribery and corruption at PXs and servicemen's clubs on military bases around the world.

Ice, who commanded the Vietnam PX system in 1967 and now is stationed at the Presidio in San Francisco, was called to testify immediately after Jacques H. Adler, a diamond merchant from Denver, testified how he became involved in the alleged $4,000 transaction.

Adler charged that no one was able to get authorization to establish a concession at military bases without first making "financial arrangements" with the men who ran club and PX systems.

"These people knew all the tricks of the trade and they knew them well," Adler said. "The matter was well-known to all of us that concessions were not obtainable in Vietnam without bribing Col. Ice."

Adler said that a Korean colonel, K. K. Lee, complained to him in 1967 that his family was forced to pay Ice $4,000 cash to win a laundry and drycleaning concession in Vietnam. Adler said that when the concession was not awarded to Lee's family, he volunteered to help Lee get the money back.

He said it was arranged for the money to be paid back through the Denver bank account of an Adler employee. But as soon as the transaction was completed, he said, Vietnamese police raided his Saigon office, threatened to jail his employes and fined his firm $33,177 for illegal currency transaction.

Ice denied the account.

Hijacker, 16, Changes Mind

MIAMI (UPI)—A teen-ager, apparently spurned by his girl friend, hijacked an airliner today but later changed his mind and gave himself up in Miami.

The youth commandeered a National Airlines jetliner during a scheduled stop at Mobile, Ala., and ordered it to Montreal. Once in the air, however, he decided to give himself up and told the pilot to fly to Miami where FBI agents arrested him.

Authorities identified him as Thomas Kelly Marston, 16, a sophomore at Davidson High School in Mobile.

Sentry Shooter Gets Six Years

BERLIN (UPI)—A British military government court sentenced a 22-year-old West Berlin medical orderly to six years in jail today for shooting a Soviet army sentry.

Court President Sir Leslie Block found Ekkehard Weil, an admitted admirer of Adolf Hitler, guilty of "malicious attempted murder for base motives." Three months Weil spent in jail awaiting trial will be deducted from the six years sentence.

Soviet sentry Ivan Zcherbak was shot while on guard duty at the Soviet war memorial in the British sector of West Berlin on Nov. 7, 1970. He recovered from his wounds and testified at the trial.

'Hanoi In Trouble, Wants Help'

By K. C. THALER

LONDON (UPI) —North Vietnam disclosed today that Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai had just visited Hanoi in connection with "U.S. aggression." Diplomats said the visit meant Hanoi is in trouble and wants help.

First diplomatic assessments of the unexpected visit said Peking in turn is determined not to allow the Hanoi regime to be defeated militarily or to be weakened to the point of political crisis.

The diplomatic assessment said the Chou visit reflected the apparent success of the current U.S.-backed South Vietnamese operation in Laos against the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

The high level of the Chinese mission, its composition, the time of the visit and not least the fact that Hanoi asked for the Chinese leaders all point to new development of crisis proportions, the assessment said.

Just what Hanoi wants and what Peking is ready to give remains a matter for speculation at this early stage of the Sino-Vietnamese get-together. Peking all along has urged Hanoi to go on fighting to victory.

Nor was it ruled out that a similarly composed Soviet mission might go to Hanoi—or, alternatively, that top level talks might be initiated in Moscow. Anything less than that would mark a clear shift by Hanoi to Peking, at the expense of Moscow.

Chou has not left China for five years or more. He quietly dropped plans for a visit to Africa last year.

Diplomatic sources noted that among those accompanying him are not only top party chiefs but also the deputy chief of staff of the Chinese army.

The Hungarian news agency MTI quoted "Peking observers" as saying Chou's journey and his talks in Hanoi "came after the Chinese government declared it will take every measure to provide support to the peoples of Indochina and will not allow the Americans to do with those peoples as they please."

MTI said the official Peking newspaper Peoples Daily published a commentary today warning that "the American acts of aggression bear a threat to China, which will not remain indifferent." It reported a "sympathy demonstration of millions" in favor of Chinese government policy.

'Biggest Manhunt' In Turkish History

ANKARA (UPI)—A Turkish government spokesman said today the gunmen who kidnaped four U.S. airmen were "professional urban guerrillas" subsidized from abroad.

"This is the work not of ordinary university students, but of a small group of professional urban guerrillas," the spokesman said. "They are subsidized from outside Turkey and use the tactics of South American guerrillas. Some of the ringleaders have been trained by outside groups."

The airmen —S. Sgt. Jimmie J. Sexton of San Angelo, Tex., and Airmen 1. C. Larry J. Heavner of Denver, Colo., James M. Gholson of Alexandria, Va., and Richard Caraszi of Stamford, Conn.—were abducted at gunpoint Thursday and held for $400,000 ransom.

The kidnapers threatened to shoot the captives unless the money was delivered by 6 a.m. last Friday. The ransom was not paid and no word has been heard from the kidnapers since the deadline.

Troops with mine detectors returned to Ankara's Middle East Technical University today to resume their search of the grounds and six miles of underground tunnels that honeycomb the area carrying the campus heating system.

Turkish authorities consider the university a breeding ground of radicalism.

Supreme Court Rejects 'Specific War' Objectors

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court refused today to allow draftees to claim conscientious objector status because of opposition to a specific war such as Vietnam. The vote was 8 to 1 with Justice William O. Douglas dissenting.

In the majority opinion in two test cases, Justice Thurgood Marshall declared that Congress in enacting the selective service law intended to exempt only persons "who oppose participation in all war — participation in war in any form."

Of the argument that a draftee should be able to single out a particular war as grounds for conscientious objection, Marshall wrote:

"Persons who object solely to participation in a particular war are not within the purview of the exempting section even though the latter objection may have such roots in a claimant's conscience and personality that it is religious in character."

In his dissent, Douglas said of the majority ruling: "Conscience is repudiated ... The Court has done violence to the basic philosophy of the First Amendment and we take a step backward."

The decision upheld lower court rulings against two men who refused to serve in Vietnam.

Guy Porter Gillette of New York City was sentenced to two years in prison for refusing to report for induction. Louis A. Negre of Bakersfield, Calif., sought to get out of the service after he had been drafted.

In other major actions, the Court:

—Decided on a tie, 4-4, vote to let stand a ruling by Maryland's highest court that the controversial Swedish film, "I am Curious (Yellow)", was obscene. The tie vote did not set a high court precedent in law but merely affirmed the state court judgment.

—Refused to hear an appeal by atheist Madalyn Murray O'Hair who claimed the astronauts on the Apollo 8 and Apollo 11 flights to the moon improperly injected religious activities into their operations.

Mideast War Fear Along Tense Canal

Cease-Fire End Spurs Blackout, Evacuations

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Egypt imposed a partial blackout in Cairo today and evacuated civilians from the Suez Canal following expiration of the Middle East cease-fire. Fears were expressed both in Egypt and Israel that an accident could touch off new fighting.

"Anything could set it off now —the sonic boom of a passing plane or an accidental gunshot — anything," one western diplomat told UPI correspondent Nat Gibson in Cairo. Israeli newspapers also warned of a possible accident that could bring new conflict.

Official sources in Cairo said three Israeli planes flew over Egypt's canal positions this afternoon, creating a war scare. The Egyptians sounded air raid alarms but no shots were fired, the sources said. The sources said the Egyptians also spotted military movements on the Israeli side during the night.

The Cairo diplomat described the situation as "highly dangerous" but expressed cautious optimism that the United Nations cease-fire observers stationed on the canal would be able to prevent any sudden outbreak of firing from intensifying into a full scale battle.

Political sources in Cairo said Egypt was evacuating the majority of the civilians still living near the Suez Canal to rear areas.

Both Arab and Israeli troops were on full alert the length of the 103-mile Suez Canal, but hours after the truce expired there were no reports that hostilities had been resumed. Sadat refused to extend the cease-fire but diplomats believed a truce would continue on an hour-to-hour basis.

Official sources said the partial blackout was ordered by Interior Minister Sharawi Gomaa, underlining the seriousness with which the government views the situation. He also issued "urgent orders on civil defense measures" after a meeting with his top aides.

A similar blackout order has been nominally in effect since the 1967 Arab-Israeli war but many people paid little attention to it.

Both Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban and Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad were reported beginning new initiatives to ease the Mideast situation.

The Israeli afternoon newspapers Maariv and Yedioth Aharonoth said Eban would leave for the United States within eight days for talks in New York with U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring and in Washington with President Nixon. Both forecast increased U.S. pressure on Israel to ease its hard-line stand.

Cairo reports said Riad would

North Vietnam Pouring Elite Troops Into Laos

SAIGON (UPI) — Military sources said tonight North Vietnam is pouring elite troops into Laos to counter the strike against the Ho Chi Minh Trail by the 24,000-man South Vietnamese task force, despite 1,000 aircraft strikes that have destroyed 800 supply trucks in the past four days.

A South Vietnamese general reported his forces had destroyed 13,139 tons of Communist munitions in Laos. The strike against the Ho Chi Minh supply trail appeared so successful Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai flew to Hanoi to discuss the situation.

Military sources said the North Vietnamese reinforcements and supplies were moving west of the normal supply routes which were hit again today by fighter-bombers. More than 1,000 sorties were flown again today by fighterbombers, helicopter gunships and supply helicopters.

The military sources said Communist truck traffic over the past four or five days had gone back to a level of 1,200 to 1,500 vehicles per day from the low point of 500 to 600 daily reported last Thursday by President Nixon.

Lt. Gen. Hoang Xuan Lam, commander of the South Vietnamese task force in Laos, said the South Vietnamese had destroyed 1,341 tons of food supplies in the month-old operation and that truck traffic south on the Ho Chi Minh Trail had been cut to a "minimum."

The new troop and supply movements from North Vietnam were to the north and indicated a major counterattack by the North Vietnamese was in the making. Lam admitted the fighting so far had been hard and "we are meeting the elite of the North Vietnamese troops."

New fighting broke out meanwhile along Route 9, the axis of the ARVN thrust into Laos, and South Vietnamese armored units were trying to open the road to "relax some of the pressures on U.S. helicopters." The road is heavily mined and vulnerable to attack and helicopters have been used exclusively to take in supplies.

Lam told a news conference at his Ham Nghi command post near the Laotian border the food and armaments was enough to supply three Communist divisions totaling 36,000 men for one month.

The capture Saturday of the Ho Chi Minh Trail junction of Sepone, 27 miles inside Laos, has "decreased traffic to a minimum," Lam said.

South Vietnamese spokesmen in forward areas inside Quang Tri Province reported government marines with support from air strikes and artillery killed at least 250 North Vietnamese troops in an 18-hour

Government Enters Testimony Of Calley Killing Before My Lai

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)—A veteran of Lt. William L. Calley's platoon testified today that two weeks before the My Lai assault he heard Calley threaten a Vietnamese farmer, then heard a gunshot, and later saw the farmer dead in a well.

The witness, Billy Carney, 24, a Meridian, Miss., factory worker, did not say he saw Calley doing the shooting. He was called in the government's attempt to show that Calley had the ability to premeditate murder around the time of My Lai and that he had an intent to kill at My Lai.

Carney was the 20th rebuttal witness called by the government in its attempt to prove that Calley murdered 102 civilians in the Vietnamese hamlet on March 16, 1968, in four specific instances involving either himself or his platoon members at his order.

Earlier, the court eliminated as a potential rebuttal witness Maj. Gen. Samuel W. Koster, who has been cleared of charges of covering up the My Lai affair.

Carney was preceded to the stand by Dennis I. Conti, 21, a Providence, R. I., truck driver who was the only government witness to say he observed all four incidents of slaughter involving Calley.

They are, as charged by the government: killing at least 30 women, children and old men at a trail intersection, killing at least 70 after pushing them into a drainage ditch, blowing off the head of a middle aged man who had his hands in a praying position, and slaying a baby after slinging it into the ditch.

Asked what he thought Calley's mental condition was that day, Conti replied:

"He seemed pretty calm to me ..."

Carney said that the well incident occurred while the platoon Calley commanded was working alone on a mission in a Vietnamese village.

"There were two farmers working in the field," Carney said. "Lt. Calley wanted to talk to one. I heard him say that if he didn't talk and tell what he wanted, he would throw him in the well.

"I was in the first squad, and we formed a perimeter. About 10 minutes later, I heard a gunshot.

"Later I went back by the well and I saw a dead man in the well—he'd been shot."

Carney said that Ronald D. Grzesick of Holyoke, Mass., an interpreter, was with Calley at the time.

Carney testified that he had attended a company briefing given the day before My Lai by Calley's immediate superior, Capt. Ernest L. Medina, the company commander, and that Medina gave no instructions to "gather up and kill unarmed women and children."

Calley and more than 20 other defense witnesses have said Medina ordered everything in the village killed, and Calley testified he followed those orders as a good officer should.

Optoelectronics Wins Contract For Infrared Detector Units

Marin County lost a growling electronics industry last year when Optoelectronics, Inc. at Northgate Industrial Park changed its mind about occupying a permanent plant there and moved to Petaluma instead.

The company, originally in a temporary location at 4340 Redwood Highway and now at 1309 Dynamic Street, Petaluma, has just reported being awarded a $479,000 production engineering contract by the U.S. Army Electronics Command for infrared photodetector assemblies. It is currently establishing an East Coast office in Massachusetts in addition to one in Washington, D.C. opened last November.

Optoelectronics, founded in 1969, now employs 38 persons and plans to recruit still more personnel to step up its production of infrared systems for many new applications, both by the government and by private industry.

VOSSBRINK PHARMACY at 894 Fourth Street, San Rafael, which was sold to Webb and Rogers last July, has closed out its prescription department and is now in the process of selling off its stocks.

Ralph A. Vossbrink owned the store for about 33 years before retiring last year.

NEW VICE PRESIDENT at Bank of Marin is F. M. Ganey of Concord, who has been in the banking business over 47 years. He was with the First National Bank of Great Falls, Montana for over 18 years, eight of which he served as president and trust officer. Later he was president of Concord National Bank before it was merged into the Central Banking System. From 1967 through 1969 he was senior vice president of Commonwealth National Bank in San Francisco. He retired from banking then to enter into private financial advising and consulting.

WILLIAM J. BREEN of San Rafael is celebrating 35 years of service with Bank of America this month. Now vice president, corporate agency and business services, at the bank's San Francisco headquarters, he has also headed the personnel relations departments in Los Angeles and San Francisco. He joined Bank of America at San Francisco and has also served in San Mateo, Redwood City and Redding offices.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Building Rebound: Don't Sell Boise

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have a 950-share investment in Boise Cascade at a cost of $18 per share. I am in the 50 per cent tax bracket. In view of the profit drop should I hold or sell Boise? — B. B.

A. A deficit in the final 1970 quarter pulled earnings down to $1.16 a share from $2.40 in 1969. Unexpected costs incurred from upgrading environmental standards at these developments plus a recession-related slowdown in real estate sales resulted in nonrecurring charges on 1970 earnings.

A more expansive federal monetary policy has recently eased mortgage interest rates, spurring housing starts. For January, building permits issued rose 52 per cent year-to-year on an annualized basis. In addition, lumber prices have firmed, with a 15 per cent boost noted since the first of 1971.

Approximately two-thirds of Boise's business is construction-related; improved conditions in this industry should begin to be evident in company earnings by mid-year. Shares have exceptional longer-range growth characteristics and should be retained.

Q. I would appreciate your comment on Boston Capital. I have 200 shares which cost me $10 per share. I am 87 and need income. — E. S.

A. This venture capital company is a speculation on the success of its two major holdings, Ohio Nuclear and Waukesha Industries. No dividend has been paid since January of 1970, thus this is an unsuitable investment for you. Sale at this time would entail little loss of principal.

You Can't Forgive A Debtor, But You Can Deduct Bad Debt

You can deduct your personal bad debts if:

1. A valid debt was created in 1970 or existed at January 1, 1970, and some event occurred in 1970 which leads you to believe that the debt was uncollectible such as bankruptcy, disappearance of the debtor, etc.

2. The bad debt must have been included in your income or been a part of your capital. You cannot have a bad debt deduction for uncollectible wages, fees, rents, etc.

3. You cannot forgive a debtor his debt and take a deduction for it. You must have made every reasonable effort to collect.

Personal loans to members of your family can be charged off as bad debts, if there is evidence it was a loan and that you made every reasonable effort to collect.

Sometimes what looks like plain bad luck can become a bad debt deduction. The IRS says a nonbusiness bad debt deduction is allowable for unrecoverable deposits made for the construction of a residence when the construction company becomes insolvent and fails to perform under the contract.

The rules for business bad debts are different and are covered in Document 5176 which is free at your local IRS office.

Losses sustained on purchases of undelivered stock from a securities corporation that subsequently becomes bankrupt are deductible as short-term capital losses under the nonbusiness bad debt provisions. If there had been any dishonesty connected with these, they might have been deductible as theft losses not subject to the $1,000 per year limitations.

If your bad debt is a personal debt, the deduction is made on separate Schedule D of the tax return as a short-term capital loss. Such losses cannot be deducted from other income in an amount over $1,000 per year. However, they can be deducted from capital gains in any amount.

If you have a bad debt loss of more than $1,000, claim $1,000 for 1970 and carry the balance over to 1971. Your deduction is limited to not more than $1,000 per year. You can take it all in any year you have capital gains to cover it.

You must attach a statement to your tax return and show: The nature of the debt; name of the debtor and his business or family relationship to you, if any; when the debt became due; what efforts you have made to collect the debt; how you determined the debt to be worthless.

1971 CALIFORNIA REALTY FUND

Attend an open meeting to discuss Tax Shelter & Investment Advantages PLUS receive the offering circular.

BACKGROUND
In 1970, the California Realty Fund acquired six apartment complexes totaling 1,379 units with a total value in excess of $20 million. A total of $3,320,000 of equity capital was utilized to purchase these properties.

POTENTIAL SAFETY
In the opinion of the General Partner of the Fund, the acquisitions made to date provide the Fund with geographical diversification, an opportunity for appreciation, and financial stability, in that the properties are all leased back to the sellers.

OBJECTIVES
In 1971, it is the intention of the General Partner to acquire additional apartment complexes, as well as other types of income-producing property, such as shopping centers, office buildings, industrial complexes, and mobile home parks. This will provide the Fund with a diversified real estate investment portfolio.

ADVANTAGES
We fully intend to structure the acquisition of these properties so that the following benefits will be derived by the Limited Partner Investors:
1971 Tax Deductibility .... 50 to 60% of investment
Future Annual Tax Deductibility .... 15 to 20% of investment
Annual Cash Flow (Tax Sheltered) .... 5 to 7% of investment

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Strike Delayed

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The United Transportation Union called a strike against two major railroads Sunday night but then voluntarily postponed it until Thursday when the lines asked a federal judge to block a walkout.

The strike was called without advance notice for midnight Sunday against the Burlington Northern and the Seaboard Coast Line railroads.

The rapidity of the UTU in calling it off indicated the action was a strategy move by the union since "selective strikes" have been ruled illegal by federal judges in some similar cases in the past.

Negotiations aimed at avoiding a nationwide strike were recessed Saturday —without any date for new talks —to allow each side to study the other's offers and to prepare for more discussions.

Union officials postponed the strike against Burlington and Seaboard until 2 p. m. EST Thursday to give U. S. District Judge John H. Pratt time to arrange a hearing on the railroads' request for a temporary restraining order against the strike.

Trouble Confined

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—A heavy buildup of troops in the city's riot areas confined trouble today to a few isolated flareups in which Roman Catholic youths hurled gasoline bombs and stones at army patrols.

An army spokesman said the city was "generally calm" and "much quieter than previous nights."

The first religious parades of Northern Ireland's "marching season" touched off trouble Sunday in two areas. In the militant Roman Catholic New Lodge Road area, a tronghold of the provisional Irish Republican Army (IRA), youths clashed with troops for several hours.

Cancer Fight

NEW YORK (UPI)—The American Cancer Society said Sunday it hoped to accomplish by the mid 1970s the virtual elimination in the United States of deaths from uterine cancer.

The society (ACS) in its 1970 annual report said that research developments and improvements in surgical and radiation treatment for cancer would save 212,000 Americans from the disease this year.

But it added, more than 100,000 Americans who could be saved by existing methods still die each year.

"In part to meet that challenge, we have set a specific goal for the middle of the new decade we have entered. We are striving to make the Pap test universal among women who should be getting that test regularly thus enabling physicians to treat women with uterine cancer in its earliest and curable stages," the report added.

Missiles View

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon said Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., was "very close" when he claimed the Soviet Union is deploying a new and more powerful missile system.

Jackson said Sunday "the new developments are ominous indeed."

"We do not know quite what it means, but I can say to you that these are huge new missiles that from a qualitative point of view certainly present a difficult problem for the United States to face as we move into the 1970s," Jackson said.

The chairman of a Senate subcommittee on National Security said the new weapons system has missiles that are apparently "superior to the SS9, not necessarily in yield but in quality."

Nixon told UPI Sunday that "He's (Jackson) very close to it. He's concerned about the Soviets. We're very aware ... on the other hand I do not believe our expressing, as a government, trepidation about this would be helpful."

Back In Service

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's postal service creaked back into operation today and began dealing with a blacklog of 70 million pieces of mail accumulated during a 47-day strike.

Postal officials estimated about 11 million items were in the nation's internal pipeline waiting to be delivered with another 60 million items overseas waiting to come in.

The strike, one of the longest in British history, cost the post office at least $64 million.

The return of the mail was especially welcomed by millions of pensioners, many of whom do not have telephones.

Las Vegas March

LES VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — as the wave of welfare demonstrators swept into Caesars Palace casino, startled gamblers looked up from their craps and blackjack tables and nervously pocketed their chips.

Those trying to beat the one-armed bandits were more intrepid. Not even a demonstrator riding a two-wheeler down the rows of whirring machines disturbed their reckless rhythm.

More than 500 persons protesting Nevada welfare cutbacks marched peacefully Saturday down the four-mile length of "The Strip," from Circus to Caesars Palace. Led by Jane Fonda, the Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy and peace activist David Dellinger, they forced the first closing of the gambling casino at Caesars in three years.

The march, which caused a massive traffic jam on "the strip," was described as "peaceful" by sheriff Ralph Labm. No arrests were made.

Nixon Accused

WASHINGTON (UPI)—AFL-CIO President George Meany today accused the Nixon administration of solicitude for big business and a disregard for public welfare, and urged Congress to step in with its own social and economic reforms.

Among other things, he said Congress should raise the minimum wage, create half-a-million public service jobs and boost Social Security benefits by 15 per cent.

"The AFL-CIO submits that the Congress cannot look to the executive branch to offer a coherent, progressive legislative program designed to meet the needs of the present," he said in testimony prepared for the Joint Economic Committee of Congress.

"We believe the Congress must take the initiative in shaping such a program on behalf of all the people."

To Air Force

LONDON (UPI) — Prince Charles traded his Buckingham Palace bachelor pad for a Royal Air Force-approved student residence today and bade farewell to civilian life for up to five years.

The 22-year-old heir to the British throne was beginning a five-month course in advanced flying training at the RAF's college at Cranwell, 150 miles north of London.

In September, he goes into the Royal Navy for up to five years.

At Cranwell, the prince will have the rank of flight lieutenant and will have to salute senior officers. At his own request he will receive no pay. His mess bills will be sent to Buckingham Palace.

Charles will live in a college-approved residence with three other students. Also sharing the apartment will be the prince's detective bodyguard.

Washington Boy, 16, Dead After Shooting At Motorists

GREENWATER, Wash. (UPI)—The 16-year-old boy who had "never been in any trouble" was found lying face down in the snow, killed by one of two rifles he had used Sunday to riddle passing automobiles and wound four persons.

"I can't see any reason for it," said William H. Egnew Sr., the father of the victim and an inspector for the Seattle Fire Department. "He was too good humored ... too stable."

William Herbert Egnew Jr. had perched himself in a "foxhole-type" crevice atop a 100-foot cliff and began spraying .22 caliber rifle bullets at passing automobiles on U.S. 410. At least 18 vehicles were hit, including an ambulance which had come to take away one of the wounded.

The unsuspecting targets of the barrage said after the episode they never heard a word from the youth, who only returned their shouted pleas to stop shooting with more bullets.

"We were riding along just talking about things, teenagers, drugs, things like that," said Mrs. Mary C. Pluewnarz, 31, Buckley, one of the victims.

"Then I heard something hit the window ... and I saw a little hole in the glass. I felt something on my arm, like a blow. I remember thinking that a rock hit the window. I put my hand on my sleeve and there was blood."

Mrs. Pluewnarz, like the rest of those shot, was not seriously wounded. The bullet was removed at a hospital in Enumclaw, about 14 miles west of here.

"At first, I thought my engine blew up," said Jaques M. Lescan, 24, a ski instructor wounded in the foot by a bullet which went through a wing window.

The other two wounded by bullets were Eugene H. Terrien, Steilacoom, and his son, Douglas, 12, who were on their way to a skiing holiday.

Two other persons were cut by flying glass from shattered windshields.

"When they (the victims) came around a curve to one side of him," said Capt. Fred Pingry of the King County Sheriff's Department, "he was looking right down at their cars."

Two deputy sheriffs and a state trooper worked their way up a logging road behind the youth and approached him from the rear.

When they could not gain young Egnew's attention, "they threw a snowball down at him, but there was no movement," Pingry said. "They inched up and found him dead."

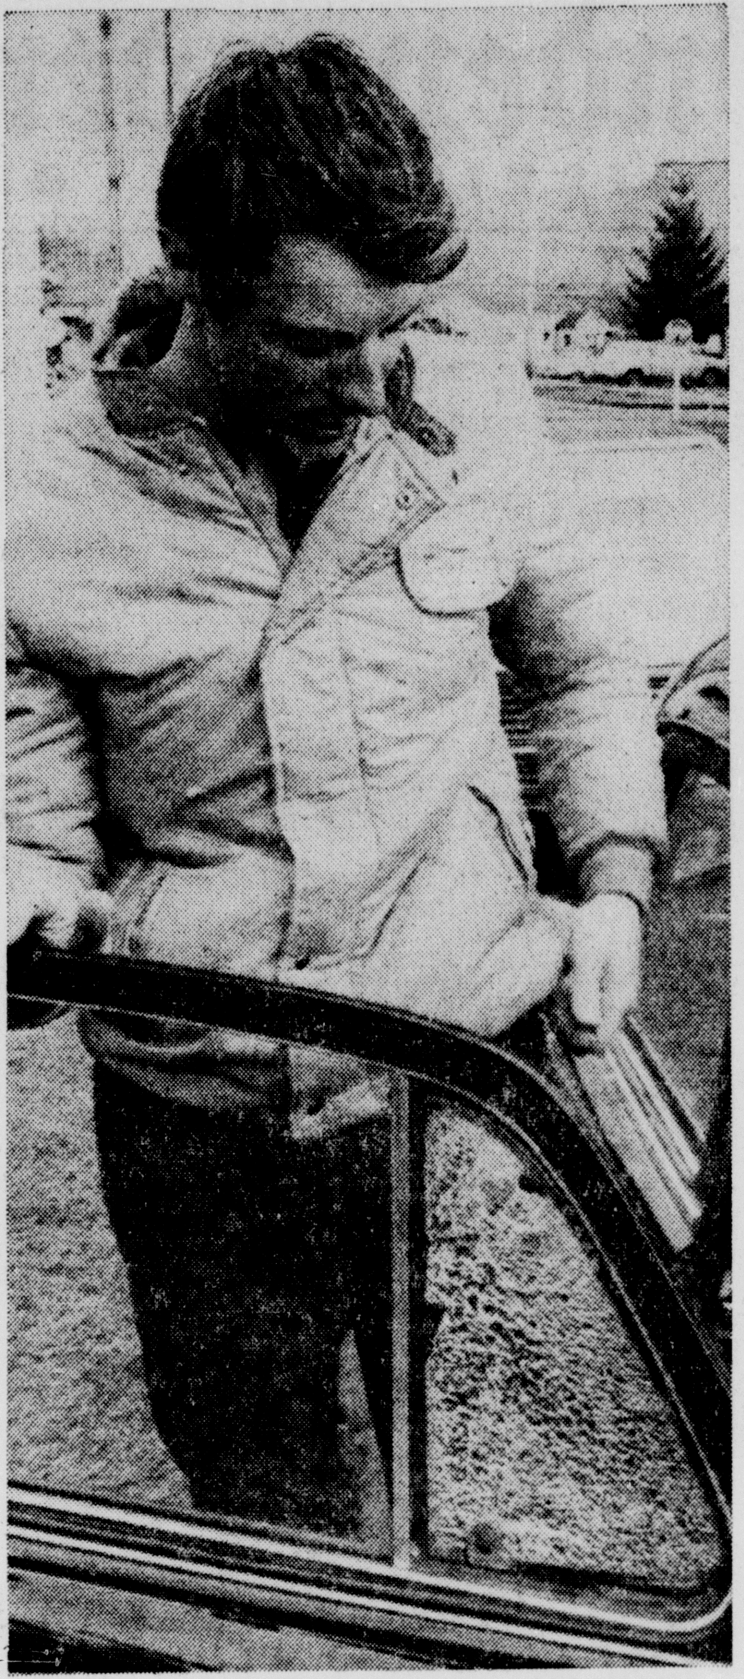
A King County public safety official said, "From what we can gather, he'd never been in any trouble."



VICTIM — Jacque M. Lescan, 24, a ski instructor, stands beside the shattered window of his auto. He was slightly wounded by a bullet fired by a 16-year-old youth who stationed himself off a highway near Greenwater, Wash., yesterday. Police later found the youth shot to death. (UPI Telephoto)

Charity Dance

MILTON, Mass. (UPI)—Three couples at Curry College danced for 51 hours over the weekend to collect money for muscular dystrophy.

Six local bands donated their time to supply live music and local broadcasters played records. Trophies will be awarded the contest winners as well as gift certificates for new shoes.

Poll On Suburbs Explodes Myths

NEW YORK (UPI)—A poll by Louis Harris for Time magazine apparently explodes some myths about suburbanites. They are not all wealthy Republicans and do not oppose blacks moving into their neighborhoods, Time said Sunday.

Wealthy suburban residents do oppose poor Negroes, but that is because of their financial condition, not their race.

"Blacks who can afford to live in a high-income community would be acceptable, it seems, while the poor, of whatever color, would not," the magazine said.

As for politics, the article said: " uburbanites are not automatically Republicans; on the voting rolls half are Democrats, a third Republicans."

Time said suburbanites "are not enormously affluent." Nearly half of the families have incomes less than $10,000 and one-third of them have a union member in the family.

Most adults living in the suburbs are happy there with 44 per cent voicing no serious complaint about their neighborhoods, Time said. The major complaints listed were high taxes and the cost of living which Time said are problems for city dwellers as well.

But their teen-age children are not as happy. "Nearly three-fifths are 'often bored,' and 43 per cent say that they would like to live somewhere else," Time said. But the big city their suburbs are attached is not the attraction. Fifty-four per cent of the youngsters would prefer a more rural setting, the article said.

Murdered Girl Identified As Pacific Union Coed

ANGWIN (UPI) — Napa County homicide investigators visited the campus of Pacific Union College here this weekend in search of some clue to the mysterious death of a 20-year-old coed whose body was found in a shallow grave near her abandoned automobile.

Lynda Christine Kanes of Porterville disappeared Feb. 26 and her body was found with a fractured skull, a wire noose wrapped around the neck and numerous bruises.

Detectives interviewed friends, fellow students and teachers of the coed Sunday.

"We're hoping somebody will recall seeing something that could be our lead to the killer," said Sgt. Ken Narlow of the Napa County Sheriff's Department.

The body was found in an area where the elusive Zodiac killer claimed one of his victims, but investigators said there was no reason to believe that the Zodiac was involved in Miss Kanes' death.

The girl's body was found Friday, hidden between some rocks and covered by brush. The site was about 250 yards from where her car was found abandoned a week earlier.

A bra, neatly folded, and a jacket belonging to Miss Kanes were found near the car.

An autopsy by Dr. Owen Thomas proved "inconclusive," according to Napa County Sheriff Earl Randol.

Randol said the final determination would be made by the detailed pathology examinations at the University of California in San Francisco.

FEED PLANT VICTIM OF FIRE

The mill was destroyed Saturday despite the efforts of 51 firemen and 16 pieces of equipment. Damage to the feed mill building at 195 Bailey Avenue was estimated at $125,000. Mill manager Arnold Johnson said that an additional $35,000 damage was done to feed processing equipment. The blaze was discovered at 6:50 a.m. by an employee, but fire fighters said the fire had probably started sometime after midnight.

San Rafael Yacht Owner, Three Friends Rescued

I-J Special Report

A San Rafael yacht owner and three friends were rescued early today after their boat sank in Southern California waters, the Coast Guard reported.

Barry Heifetz of 28 Twin Oaks Avenue, was reported in good condition as were Harold Cogswell, Charles Libra and Phillip Randle, all of Berkeley.

The Coast Guard said that Heifetz called for help about 1:30 a.m. after his 47-foot ketch, "Blue Sea," hit a rock off the north end of San Clemente Island, which is about 75 miles northwest of San Diego.

The four men abandoned the sinking boat and were in a lifeboat when a Coast Guard helicopter found them. The helicopter blew the lifeboat ashore on to the island and then picked up the men, officers said.

The four were then taken to San Diego.

In early Europe, a gentleman was defined as one who had an aristocratic background, wealth and did not have to work.

Man Is Critical After Car Crash

Richard J. Barajas, 18, of Emeryville, was reported in critical condition today at Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital with severe head injuries suffered in an accident at 6:40 a.m. yesterday on San Antonio Road, south of Petaluma.

The driver of the car, Melvin Bounds, 21, of Oakland, was reported in satisfactory condition at Community Hospital of Sonoma County with chest injuries.

The California Highway Patrol said the car slid on loose gravel and struck a fence.

'First Call' Issue Due Hub Council Discussion

The San Anselmo City Council, meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. at city hall, will continue discussion of providing "first call" police protection to Sleepy Hollow.

At its Feb. 23 meeting, the Council made it clear it would not approve police contract between the city and the unincorporated area.

The council said further, it would discuss tomorrow eliminating the "first call" courtesy extended the Marin County Sheriff's Office in covering Sleepy Hollow.

Under the "first call" agreement, San Anselmo police cover emergencies in Sleepy Hollow and other unincorporated areas until a sheriff's unit arrives.

The council also is expected to accept a narcotics identification kit from the Ross Valley Kiwanis Club for the city's police department and will consider bids for resurfacing of tennis courts at Memorial Park.

4 Vehicles Stolen In San Rafael

Four vehicles were stolen in San Rafael in the past few days, one theft resulting in an arrest and another in a search.

Robert Edward Webeck, 15, of 574 Woodbine Drive, San Rafael, was arrested at 4 p.m. Sunday by Fairfax police and was booked into Juvenile Hall on suspicion of auto theft, according to San Rafael police, who said he was caught in a pickup truck taken Saturday from Richard Michael Schwartz of 859 Butternut Drive, San Rafael.

A man who identified himself as Steve Solano of Larkspur, was being sought for taking a 1966 Austin Healy for a test drive at 6 p.m. Friday from Marin Bay Lincoln Mercury at Third Street and Lincoln Avenue and failing to return it. Salesman Kenneth James Pitto described him as white, about 24 years of age, six feet tall of medium complexion and black hair.

A 1970 model motorcycle was taken from beside his home between 11 p.m. Saturday and noon yesterday, Eugene John McCready of 12 Hubbell Court, San Rafael, reported to police.

A 1970 model motorcycle and two bicycles were taken from his unlocked garage between 5 p.m. Thursday and noon Friday, Cortney Gordon Balzan of 1201 Grand Avenue, San Rafael, reported to police.

New Vice President Of College

Charles L. Praul, a retired Air Force colonel who has served as director of extramural programs at Golden Gate College in San Francisco for two years, has been appointed vice president for administration at the college.

Praul, of 14 Garner Drive, Novato, retired from the Air Force in 1968 after serving two years as commander of Hamilton Air Force Base.

In his new duties he will direct the college's financial planning and manage its physical resources and administrative services.

A native of Rockport, Ill., Praul is married and the father of four children.

Feud Panel Invites Testimony

The principals in the bitter feud between the Marin Human Rights Department and the police-community relations program have been invited to appear before a five-man fact-finding committee Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. at the Civic Center.

The fact-finding body, headed by Chairman Milen C. Dempster of Mill Valley, will start the probe by delving into the case of Anne Smith, who was secretary for both the police community relations program and for the human rights department.

As secretary to the police-community relations program, she had been drawing $650 per month. In the transfer papers that returned her to the human rights department, her title was listed as secretary-steno instead of secretary. Because of that switch, her pay was cut to $576.

Donald C. Moody, former director of the human rights department, tried to get her salary restored but failed. Because of this, and the bitter feud with Bella Aaron, director of the police-community relations program, Moody resigned Jan. 31 after only six weeks on the job.

The fact-finding committee has invited Mrs. Smith, Moody and Mrs. Aaron to the Wednesday hearing. Thereafter, the committee will meet every Monday at 2:30 p.m. and every Friday at 9 a.m. until the probe is completed.

Dempster, the committee chairman, was picked last week after a two-week search. He is a retired field examiner for the National Labor Relations Board in San Francisco.

Boy, 14, Arrested Inside Building

A 14-year-old boy was arrested at 12:14 a.m. yesterday inside the San Rafael Medical Group offices at 1540 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael police reported.

Gregory James Throop of Spokane, Wash., was cited for burglary, according to police, and released to officials at the San Rafael Military Academy where he is a student.

Reinecke Views Pollution In American River Tour

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A group concerned with pollution of the American River today enlisted the help of Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke after escorting him on an 11-mile "inspection" trip by canoe.

Reinecke, paddling in the bow of a two-man canoe, sped through riffles and rapids of the river Saturday in the lead of a 12-boat flotilla.

He observed outfalls of sewage and storm drains and bank erosion, which the Save the American River Association (SARA) hopes to control to prevent pollution of the river.

Reinecke told the group he was sympathetic to their efforts to maintain the water quality of the river, which is threatened by sewage and a potential slower rate of flow.

The Federal Bureau of Reclamation plans to divert some of the American's flow to other cities and counties, particularly those along the dry range land of the Sierra foothills.

Members of SARA hope to convince the bureau to maintain at least a 1,500 cubic feet per second flow to keep pollutants moving downstream and keep the river from stagnating.

Reinecke's and 10 other canoes safely maneuvered through the rapids, but one boat carrying three men capsized in the 55-degree white water of San Juan Rapids.

Carl Sweet of SARA, Robert Mallette of the Audubon Society and Vic Biondi of a Sacramento television station (KCRA) were dipped in the churning water.

Military Pullout

SINGAPORE (UPI) — When Britain completely pulls out its troops and hands over its military bases to Singapore and Malaysia by the end of next year, about 30,000 persons will be directly affected and another 10,000 will be indirectly involved.

Illegitimate White Births In State Up, Study Says

BERKELEY (UPI) —More women in California, particularly white women, have illegitimate children than their counterparts elsewhere in the country.

That is the inference to be drawn from a study released here Sunday by the State Department of Public Health.

Mrs. Beth Berkov, a public health statistician who took part in the study, said in 1970 an estimated 46,000 illegitimate live births occurred in California, continuing "a trend in which the ratio of illegitimate births has increased from an estimated 9.4 per cent in 1966 to nearly 12.9 per cent last year."

The report released Sunday was based on findings in a study of births during 1966 and 1967.

During that period, the report said, illegitimate births declined slightly among black women in California while the rate for white women went up about 8 per cent.

For white women in 1967, the rate was 20.7 illegitimate births per 1,000 unmarried women age 15-44 in California compared to 12.5 for the United States.

The rate for black women of the same age group was between 81.2 and 103.1, depending on the method used in tabulation. This was roughly comparable to blacks in the rest of the nation.

Of the total of approximately 337,000 live births registered in California in both 1966 and 1967, the report listed 31,804 (9.4 per cent) as illegitimate in 1966 and 35,215 (10.5 per cent) in 1967.

California does not record legitimacy status on the birth certificate and the estimates were based on a comparison of the surnames of parents and children.

"The higher rate in California women may be due to a number of factors," Mrs. Berkov said, "including a general surplus of women in the child-bearing ages, greater frequency of divorces and more permissive attitudes toward premarital sex."

Ethiopia has diverse peoples who speak more than 70 languages and follow Christian, Jewish, Moslem and pagan religions.

Flood Zone Revamping To Be Eyed

Proposed revamping of the Novato Flood Control Zone Advisory Board will go before the Marin County Board of Supervisors tomorrow.

Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste will ask that three incumbents on the advisory board be replaced by Dr. Leo J. Becnel, Jack Kniveton, and Thomas Nolan in an effort to broaden the agency's scope.

Supervisors will also consider appointments to fill vacancies on the human rights commission and the juvenile delinquency prevention commission. H. D. (Tim) Williams has resigned from the rights commission, and Douglas W. Scott from the delinquency commission.

The supervisors' all-day meeting will start at 9 a.m. on the third floor of the Civic Center Administration Building.

Other items on the agenda include:

VD — Sausalito pharmacist Frederick S. Mayer will report on the increase of veneral disease in the county and urge measures to combat the problem.

EOC — Novatans for Racial Equality will seek representation on the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council board of directors.

McNEAR'S FIRE — Insurance adviser Walter W. Carter will recommend an $11,295 insurance settlement for loss of a McNear's Beach office building, gutted by fire last Aug. 8.

GNOSS FIELD — The county counsel will report on the type of insurance available for the county airport at Gnoss Field. The county administrator complained last week that fixed base operators at the airport are not carrying the type of insurance specified in their lease agreement with the county.

HOUSEBOATS — Marine Inspector Richard L. Larson will recommend some other way of removing dilapidated houseboats then by towing them to the Army Corps of Engineers depot in Sausalito, as directed by the supervisors last week.

FACT-FINDING — A five-man committee, created to probe the squabble between the human rights commission and the police-community relations program, will ask for clarification of its duties.

ENGLISH PUB — Charles Felix will present a master plan for his English pub and restaurant at the entrance to Muir Beach.

MARINVIEW — Allan-Marin Co. will submit a tentative subdivision map for Marinview unit 4, where 50 townhouses and 16 standard homes are planned on 26 acres in Tennessee Valley.

REZONING — Shirley Monoogan will seek apartment zoning to allow five units on 19,000 square feet at Thomas Drive and Central Drive, Alto.

Septic Tanks On Board Agenda

The effect of a proposed ordinance banning the use of septic tanks in the San Geronimo Valley will be discussed by the Lagunitas School District board today at 7:30 p.m. at San Geronimo Valley School.

The district has two septic tanks and trustees will hear a report on how the proposed legislation would affect them.

In other business, the board will hear a report on student participation at board meetings hold a closed session to instruct its agents in contract negotiations with clerical workers.

Garbage Rate Hike Due Hearing

A request for an increase in garbage collection rates by Fairfax Garbage Disposal Service will be considered by the Fairfax City Council when it meets tonight at 8 o'clock at the Fairfax Women's Club.

Also on the agenda is consideration of a leash law to cover commercial areas, recommended by the Marin County Council of Mayors and Councilmen, and discussion of a state-required plan to contend with civil defense emergencies and natural disasters.

'Civil Disobedience' Call By Actress

Actress Jane Fonda paid a visit yesterday to Angela Davis in the Marin County Jail and then went on to San Francisco to call for a spring peace offensive of "massive civil disobedience."

Miss Fonda, clad in a sweater and bell-bottomed jeans with no bra, appeared pensive as she waited for the elevator which leads to the jail in the Hall of Justice at the Civic Center.

After spending about 15 minutes visiting with Miss Davis shortly after noon, the actress reported that the jailed Communist was "beautiful, strong and free."

She called Miss Davis a "political prisoner" and "not a criminal."

From Marin, Miss Fonda went to San Francisco where she addressed a rally at the University of San Francisco and announced plans for the spring offensive.

"What we need is civil disobedience," Miss Fonda said. "What we need is laying our lives, our bodies on the line in massive protests."

Object of the protest is the end of the war in Southeast Asia as well as ending poverty, racism and sexism at home, Miss Fonda told 1000 persons attending the rally. The gathering was in support of 13 nuns and priests indicted in an alleged plot to kidnap presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger.

The spring offensive will start April 2 with a mule train procession by poor people down Wall Street in New York and culminate in moratoriums across the country on May 5 to "close the government down."

"I am a revolutionary woman," the actress told a group of reporters after the rally.

Asked how she rationalized her own affluence, she replied, "I'm not a do-gooder," explaining that it was not necessary to impoverish oneself in order to fight social ills.

Miss Fonda had flown to San Francisco from Las Vegas, where she led nearly 2,000 marchers Saturday down the "Strip" and into casinos to protest Nevada welfare cuts.

She flew to New York from San Francisco yesterday to begin rehearsals for an antiwar skit she plans to stage outside the gate of Fort Bragg, N.C., next weekend.

Cyclists Win Ranch Activities

Marin County Motorcycle Association today won the right to use the Anita Gambonini Ranch near Marshall for riding activities, but under strict restrictions.

Ralph D. Cairns, deputy zoning administrator, approved the use permit with these conditions:

Cyclists must stay on existing trails and not cut across open pasture, motorcycles without mufflers will be confined to the valley and the area north of Marshall-Petaluma Road, no riding will be allowed on public roads, and offstreet parking must be provided.

Gerald M. Diaz, president of the association, assured Cairns that the members will comply with all conditions.

Minister Quits Marin Campus

Rev. Charles G. Robertson, who for five years has served as the Protestant minister to the College of Marin campus, has resigned effective June 30.

In submitting his resignation, Robertson, 31, told the Campus Ministry Committee he plans to travel and study in Europe with his wife, Theodosia.

Paid by the independent ministry committee, he serves, however, as an unofficial counselor to students.

Robertson stirred controversy in 1968 when he and other ministers chained themselves to servicemen in Marin City in protest to the war in Vietnam. He also has been involved with draft counseling at the college and has headed a group called the Marin Council for Draft Education, promoting draft counseling in public high schools.

call in the Big Four envoys in Cairo to discuss developments in the Mideast situation and urge them to have their countries shoulder responsibilities during this critical stage.

Military analysts of the two Israeli newspapers said the real danger on the canal now is how local Egyptian commanders react to the new situation. They said one mistake by a hotheaded local commander could well start a fourth Middle East War.

Israeli deputy Premier Yigal Allon told Israeli schoolchildren today everything possible will be done to bring peace to the Middle East and save them being caught in the draft.

He spoke to a gathering of high school pupils in the Red Sea port of Eilat.

"We will try to make our political struggle yield a durable peace treaty which will assure the safety and honor of all nations in the region," Allon said. "We shall do everything possible for you so that when you reach draft age you shall have no more wars."

The only reported action was a clash between Palestine guerrillas in Syria and Israeli troops. An Israeli military spokesman said "a number" of long-range rockets fired by the guerrillas from Syria slammed into a kibbutz on the Israeli-occupied Golan Heights at 10 p.m. Sunday — two hours before the cease-fire expired — but caused no casualties. Israeli artillerymen returned the fire.

rillas nor the Syrians officially accepted the cease-fire, although the Syrians did not initiate any fighting during the seven-month truce.

In other Middle East developments:

—President Nixon, in an interview with UPI White House correspondent Helen Thomas, said both the United States and the Soviet Union are exerting "a restraining effort" to keep Egypt and Israel apart. "Neither side will gain and both will lose" if hostilities resume, Nixon said. The President said administration foreign policy officials were trying to get a new cease-fire and "I am cautiously optimistic on getting a cease-fire."

—Sadat, in a 28-minute television address to the nation saying he would not extend the cease-fire, announced he had made a secret trip to Moscow March 1 to confer with Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and President Nikolai V. Podgorny. "We discussed everything clearly and frankly and I returned to Cairo completely satisfied ... and confident the Soviet Union is maintaining its positive support of our just struggle," he said.

Revenues To Be Studied

The Dixie School District's expected revenue for 1971-72 and teachers' salary wage proposals will be considered by district trustees at 8 p.m. Wednesday in district offices at 35 Trellis Drive, Terra Linda.

The study on expected revenue was prepared by a citizens finance advisory group appointed by the board and includes budget comparisons with previous years and proposed salary schedules.

The Dixie Teachers' Association also is slated to present its initial salary schedule proposal for next fiscal year.

Larkspur Girl Reports Assault

A 16-year-old Larkspur girl was raped yesterday in Larkspur by a man who picked her up while hitchhiking, police said today.

Officers said the girl told them she accepted a ride in Mill Valley from a man with whom she had ridden before.

This time, however, he refused to let her out on Magnolia Avenue as she requested, instead drove to the San Andreas High School parking lot on Doherty Drive and attacked her. The attack occurred at 1:35 a.m., officer said.

She described the man as about 25 to 30 years of age, with medium length blond hair, a mustache, five feet-11 inches tall, 170 pounds and driving an older model two-door sedan, blue in color.

Militant Marinite Charged In Assault

A young political militant from Marin County who once taught a class in revolution at College of Marin has been charged with assault to murder a Texas narcotics officer, the Independent-Journal learned today.

Dennis Michael Marnell, 26, is also accused of possessing a .45-caliber automatic, against the law in Texas, where all handguns are prohibited, Texas officials said.

The arrest stems from a narcotics raid on a Fort Worth residence early in the morning of Nov. 1. Fort Worth police said today that Marnell is accused of shooting at a plainclothes officer outside the residence and that the gun was taken from him when he was arrested.

residence was being used at the time as White Panther Party headquarters, but that the officers who raided it were looking for narcotics.

Several other persons were arrested at the time of the raid but are charged with drug offense.

The Tarrant County district attorney's office said today that Marnell's case has not been set for trial yet either on the felony assault nor the misdemeanor gun possession charge.

Marnell, free on bail, is reportedly living in Corte Madera. A friend said that he is attending College of Marin, but college officials said he was last registered there during the 1970 spring semester.

Marnell, a self-proclaimed anarchist, taught the revolution course at the college in 1969.

battle six miles inside Laos that began Sunday night. Seventeen government marines were reported killed.

Officers said government troops in bomb-shattered Sepone uncovered a cache of 2,000 122mm rockets near the Communist supply point and destroyed them by directing air strikes on the site. Lam said 150 rocket launchers were found in Sepone.

About 700 South Vietnamese troops were in Sepone today, with 700 others to the north and about the same number to the south, spokesmen in the field said.

Job Cutbacks On Sausalito School Agenda

A request by the superintendent for authorization to notify personnel whose jobs will be eliminated next year because of budget reductions will be considered by the Sausalito School District board at 7:30 p.m. today in Bayside School.

Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg explained that all employees the district does not intend to rehire for the coming school year must be notified by March 15.

The district board will also continue discussion of facilities use for 1971-72 and a preliminary budget for next year.

In addition, the board will meet in closed session to discuss employment of personnel and to instruct the superintendent in negotiations with employee organizations.

Disposal Plan

The possible inclusion of Bolinas School in a sewage disposal system being planned by the Bolinas Public Utility District will be considered by the Bolinas-Stinson School District board at 8 p.m. today in Bolinas School.

Closed Session

Changes in assignments for Reed School District personnel will be discussed by the Reed District Board in closed session tomorrow at 5 p.m. at the district office, 1155 Tiburon Boulevard, Tiburon, acting Supt. Irwin C. Karp reported.

FOREST SUR

Forest J. Sur, former geologist and mining engineer and a member of a pioneer California family, died yesterday at his Mill Valley home after a long illness. He was 85.

A native of Wheatland, Yuba County, Sur had lived in Mill Valley since his retirement in 1955, residing at 210 Cleveland Avenue. His grandather, a Spaniard, came to California in the early 1800s and operated a placer gold mine in Placer County in the 1840s.

Sur was a graduate of Vander Naillen College of Engineering in San Francisco and later studied at the University of Nebraska. His work took him to many of the early gold mining centers of the West, from Nome, Alaska to Goldfield, Nev.

He was instrumental in the discovery of many important fields in Canada, Wyoming, Arkansas and Colorado and also discovered uranium fields in New Mexico.

Sur was a member of the Farmington, N.M., Animas Lodge No. 15, Free and Accepted Masons, the York Rite of Freemasonry, the Shiprock Commandery No. 15, Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry, Santa Fe Consistory in New Mexico, the Islam Temple of San Francisco and the Marin Shrine Club. He was a past commander of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, Flotilla 14 and a member of the American Institute of Mining, Metallurgical and Petroleum Engineers.

Sur is survived by his wife, Bernice; a daughter, Mrs. John J. Linker and three grandchildren, all of Mill Valley.

A Masonic funeral service will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow at Russell and Gooch Funeral Home, Mill Valley. Inurnment will be private. The family prefers contributions to the Shrine Crippled Children's Hospital in San Francisco.

MORRIS HARRIS

Morris Harris, father of Dr. Alvin J. Harris of San Rafael and Richard M. Harris of Sleepy Hollow, died yesterday at a San Francisco Hospital following a long illness. He was 87.

A resident of San Francisco, Harris moved to that city 65 years ago from his native Poland. He worked as a real estate broker in San Francisco, retiring 40 years ago.

He was a member of the Congregation Emanu-el, Congregation Beth Israel, and the Urban Buena Angling Club.

Harris also belonged to the Marin Rod and Gun Club and the San Francisco Chapter of B'Nai B'Rith.

Besides his sons, he is survived by a daughter, Lucille Brown of Washington, D.C., two sisters, Rose Zimet and Stella Tomsky of San Francisco. He is also survived by eight grandchildren.

Funeral will be tomorrow at 1 p.m. at Sinai Memorial Chapel, San Francisco. Entombment will be at Salem Garden Mausoleum, Colma.

The family requests memorial contributions to the Franklin I. Harris Memorial Fund, Mount Zion Hospital, San Francisco.

HERBERT EVANS

Funeral for Dr. Herbert McLean Evans of Berkeley, internationally known biologist and father of Gail Evans LaForge of Mill Valley, will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow in the Berkeley Hills Chapel.

Evans, 88, died Saturday in a Berkeley hospital.

He was best known as the discoverer of Vitamin E and co-discoverer, with J. A. Long, of the human growth hormone.

He was born in Modesto and received his bachelor of science degree at University of California at Berkeley in 1904. He received his medical degree from John Hopkins University in 1908 and joined the faculty there. He was appointed professor of anatomy in the Berkeley campus in 1915.

Doctor Evans retired in 1952 but was recalled to duty each year to continue his research, finally retiring in 1966. He was the author of more than 750 scientific papers.

He was a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, a member of the National Academy of Sciences, the Kaiserliche Leopoldinische-Carolinische Du Deutche Akademie Der Naturforscher, Societas Regina Medicorum Budapestinensis, Americah Physiological Society and the Society for Experimental Biological Medicine. He was past president of the American Kysociation of Anatomists, a founder of the History of Science Society, Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi, Alpha Delta Pi, Alpha Omega Alpha and Nu Sigma Nu.

He is also survived by eight grandchildren, three of whom are the children of another daughter, the late Marion Evans Kaesar.

Sewer Pact To Be Studied

A cooperative agreement for a North Marin-Southern Sonoma sewer study will be considered at the Petaluma City Council meeting today at 7:30 p.m.

Under the plan, Petaluma would join with Sonoma County, Sonoma Valley, Novato, Las Gallinas Valley and San Rafael in the subregional study.

The council will also consider capital outlay appropriations and a resolution supporting federal revenue sharing for cities.

Editor Resigns Over Ali Fight News Ban

MANCHESTER, N.H. (UPI) —Publisher William Loeb, who has refused to carry any advertising in his newspapers for tonight's Cassius Clay -Joe Frazier fight because of Clay's refusal to enter the Army, also has banned all news stories.

The news blackout triggered the resignation of David James as managing editor of the St. Albans (Vt.) Messenger, who charged Loeb with "suppression of the news and press censorship."

Loeb owns the Manchester Union Leader, the largest newspaper in New Hampshire, the St. Albanys Messenger, the New Hampshire Sunday News and the Connecticut Sunday Herald.

In a front page editorial in the Vermont Sunday News, Loeb reiterated his longstanding criticism of Clay's refusal to serve in the armed forces.

"Any able bodied Amrican who will not fight for his own country doesn't deserve to be allowed to fight in the prize ring and make millions of dollars just because someone else is fighting the battles he ought to be fighting on the battlefronts of the world,'' the editorial said.

The Manchester Veterans of Foreign Wars post called for picketing of the New Hampshire State Armory where the New York fight will be shown on closed circuit television.

Campaign Starts

The campaign for San Rafael Board of Education got under way Saturday night as Francis X. Kelly launched his candidacy with an open house at Cal's Steak House in downtown San Rafael.

MEN'S HAIR STYLISTS

Modern Barbers Are Ahead By A Hair

By JEFF GREER

Dredged from dim childhood memories, there is a rhyme that goes something like:

"His hair, oh, his hair!
Looked like it was combed
With the legs of a chair!"

But now we know that that windswept, unruly look about the locks of the male Kennedys and many other "beautiful people" is the result of much careful effort and a fair amount of money.

The new hair styles are a mixed blessing, according to Marin County barbers. Some of them echo the nationwide complaint that too much hair is staying on men's heads instead of piling up under the barber's chair.

The average Marinite is visiting his barber less often these days, said Manuel Martin, operator of a Strawberry barber shop. He is secretary-treasurer of Marin Barbers' Local 582. He and others said the old two to three-week routine has now stretched to as much as seven weeks.

But barbers "are educating themselves to manage the new styles and offering a wider range of services," Martin reported.

Al Pedroli, owner of a San Rafael barber shop, felt that "It's not the men themselves. It's their wives, who figure their husbands will look younger and more dignified" with their hair not so closely shorn.

"And the older persons are trying to keep up with the younger ones. The younger ones are trying to rejuvenate the world," Pedroli asserted.

He said that new men's clothing styles, particularly from Europe, influence hair styles. The Continental businessman's shaggy look of recent years is "getting a little shorter to look like a haircut but not a haircut," according to the hair styling magazines, Pedroli said.

He recalled that "anyone who wore a 'zoot suit' 20 years ago had to have a duck tail. Short hair in back just didn't go with the clothes."

A Novato area barber, who didn't want to be named, was more critical of the longer hair. He charged it was throwing many barbers out of work. "You'll see one or two chairs in every barber shop empty, with no barber behind them," he argued.

Pedroli and other barbers mentioned that there had been an upsurge of men's hair products compared to a few years ago.

"A lot of the barber schools are pushing their students to use more equipment and products — which the schools sell," Pedroli said. He charged many of the barber college graduates are "stylists who want to go to Hollywood, but they can't give all-around haircuts, crew cuts, short sideburns and the like."

Not so, said the operator of one of Marin's men's hair styling establishments.

Steve Hasse, who runs an ornate men's hair salon in Northgate, declared barber college graduates are going jobless and older barbers are quitting their trade "because they don't know how to handle the longer hair."

Hasse's shop operates by appointment only and he said its appointment book stays filled.

The full treatment in Hasse's shop is a far cry from what he called the "three-minute routine that is all some barbers know how to give."

His routine involves a special shampoo ("with protein to build up your hair, not break it down"), a hair dryer, a special scissoring ("we almost never use the clippers") and even a curling iron. A finishing shot of hair spray often is used to make sure the wind doesn't destroy the carefully achieved windswept look.

The whole process takes about 90 minutes.

As for "what the boys talk about under the dryer," they don't, much, in Hasse's shop.

"I'm too busy concentrating on what I'm doing to talk much," Hasse said. "If they want to talk, they can do it over a beer later in a bar."

In place of talk, a patron can spend his time looking at the Victorian era decor, with walls covered by placques Hasse and his co-stylists won in competitions, and certificates from special hairstyling courses.

Hasse gives novice patrons a sort of education along with the works, often warning them that products they had used were damaging their hair.

"Protein will build it up; protein's magnetic. It'll make your hair look healthy and neat without breaking it down like everything else does," he said.

The youthful hair stylist has no hesitation in telling a customer to shed a beard in favor of a moustache, or in saying that he could not properly style a nape because "you've been butchered with the clippers."

Hasse's final advice is "you can comb your hair with your fingers. It'll stay that way for days."

The bill was $10.

Nowadays some barbers may be hurting, but for others, it's shampoo and a haircut, eighty bits.

Reasons For Higher Gas, Electric Bills

Cold, windy weather with increased heating requirements are responsible for higher gas and electric bills this month, according to Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

Gas consumption records were broken from mid-December to early March, with highs ranging from 3.63 billion cubic feet on Dec. 2 to an all-time record of 3.76 billion cubic feet March 2.

Average daily gas usage for the 1970-71 winter season is well above that of a year ago, the company noted. This January's average was 3.1 billion cubic feet, compared to last January's 2.4 billion cubic feet.

Electrical usage also has shown an increase, PG&E said. The average residential customer used 461 kilowatt hours per month in 1971, compared to 435 kilowatt hours last year.

Congressmen Offering $100,000 Reward In Bombing Of Capital

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Congressional leaders today offered a $100,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who set off a bomb in the U. S. capitol last week.

The reward announcement followed a meeting of leaders of the House and Senate to discuss tightening security of the Capitol in wake of the bombing which heavily damaged several rooms in the Senate wing in the early morning of last Monday.

The Senate's leaders, Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and Hugh Scott, R-Pa., also announced that the Capitol police would be converted into a fully professionalized force, with all patronage positions terminated.

The reward money has been contributed by private donors, the leaders said.

In a statement, House and Senate leaders said the $100,000 reward has been posted "for information leading to the arrest of the person or persons responsible for the bombing of the United States Capitol, March 1."

The statement added: "Any person or persons providing information will be fully protected. Sources of information will be regarded as completely confidential."

The chief of the Capitol's 591-man police force, James M. Powell, has put his men on a six-day week to compensate for a shortage of manpower. Today's announcement of an end to patronage followed a call Sunday by Assistant Senate GOP Leader Robert P. Griffin for a professional force.

DRUGS IN THE CLASSROOM: Threat Or Promise?

By ARNOLD ARNOLD
(First of six articles.)

According to Mr. and Mrs. Youngs of Indianapolis, who lived formerly in Little Rock, Ark., their son Ross and their daughter Michele were diagnosed as suffering from minimal brain dysfunction (MBD) by teachers in their Little Rock primary school. Neither child ever received a neurological examination, while school authorities allegedly attempted to persuade and finally to pressure the Youngs to permit their children to be placed on a drug regimen to modify their behavior and to assist their learning in class.

After three years of refusal and feeling harassed, the Youngs moved to Indianapolis. There both children are doing well inclass, are happy, and get good grades in academic subjects and for behavior. Each is winning prizes for superior achievement in art and in science. Both have learned to read well without drugs and without any special treatment.

The Little Rock School, attended by Ross Youngs, seems to have shown little interest in the fact that he had only a single kidney that functioned, and that he had been in and out of hospitals since early childhood for surgery and other treatment. This would have been sufficient to disturb any child and to cause learning problems in school. But under these circumstances especially, the drugs most commonly used to modify children's behavior and to assist their learning might have proved extremely hazardous.

The Little Rock school denies Mr. and Mrs. Youngs' charges and there is little chance of proving or disproving the various allegations. But the Youngs' case is not an isolated one. Many parents throughout the United States complain of similar experiences.

There are parents who will not admit that their child might be defective and who react unreasonably when special treatment or remedial teaching are recommended. On the other hand, many schools, school districts and states have instituted large-scale drug programs for treating children with learning or behavior problems. The schools refer such troubled or troublesome children to physicians and clinics, most of which are ill-equipped to examine, diagnose or prescribe for them adequately.

According to the National Institute of Mental Health, at least 150,000 school children below puberty ages are given drugs at home and in schools to help make them tractable and to assist their learning. Other estimates suggest that these drugs are presently prescribed for as many as 300,000 and more children, and their numbers are growing. MBD has become a favorite diagnosis for children who are difficult or who do not learn to read properly. Schools in New York, Nevada, California, Michigan, Illinois, Hawaii, Maryland, and lately Indiana are among those who have instituted programs for drug mediated behavior control of school children, in collaboration with clinics and private physicians.

The drugs used are usually Ritalin and amphetamines — "speed" as they are known among adolescent and adult addicts. They belong to the family of wake-up, pep-and reducing pills that accelerate body processes and that have been under attack from health authorities because they are highly addictive and extremely dangerous. But they have a claimed, opposite, calming effect on a very few truly brain-damaged children in pre-adolescent years.

Neither the medical literature nor recent congressional hearings have spelled out that except in rare and special cases, these drugs do have the same effect on pre-puberty children as on adults. Many physicians are not aware of this fact and so an inadequately examined child may equally be "turned on" by such drugs.

They are not a cure even for true MBD children. They merely treat the symptoms, calm a small fractions of these children and make them reachable. The real "cure," if any is possible, lies in the hands of trained and dedicated specialists, teachers and parents, and requires great care, love, dedication and patience.

As used in the schools, these drugs merely keep normal, if difficult and sometimes exceptionally bright children, euphoric or frozen in their seats in dull and regimented classrooms. Many of them are just bored or suffer temporary disciplinary, emotional, learning or other problems that have nothing to do with MBD. Others who deviate from the expectations of standardized intelligence or achievement tests tend to be lumped together into the general "minimal brain dysfunction" and "learning disability" categories.

One highly respected pediatric neurologist, Dr. aothur Rose of New York, states that while some of these drugs offer temporary relief to some MBD children, they represent a tiny fraction of even these.

One of the many dangers of indiscriminate use of drugs for learning assistance and behavior control is that children are given the impression, already far too prevalent among them, that any problem can be solved through drug use. While fighting drug addiction among teenagers, some schools are turning primary grade children on to them.

It is indeed alarming when a social scientist, Dr. Herbert Krugman, an executive of General Electric Corp., suggests in a recent article in Opinion Quarterly: "The time may come when the mass media may create special (subliminal) programs to help people modify certain attitudes and behavior . . . For early childhood education there may be the opportunity to accept the fact that many children fidget in class . . . Mild drugging of these children . . . may be helpful to their educational achievement."

Other scientists sensationally predict that within the foreseeable future all children are likely to be given drugs along with their morning milk or juice to aid their memory and learning in school. It is foolhardy to pin our hopes on such simplistic solutions in the absence of conclusive research or real knowledge.

The 1970s is likely to be the decade in which great progress will be made in the sciences that deal with the physical and the chemical properties of the brain and of life itself. But to date no chemical has been discovered to cure brain damage or dysfunction, to help people overcome undesirable innate or acquired traits, or to aid memory or learning. Some drugs can aid in the treatment of a few, properly diagnosed brain damaged children. But no one knows how they work or why or how they affect children in the long run.

Shortening Work Week To Get On Welfare

An increasing number of labor unions are demanding, and getting, a 35-hour work week for members. Several recently have proposed that the work week be shortened to 32½ hours.

The Tamalpais High School District local of the California Federation of Teachers in a recent presentation suggested that teachers have a maximum classroom load of four periods per day, plus an equal amount of time during the working day to prepare the lessons — thus presumably avoiding home work. If each class were an hour long, this would mean 16⅔ hours of classes and 16⅔ hours of preparation per week — a total of 33⅓ hours.

IF THE TEACHERS should get this, and if other unions should get a 32½-hour week, married members with children would be entitled to apply for welfare as "unemployed" under the standards of California's Aid to Families With Dependent Children program.

The state's AFDC rules now classify anyone who is employed for less than 35 hours per week as "unemployed."

This is just one of the many strange things in welfare laws and regulations that lead to mis-use of what was intended as a beneficent effort of government to protect citizens against dire poverty.

This one can be corrected by a simple change in rules. Robert B. Carleson, the new director of the state's Social Welfare Department, has scheduled hearings on reducing the maximum hours of employment for AFDC eligibility to 100 per month — which is the federal requirement.

AT FIRST GLANCE, it might seem there would be no likelihood of a teacher, for instance, qualifying for welfare, even though employed less than 35 hours per week. However, that's only at first glance.

There are other things in the never-never land of welfare regulations that make it quite possible for a well-paid person on a short work week to qualify for AFDC.

First, there is the federal "30 and one-third rule." By this, $30 is lopped off the gross monthly income, then one-third of the remainder is lopped off, before figuring the net income that may entitle welfare.

The state then subtracts also the average federal income and social security taxes applicable to the earnings, allowance for transportation (which may include payments on a new car), union dues, uniforms, child care expenses at $50 per month per child, and $25 for miscellaneous personal expenses.

A PERSON RECEIVING $970 per month for a job that takes less than 35 hours per week winds up by this method with "net income" of $105 per month.

The state's formula sets a minimum of $338 per month to support a family with three children. Therefore, the fictitiously "unemployed household head is entitled to draw $223 per month AFDC.

IT IS TO GET RID of such nonsense as this that Gov. Ronald Reagan has proposed sweeping and detailed welfare reform.

There may be "bugs" in the governor's plan. There probably are. But the legislators who are attacking it should take thought of what they are protecting: a system by which the person with a short work week and fairly high pay is subsidized while one employed for longer hours at less pay is not.

Antitrust Law Application To Unions Needs Clarifying

In the Clayton and Norris-LaGuardia Acts, Congress limited the application of the antitrust laws to labor unions but, contrary to a widespread belief, it did not exempt unions from the laws. The courts have occasionally tried to clear up the resulting cloudiness but with only limited success.

The Supreme Court made one such effort the other day when it ruled on a case involving the United Mine Workers. Under an agreement with large coal operators the UMW said it would not enter into wage pacts "applicable to employes covered by this contract" on any basis other than "those specified by this contract."

Subsequently the union began to press smaller coal operators to accept the terms of the national contract. A number of the smaller operators brought suit, charging that the union had conspired with the larger firms to drive the little companies out of business by forcing on them wage costs that they could not pay.

THE SUIT was dismissed by a federal district court. It said that, under the rules applicable to most cases, the UMW "impliedly" did agree to an illegal conspiracy, but because of the Norris-LaGuardia Act the union was not liable. An appeals court later upheld the ruling.

The Supreme Court, however, reversed the lower courts. It did not hold that the UMW had violated the anti-trust laws,

Resignation Should Not Be Reported

I have given much thought to the matter, before writing you about your front page story, announcing San Rafael High School's Principal, Dr. Alan Ellsberg, is leaving the district. I was at the PTA board meeting when he mentioned the fact, and although he did not specifically ask us not to make it public yet, I cannot believe anyone there did not get that impression. Therefore it was a breech of good faith, of which you are notorious.

The I-J can send both reporter and photographer to the school to get a front-page picture ("newsworthy"?) of trash on his desk, but hasn't the courtesy to even make a phone call to verify the facts in this case.

. . . The I-J has made an unattractive name for itself in the community for this continual knit-picking of San Rafael High School, and no other high school in the county. When something occurs to warrant news coverage, fine. But it is rather elementary that criticism is much more effective when it is constructive than when it is destructive — as many of your "news stories" and editorials have been. Don't you understand the damage you are doing to the many students who are trying to create pride in their school?

Mr. Bryce W. Anderson's series of articles on schools have been in many cases informative and enlightening, but his obvious antagonism of SRHS is unjustified and offensive.

Now that you have put Dr. Ellsberg in the position of "lame duck", which I should think would make it difficult for him to effectively administer for the remainder of his term, will you please consider calling a halt to your abuse, and try to give the new administrator, whoever he may be, a helping hand and a little cooperation? County Bookmobile Found Inadequate

We love to read. We enjoy going to the library. However, with small children, one 2½ years and one 8 months, we have to depend on the services of the bookmobile for our library. The bookmobile is sadly lacking in everything: size, ease of entering (those steps are difficult for an adult, nearly impossible for a child to negotiate), many of the children's books are stacked in cartons and not visible, the lighting is bad, there is no ventilation, more than five people in the bookmobile present a crowd.

It seems very sad that a county such as Marin, that prides itself on so much, has to provide its residents with such an ugly, insufficient excuse for a library on wheels. What can be done to get a decent sized bookmobile with attractive shelves lined with books, decent lighting and all the other basic amenities that make going to the library fun rather than a drab, meaningless experience on a dirty old truck?

Mrs. LAWRENCE M. GREEN
San Rafael.

(According to the San Rafael Public Works, the residence of reader Green on Surrey Lane is within the San Rafael city limits, not within the county library district which provides the bookmobile; so the service, however inadequate, is something which the Greens are provided free by the county in view of their distance from the San Rafael Library. — Editor.)

Pepperland Gets Vote Of Support

I was pleased to see Pepperland survive the most recent scrimmage, but I am sure there will be others. I was disappointed that counsel (Joseph E.) Sheeks didn't ask if it was proposed to close all of the high schools in Marin County, since there is pot smoking going on there too — not condoned by school authorities, by any means, but do they deny it's happening?

I had the pleasure of meeting Mr. (Ben) Blatt on one occasion and was impressed by this young business man (and that's what he is, you know — not a purveyor of psalmody). He is simply bringing young music of quality to the young people of today, and doing a good job of it under great duress. I say, "Hang tough, Mr. Blatt, and carry on!"

'Reichstag Fire' Bomb Plot Won't Undermine Government

WASHINGTON — Those who planted that bomb in the men's room of the U.S. Capitol aren't going to accomplish what they want.

They want to so infuriate the American people that Congress will be driven to massive repression.

They hope to push a free society into such a state of fear and uncertainty that it will commit self-destruction.

They are doing this by taking a page from the book of the German Nazis who themselves set fire to the Reichstag to provide a pretext for crushing the extreme left.

THE AMERICAN bomb-planters apparently were trying to precipitate a "Reichstag fire" in reverse; that is, they wanted to stampede Congress into such a mood of repression as would put the government on the defensive and turn the bomb-planters into martyrs.

It is not going to work.

They have misjudged the temper of the times. Perhaps a year ago, shortly after the Kent State and Jackson State campus tragedies, a bombing of symbolic terror might have had the ingredients of such a consequence.

But not today. It is not happening and I do not believe it is going to happen.

WHOEVER DID this evil thing, whether it be the Weathermen whose official spokesman, Bernadine Dohrn, stated publicly recently that they were putting aside violence, or some other misguided revolutionary, they're not helping themselves or the causes they serve.

They are losing friends and not influencing people. It must be very disconcerting for them to find that they're not even making important enemies.

A more prudent, more professional and more thorough protection will have to be provided for all congressional buildings. Such protection has been very hit-and-miss in the past and has often provided more patronage than protection.

That will be done, but wise public officials are warning that the one thing the bomb-planters most want is to create a climate of hysteria and a demand for extreme repression.

Democratic leaders Sen. Mike Mansfield and Republican leader Sen. Hugh Scott are counselling against yielding to any such temptation. President Nixon is saying that the public buildings must be kept open to the public and attorney General Mitchell is carefully describing the bombing incident as "something less than a conspiracy."

IN A STATEMENT published in the New York Times Jan. 19, Miss Dohrn claimed that the Weathermen were going to turn away from bombing and come "out into the air." She said that the "deaths of three friends (Weathermen who lost their lives in an explosion at one of their own 'bomb factories') ended the military concept of what we are doing."

But among those who are rushing to take credit for the Capitol bombing, a letter signed "The Weather Underground" to the Associated Press suggests that the Weathermen are back at the old stand doing what comes naturally to the violent-prone.

The Weathermen have long been on the side of violence. Either they prefer violence or they know that they have no chance whatsoever of winning the American people to their views by democratic means.

THIS ISN'T the first time a bomber has put an explosive in the Capitol of the United States. But Congress is showing no sign of losing its poise.

My own conviction is that if democratic government is ever undermined in the United States it will not be by the bombing or a building; it will be by the too feeble functionings of its institutions.

That's what we need to watch far more than the bombers.

GOLDEN GATE VIEW

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Virtually every mass transit system envisioned for Marin depends on an exclusive right-of-way, but the last remaining railroad right-of-way to Southern Marin soon may vanish unless prompt action is taken to preserve it.

This timely warning comes from Arthur J. Giddings of Larkspur, long an advocate of reviving the old joint railroad and ferry system that served Marin until the Golden Gate Bridge was built.

Regardless of whether that system ever would be practical again, Giddings is on the button when he warns that the right-of-way to Sausalito may be lost forever unless its use for transit is reserved immediately.

THE OLD RAILROAD right-of-way to Tiburon has been sold to that city for use as a bicycle and pedestrian path, and Giddings fears that the same end will come to the Sausalito line.

His concern was triggered last month at news that A. G. Schoonmaker Co. will sell its Sausalito property. The company was the major weight blocking the last two unsuccessful bids by the railroad to abandon the Sausalito line.

With Schoonmaker gone, the railroad can be expected to try again — and very well may succeed this time.

GIDDINGS, 68, a retired electrician at Northwestern Pacific Railroad's Tiburon shops, says that most people have no idea of the asset about to vanish. Judging from the lack of action by the county and the Golden Gate Bridge District, he apparently is right.

A related suggestion came to us to demonstrate the possibilities of the line by hauling public officials down to Sausalito on a self-propelled car. The railroad has such a car, used between Willits and Eureka Friday through Monday, and the idea was to bring it down to Marin for a midweek test run from San Rafael to Sausalito.

Not a bad idea — if the railroad can be convinced to give it a try. The railroad presumably would not want to do anything to prolong its Sausalito operation, but it may be willing to try the test run as a pitch to sell the right-of-way.

Probably no one could afford it except the bridge district.

ANOTHER SUGGESTION was that the Schoonmaker property be converted into a ferry terminal. Also intriguing.

Giddings' thoughts on what happened to the Sausalito line cast a novel light on the situation in Sausalito. He objects that the Tiburon line was "relegated into oblivion by the wishes of a local few for a bicycle trail. No local group should ever have the power to make changes that can impair the welfare of the vast majority."

That hardly sounds like the system in Sausalito.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By MARY LEYDECKER

Associate Warden Takes Issue With 'Middle Class' Prison Report

Although James Park, associate warden at San Quentin Prison, says that author Jessica Mitford "was kind of mixed up" when she quoted him in an article in Atlantic Monthly, he remembers his interview with her fondly.

"I kept telling her that middle class persons didn't understand what jungles prisons are," Park said. "She got a funny look on her face when I said that, and finally a woman with her said, 'No one's ever called Jessica middle-class before.' "

Park laughingly explained that it soon occurred to him that Miss Mitford, an Englishwoman, comes from a country where class distinctions are taken pretty seriously and that the author definitely is upper crust.

AS TO THE MEAT of Miss Mitford's article, entitled "Kind and Usual Punishment in California," Parks said that the noted author confused two issues.

"A prisoner in a state prison accused of a new felony while in jail has no legal rights at all," Miss Mitford wrote. She quoted Park as saying, "We find him guilty or not guilty administratively."

Actually, Park explained, when he made that statement he was not referring to prisoners accused of new felonies.

"Of course, prisoners accused of felonies have the same rights in court as anyone else," Park asserted.

What he was talking about, he explained, was cases where it is not possible to make formal charges against a convict.

"Take a case where one prisoner stabs another one. The witnesses are afraid and won't testify, so the district attorney can't prosecute. But we can often figure out who the guilty person is and take steps to deal with him administratively," he said.

AS FOR MISS Mitford's blasting of the California system of indeterminate sentences, Park said, "People don't seem to remember what an advance the indeterminate sentence was when it first was made law."

Under this system, prisoners who are deemed ready to reenter society are released earlier than those who are not judged so. Miss Mitford is right when she says that the indeterminate sentence is universally hated by the convict — who would much rather know exactly how much time he has to serve.

"I'm afraid that a change to a definite sentence would cause judges to give longer sentences than most men now serve," Park said. "I think it would hack up the minimum in most cases."

He feels, however, he said, that persons convicted of such crimes as burglary probably should receive definite sentences.

"It's when you get into sex offenders and that kind of thing" that Park feels determinate sentences don't make much sense.

Planners Due Sign Ordinance

The San Rafael Planning Commission is slated to recommend changes to the proposed sign ordinance at its 7:30 p.m. meeting tomorrow in City Hall.

The ordinance under consideration would restrict new signs to a maximum of one square foot per foot of building frontage. After final approval by the city council, it would also require that present signs that do not conform would have to be removed within 90 days after adoption.

The commission is also slated to discuss and make recommendations concerning the ordinance governing tidelands and waterways.

The tidal current in San Francisco Bay reaches a peak of 10 million cubic feet a second, says National Geographic.

BY NO MEANS NEUTRAL

Prison Reform Lacks Appeal For Politicians

By ERNEST B. FERGURSON

PARCHMAN, Miss. — As you approach Parchman from either direction along U.S. 49 W, the thing that announces where you are is a big sign with the words "Mississippi State Penitentiary" flanked by a picture of a guard aiming a shotgun and on the other side a bloodhound sniffing human tracks.

That is Parchman Farm's version of public relations.

Not long ago I described the system of conjugal visits allowed prisoners here in terms that might lead the unknowing reader to believe that Parchman is an example of enlightened prison reform right across the board. Not so.

In fact, permitting prisoners to have sex with their visiting wives began years ago largely because those involved were black and the white officials who allowed it considered that because blacks didn't have any morals anyway it didn't matter.

What began with shoulder-shrugging tolerance now is official policy, and other prison systems across the country are experimenting with conjugal visits. But Parchman is at least as laggard as the rest in otherwise treating prisoners as human beings.

Because it is in the deepest South and so many of its 1,800 inmates are blacks, it may be more so. It has had a reputation for decades as the end of the line. Life here is the subject of one of the most pathetic of the old work blues songs.

Parchman Farm runs at an unbelievably low per-prisoner per-day cost — $2 for everything: food, shelter, clothing, guards and what there is of rehabilitation. That is because the inmates are scattered over 22,000 acres of fertile delta soil, efficiently growing enough cotton and soybeans so the penitentiary can return to the state each year about $1.7 million of its $2.8 million operating outlay.

That fact, the spread-out farming operation, stands with geography and the blackness of the prison population behind most of the scandal that has festered here.

Last month a federal court ruled that 163 persons arrested in a 1965 civil rights march at Natchez are entitled to cash damages because the treatment they received on arrival here "violated even minimal standards of decency mandated in the treatment of convicted felons . . . That treatment has no place here. We deal with human beings, not dumb driven cattle."

The defendants in that federal suit included two Natchez police officials and C. B. Breazeale, former superintendent at Parchman.

Now there's a new superintendent, a one-time sheriff named Thomas Cook, but it does not mean the scandals have ended.

At Greenville, the family of Danny Bennett, a prisoner who was beaten to death last June by prison trusties, filed a federal suit for damages six days after the finding in favor of the Natchez demonstrators.

Still another suit is pending against the use of armed trusties. A joint legislative prison study committee, one of many, has called for other changes. Cook is actively pushing them during the current legislative session at Jackson.

And that, eventually, is where prison reform always founders — not just in Jackson, but in Albany, Annapolis, Sacramento and every other state capital. It founders on politics.

A convict, especially a black one, is at the very bottom of the list of citizens to whom any politician feels he must cater. Typically, an elected official is afraid even to seem to care about the prison situation. This is truer now than ever, re-enforced by such unsurprising evidence as last week's Newsweek poll finding that 75 per cent of Americans think convicted criminals are let off too easily and put that at the top of the things that ail American justice.

Cook, understanding politics, ascribes good motives to those opposing his efforts to end the armed trusty system, consolidating many of his prisoners in one more manageable center to make that feasible, and to make prison board appointments nonpolitical.

But state Sen. William Burgin, chairman of the appropriations committee, declared that he was "a whole lot more concerned about a number of other things in this state than building a concrete palace for law violators," and said the state House "went wild" when it voted to end the trusty system.

It hardly needs adding that Burgin is ambitious to move up to Congress to replace Thomas Abernethy of the First District, and he is finely attuned to the opinions of the folks back home in Columbus, near the Alabama border.

Magnets get their name from the ancient Greek city of Magnesia, where lodestones first were discovered.

Four rangers from state parks in Marin County have completed a nine-week training program in park operation and law enforcement run by the state Department of Parks and Recreation, the department said.

Completing the course at Asilomar Conference Grounds in Pacific Grove, Monterey County, were Henry L. Richards of Stinson Beach State Park, Donald M. Ritchie of Samuel P. Taylor State Park, Larry R. Helm of Mount Tamalpais State Park and Robert C. Grace of Angel Island State Park.

Indian Election Toll Mounts To 74 Dead

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Two more violent deaths were reported in Calcutta today, bringing to 74 the number killed since India's general elections began March 1.

One man was found shot to death and another stabbed fatally after supporters of a political party went on a rampage and attacked their rivals.

Cox Family Gets Nixon Invitation

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President and Mrs. Nixon have invited the family and friends of Edward Finch Cox to an "Irish Evening at the White House" March 16 at which they are expected to announce the engagement of their daughter Tricia to the Harvard law student.

Mrs. Nixon's 59th birthday falls on that date and there will be a joint celebration. Guest of honor will be Prime Minister and Mrs. John Lynch of Ireland.

Invitations have been received by Col. and Mrs. Howard Ellis Cox and by many of their 23-year-old son's friends. The wedding is expected to be held in the White House about June 12.

High-Flying 'Cinderella' Murdered

NEW YORK (UPI)—An ex-showgirl, known as the Cinderella of the Ozarks before she married one financier who fled to Brazil to escape fraud charges and who later became secretary to another, was found stabbed to death in her littered hotel room Sunday, her face bashed in.

"It's a vicious murder and it seems as if it was done for revenge," Deputy Police Inspector William Connelie said today. The medical examiner's office was trying to determine how long she had been dead.

The victim was Sarah Naomi Wallman Belle, 36, who had been married to Earl Belle and currently was secretary to Lowell Birrell. Both men had constructed financial empires in the 1950s and both fled to Brazil when charged with fraud.

Mrs. Belle had been indicted with Birrell and Anthony Z. Lieberman, operator of a Philadelphia travel agency in June 1969 in another stock fraud case involving a New Jersey drug firm, but the charge against her later was dropped.

An employe of the Hotel Chalfonte near Lincoln Center found Mrs. Belle's body on the living room floor of her 16th floor, 2 1-2 room suite. The rug was spattered with blood and more than 200 empty whisky, vodka and wine bottles and knee-high piles of newspapers littered the room.

Police said the $240-a-month suite had been registered since Jan. 30, 1970, to Corporate Image Builders, Ltd., of 475 Fifth Ave., a management consulting firm started by Birrell some years ago.

An official of the once fashionable hotel, which now takes in welfare families, said Birrell had paid the rent by the month.

Birrell, who lives with his wife in Brigantine, N.J., a shore community more than 100 miles from here, came to New York by bus Sunday night to tell the police all he knew about Mrs. Belle.

Elevator operator Leon Leone told police he discovered Mrs. Belle's door ajar at about 2:30 p.m. Sunday and saw her body face down on the living room rug.

Police said Mrs. Belle, who was wearing green slacks and a white blouse but no shoes, had been stabbed repeatedly and her face had been bashed in with a blunt instrument.

The former showgirl married Belle, now 38, in 1958 before he fled to Brazil to escape charges in connection with the disappearance of $875,000 from the Eastern Investment Development Corp. He obtained a proxy Bolivian divorce from her in 1961.

Pacifists Disclose Secret Peace Talks

PARIS (UPI)—Chief Hanoi negotiator Xuan Thuy told a group of American pacifists that he had resumed the long suspended secret peace negotiations with President Nixon's chief peace negotiator, a spokesman for the pacifist group said today.

Stan Dale of Chicago, a newsman for radio station WDAI in the Chicago area, said Xuan Thuy made the disclosure during a meeting with some of the 170 American pacifists currently in Paris for meeting with the delegates to the Paris peace talks.

"Xuan Thuy told us he had met privately with Ambassador (David K. E.) Bruce several times," Dale told newsmen at a news conference called by the pacifist groups from the American Friends Service Committee, clergy and laymen concerned, and the fellowship of reconciliation.

The remark was the first indication that secret negotiations between the United States and North Vietnam had been resumed.

Both sides broke their self-imposed rules on secrecy surrounding the so-call "private talks" more than 18 months ago.

Xuan Thuy publicly criticized the way in which Henry Cabot Lodge handled the talks, and shortly thereafter President Nixon disclosed the number of meetings and said they had not produced any significant progress.

FOR EQUAL LEGAL RIGHTS

Financier's Quiet Crusade

By JOAN LISETOR

"I'm not a Carrie Nation," says Lorraine L. Blair, "but it is up to women like me to help bring about the necessary changes and bring to the attention of the public that there are laws that discriminate against women."

In Marin from her Chicago home to promote her book, "Answers To Your Everyday Money Question," which has just come out in paperback, Mrs. Blair discussed her 36 years in the traditionally male world of finance.

Mrs. Blair heads the Finance Forum of America, an educational finance forum which she founded as the Women's Finance Forum of America in 1935 for the working girl to help with personal budgeting.

"MY MOTHER and I lost our estates during the Depression. I had to go to work to support my small daughters, my mother and a large family of aunts," she says. "In the finance world I learned things I wanted to share with other women. Women's clubs were having lectures on art, so I lectured to them on money — how to handle it.

"The women asked, 'Can't I bring my husband, my father, my boyfriend?' I started letting the men come but waited 25 years to change the name."

The twice widowed grandmother is a member of Presidents' Commission on the Status of Women. She and the other 19 members meet four times a year in Washington, D. C., as an advisory council to the President. Her specialty is the Equal Rights Amendment.

"Mrs. Chisholm (Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y.) says she has been discriminated against more as a woman than as black. We must bring sexual discriminations to the attention of all," she says.

"The Equal Rights Amendment would be better understood if it were called the equal legal rights and responsibilities amendment. People would understand it gives men rights too, and it has nothing to do with personal relations and nothing to do with opening doors or giving up seats, but if I wanted a seat on the Stock Exchange I wouldn't want to be refused on the basis of sex.

"IF A woman qualifies and is physically fit for a job the basis should not be sex. If a woman wants to be a jockey, a taxi driver or lift weights, the law should not discriminate. Some men are not qualified for these things, but it should be based on ability not the law."

If the Senate passed the Equal Rights Amendment today it would take seven years before it went into effect, Mrs. Blair estimates.

"Equal rights make beautiful relationships between men and women," says Mrs. Blair. "If each has a career each must respect the other's. Marriage should not be a 90-10 arrangement. Each must contribute, and one should not dominate the other. They should be partners and not inhibit one another.

"The ideal husband encourages his wife's talents, and a wife should not feel jealousy if her husband is successful.

"It takes a big man, secure within himself, to take pride in his wife's successes."

DURING HER visit in Marin, where she is staying with her granddaughter, Mrs. James D. Lang Jr. of Fairfax, she has made radio and television appearances. In Chicago she appears on her own show, "Finance Forum of the Air," answering the questions of viewers who call her for advice on handling their financial affairs.

Mrs. Blair is proud of the fact that she has broken traditions by being the first woman guest at some of Chicago's most exclusive men's clubs.

In 1952 she founded Lorraine L. Blair, Inc., an investment house and serves as its president and treasurer, and she is also the owner of Raylor Insurance Co., also based in Chicago.

She worked while her children were very young and says she was fortunate to have a family who could care for them. For the women who do not, she says, child care centers are necessary.

"THIRTY MILLION women are employed today, either because they are single or out of the necessity for two incomes. A woman can have children and work, but I don't think every woman who bears children is a mother."

She says she brought her two daughters up with the freedom of choice, and neither chose to go into her businesses, but one daughter, who wanted nothing to do with business, received $5,000 from her husband to invest in the stock market.

"Her interest has grown and she has gradually come into the business," Mrs. Blair says, "but I am glad I never pushed her into it."

"EQUAL RIGHTS make beautiful relationships between men and women," says Mrs. Lorraine L. Blair who learned the world of finance and then taught other women and men how to handle money. She is on the President's Commission on the Status of Women which has endorsed the Equal Rights Amendment for women.

ALL THE WAY from Nigeria, West Africa, comes Mrs. Palmer Ofuoku to live in Marin while her husband spends 18 months at the Baptist Seminary in Strawberry working for the master of divinity degree. She displays some of the things she brought from home — at left a wooden tray she carved herself in school showing an elephant and decorative trees, a wood handled shopping bag in which she carries groceries (in her lap), and in her hand a handbag of young donkey skin such as Nigerian women favor. In Marin just over a month, Rebecca Ofuoku is studying English and music while here. (I-J photo by Jim Kean)

Fear Of U.S. Turned To Joy

Marin Women
Monday, March 8, 1971 Independent-Journal, 11

Rebecca Ofuoku left her native Nigeria in January to join her husband, Palmer, with some fears about being accepted as a black in the United States.. But her fears turned to joy when she found warmth and friendliness both in Alabama and in Marin, here she is living while her husband studies at Golden Gate Baptist Seminary in Strawberry.

Asked how she felt about coming to a strange country, Rebecca replied, "I had a mixed feeling. I was sad to leave my children and my people, but glad to join my husband, as he had been away for three years. I was afraid, too, because I was told some horrible stories about the feelings of people in Alabama toward the blacks, but when I got to Birmingham to visit a friend who grew up in Nigeria, I found a different thing entirely. The people were so friendly, and I liked them so much."

In order to be with her husband for the last 18 months of his work for the master of divinity degree, Rebecca had to leave four of her six children in a boarding high school in Nigeria and the two younger and an adopted nephew with her sister.

Her husband is an experienced pastor and a former teacher. In fact, he was Rebecca's teacher before they were married. In preparation for their return, Rebecca is studying English and music. With her mission school background she is already fluent in English.

DURING THE war in Nigeria, Rebecca said, food was very scarce, so she grew yam, cassava, corn, okra, and raised chickens to feed her family. Her church was not closed as some were, but many people were afraid to go, afraid that a bomb might explode, she said.

Speaking of her family background, she said,

"While my father was away, acting as bodyguard and messenger for his father, the chief, my mother made most of the living for the family, as Nigerian women often do.

"MANY WOMEN still make the living. Women are farmers, women are traders. Women work hard and get old so fast. A woman will have a baby on her back and carry a heavy load on her head, or ride her bicycle a long distance carrying a load. She is lucky if she has children old enough to do the cooking. If not, she will cook after she gets through working all day. The uneducated men do just hatever they want to. The educated men don't like to have their wives work so hard," she explained.

Indicating that changes have come in Nigeria, Rebecca said that industrialization is taking place.

"We produce all of our own clothes and dishes now, but we do not make any cars or bicycles yet. We still import sugar and milk. Young people can still build their own homes when they marry. Very few rent. Land is not expensive and they are able to put up concrete block houses."

Changes are not so noticeable in food and cooking. "In Nigeria cooking takes a very long time. We cook over an open fire, outdoors. All the food is fresh. We have yams that weigh from 18 to 20 pounds. We make two different things from yam: yam flour, like instant potatoes, and boiled or fried yam with cassava which we grate to make garri.

Then we have plantain. When it is ripe you slice and fry it in palm oil or ground nut oil. 'Tis so good, so sweet, like sweet potato. For seasonings we eat a lot of hot pepper and tomato. We grind tomato and onion," she said.

"We have fruits, pineapple, mango, avocado-pear, guava. The greatest delicacy is fresh cheese, made from cow milk, not boiled. It is white and very tender.

"IN CALIFORNIA I do not know how to cook. It is good that most of the food is almost cooked. You just warm up and eat. But bakery is difficult for me."

In spite of Marin County's "cold" weather, Rebecca has made herself very much at home, living in a seminary apartment and making friends with other student wives.

Stay With Children In An Emergency Like Earthquake

By KATHLEEN NEUMEYER

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Lving through an earthquake, hurricane or tornado is a terrifying experience for everyone, not least the children.

In the aftermath of Southern California's devastating earthquake Feb. 9, many youngsters expressed their fears by behavioral regression —they resumed sucking their thumbs, wetting the bed and didn't want to leave their mothers' sides.

Dr. Stephen J. Howard, director of clinical services at San Fernando Valley Child Guidance Clinic, which has treated more than 400 parents and children since the quake, said youngsters were most upset because they realized their parents were afraid.

"This happened in the dark," Howard said. "Lights were out, people were stumbling about looking for flashlights, screaming 'stay where you are' or 'get under the doorway."

Howard said many parents made the mistake, after the quake ended, of rushing around the house surveying the damage, leaving the children alone in their darkened bedrooms.

"MY ADVICE, in an emergency, is stay together," he said. "Children are not so much afraid of being injured or even being killed as they are of being left alone and being separated from their parents."

A clinic spokesman said most of the youngsters brought in for treatment had not expressed their fears aloud to their parents. In therapy they said they were afraid to go to bed now "because the bed might go wiggle-wiggle."

Many of them did not understand what the earthquake was, and their parents in some cases had answered their questions by saying it happened "because it was God's will."

"There was visible relaxation when the reason for the earth tremors was explained," the spokesman said.

The experts said it was better to admit to the children that everyone is afraid during an earthquake or other natural phenonmenon.

Marin Charitable Foundation Ends Deb Ball Sponsorship

No more white-gowned debutantes will be associated with the Marin Charitable Foundation. The Marin Debutante Ball of the past nine years is officially over.

Instead, the foundation is taking on a whole new youthful look, widening itself to form a Junior Auxiliary of up to 100 girls representing North Bay high schools.

The girls' organization will be made up of high school sophomores, juniors and seniors, a decision established by a vote of the Marin Charitable Foundation members to "disassociate the foundation with the term 'debutante' and with 'presenting debutantes at a ball'."

The new look for the '70s will see an auxiliary set up to appeal to the ecology and community service-minded young women of Marin. Members will be chosen on the basis of their community and school activities and the group will contribute community service and hold fund-raising activities to benefit other youth in Marin.

Mrs. William Murray Jr. of San Rafael is director of the auxiliary for the foundation.

Each new auxiliary member will have a sponsor from the auxiliary and from the foundation. New members will be introduced in the spring.

The juniors will set up four annual meetings, and one-day workshop is planned to acquaint members with volunteer activities in Marin, leading to community service by the girls.

Funds raised by the auxiliary will go to the foundation's allocation committee, which will include a representative from the youthful auxiliary. A $5 annual membership fee has been established for the girls participating.

Already the auxiliary has a tentative steering committee of some 15 volunteers, and the whole auxiliary has held one meeting.

Members of the newly-formed auxiliary will be introduced at a party March 19 at 3:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. George F. Jewett Jr. in Ross, and afterward the steering committee will discuss ideas for the group's first year.

Tentatively a large party or event is planned for the year, possibly to be held in the summer. The axuiliary is considering a yearly party to honor the senior girls who are members.

New president of the adult Marin Charitable Foundation is Mrs. F. William Mosden of Ross. In past years the foundation has contributed funds from the Marin Debutante Ball and other events it sponsored to programs that benefit Marin youth.

Rebecca Crisp Will Be Wed To Daniel White

The engagement of Rebecca Crisp to Daniel White has been announced by her parents Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Crisp of Corte Madera.

She is a graduate of Redwood High School and an employee of Sierra National Bank in Greenbrae. Rebecca attended the College of Marin and is the sister of Jacki Crisp of Santa Cruz and Tom Crisp of Davis. Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Radloff of Napa and Mrs. Margaret Crisp of Oakland.

Deniel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil E. White of Larkspur, is also a graduate of Redwood High School. He attended College of Marin and will graduate from Sonoma State College in June. He is employed by Redwoods Presbyterian Church in Larkspur. His brother is Neil White Jr. of San Rafael and Mrs. Ruby Greving of Mill Valley is his grandmother.

The couple plan to be married on Christmas Eve.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Gifts Of Candy Are Dandy But An Exerciser Is Wiser

DEAR HELEN:

For 15 years, my husband has given me candy on Valentine's Day. This February, he gave me an exerciser — one of those machines for firming up and losing weight. Is he trying to tell me something? — HALF GAINER

DEAR GAINER:

If the machine fits — use it.

DEAR HELEN:

My wife goes for a different kind of women's lib, the Jackie type — as in "liberating" Ari's money! She spends like there was no tomorrow. And she thinks credit cards have no ceiling.

See, she was raised rich. What she wanted, she got. And, after we were married, she could still run to Daddy every time my paycheck wouldn't stretch, and can't understand why I'm so stubborn about it.

I insist on paying my own bills and living on my money, not his. — RIGHT OR WRONG?

DEAR R. OR W:

Right!

Credit cards and joint checking accounts are for mature adults who can use them sensibly. Your wife is still a pampered little Daddy's girl. Maybe an outside jobwould help her grow up. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

What good is it to rate a movie "X" then show it at a drive-in where kids can gather on a hill above and watch the whole thing free?

A favorite teen-age parking spot today overlooks our town's bluest open air theater. Sure, they can't hear the words, but actions speak louder than . . .

What can be done? — MAD DAD

DEAR MAD:

A legislator has already introduced a bill, hoping to ban X-rated outdoor movies.

You might write a letter to your city council. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm expecting our first child in a few weeks. My husband has had three by a former wife, and I have two by my first husband, so we aren't new at this.

So why is it that my husband has refused to come near me in bed since I was four months pregnant? He says it might hurt the baby, but I fear it's because he no longer loves me. He goes out a lot, although he's very sweet to me when he's home — much nicer than before, when we fought constantly. You see, he wasn't very true to me. I found him with several cheapies before he calmed down.

One more thing: He had a stubborn infection and, after four doctors, one finally found this gonorrhea. What do you think? — REJECTED

DEAR REJECTED:

I think your last paragraph tells the tale and I hope you have been thoroughly checked and treated. Until your husband is sure he is cured, it's essential that he continue to keep his distance. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

ANTERO RIVASPLATA came from Peru to San Francisco where he met and married Marguerite Sevilla 50 years ago Feb. 28. She had come with her family from Mexico. The couple bought property in Novato in 1927 and spent summer vacations there away from the home in San Francisco until moving to Novato in 1949.

50th Anniversary Reception 'Like The United Nations'

Mr. and Mrs. Antero Rivasplata of Novato celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Feb. 28 in Novato when their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Rivasplata, also of Novato honored them at a reception at the Novato Community House.

More than 200 friends and relatives attended the wedding including four brothers and six sisters of Mrs. Rivasplata. Two other sisters were in Mexico and unable to attend.

Mr. Rivasplata met Marguerite Sevilla when she came to San Francisco with her family in 1920 from Mexico. He had come to San Francisco from Peru in 1919. They were married in 1921 at the Church of Our Lady of Guadalupe in San Francisco.

They bought property in Novato in 1927 where they spent their summer vacations, until building their present home in 1948. Moving to Novato in 1949.

A machinist for the Railroad for several years, he opened his own plumbing shop in San Francisco in 1930. He and his son also built houses in Novato.

"I thank the Lord for our family," Mrs. Rivasplata said. The couple spend a great deal of time with their three grandchildren, Terry 16, Charles 13 and Edith, 8 years old.

Photography has been Mr. Rivasplata's hobby and sewing and embroidery have been Mrs. Rivasplata's pastime. They both like to travel and have traveled to Mexico and Peru many times. Mr. Rivasplata has a brother and sister living in Peru.

Mr. Rivasplata became a member of the Masonic Lodge, King Solomon Seaport Lodge in 1927 and he is also a member of the Scottich Rite and a charter member of Hamilton Lodge. Mrs. Rivasplata is a charter member of Novato Chaper 609, Order of Eastern Star where she served as an officer. She is also a member of the White Shrine, however, she said she is not active in club work and she now stays home and "takes care of him" she said, her eyes sparkling as she looked at her husband.

Speaking of their reception on Sunday, Mr. Rivasplata said "it was like the United Nations," as so many nationalities were represented.

The highlight of the day, they both said, was when their son played a song on the violin as a special request of his father, and then danced with his mother.

Parents Should Admit Fear

going to happen to us, rather than nothing is going to happen to you. Don't isolate the child in his fear."

"Let's admit we were frightened, it's nothing to be ashamed of," Howard said.

Howard said it was natural for youngsters to wish to sleep with their parents after such an experience.

"They have a right to be scared and they have a right to be with their parents in an emergency and be assured the parents will protect them," he said.

However, after the danger is past, youngsters should be encouraged to return to their normal routines, sleeping in their own room and going to school, he said.

The doctor said it was important for parents to talk out the problem with their children, because sharing anxiety is a way of overcoming it.

Burn-Proof Clothing Scarce Despite Four-Year Old Law

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Nearly four years after Congress passed a law to tighten standards on flammable fabrics, no new standards have yet become effective.

By next December, a new standard will require that rugs and carpets be less flammable than they have been. But no new standards have been set on any clothing or upholstery material.

In the meantime, an estimated 4,000 people are killed each year when their clothing, bedding or other home furnishings catch fire. Some 175,000 people are injured in this fashion every year, most of them small children or elderly or disabled people.

The 1967 amendments to a previous law which banned "torch" sweaters and other extremely flammable materials declared that "available evidence makes it abundantly clear that the toll in terms of death, injury and disfigurement from fires involving wearing apparel and interior furnishings is far greater than need be."

LAST NOVEMBER, the Commerce Department finally got around to proposing a standard of flammability for children's sleepwear. Public hearings were held in January, and the Department is now sitting through the comments made then and received by mail.

But a standard may be a long way off, for industry spokesmen said the standard was too stiff and would cause consumers to stop buying cotton items because of the odor and feel of chemically treated material.

As evidence, they cited experience in Great Britain where such a standard has been in effect and in some stores in this country where fireresistant children's clothing has been test marketed. In both cases, buyers preferred items other than those made with chemically treated cotton.

It is still possible to buy flame-retardant children's clothing at some nationwide department store chains — and some bedding and sport shirt items — but the proportion of such products on the market is very small.

Why aren't consumers given a choice of fire-resistant or non-fire-resistant products of all types?

FIRST IS the reluctance of buyers to choose the chemically treated items over the others when both are available. Manufacturers are not rushing to add flame-proofing chemicals and raise prices to pay for them in the face of experience to date.

Second is the absence of cheap and effective processes that can be applied to the wide variety of textile products. A process for the heavy material might not work for a lighter one. Flammability depends greatly on weight, width of weave and type of fabric.

Among natural fibers, wool is generally the least flammable and cotton the most flammable, with others in between. Among man-made fibers, rayon is generally most dangerous while glass, modacrylic and saran are virtually flame-proof.

Rather than bursting into flames, the thermoplastics such as nylon and acrylic melt into a sticky syrup that can cause deep burns. The degree of hazard depends a lot on which fabrics are combined into a product.

For people who cannot find what they want on the market, there is a way to improve the fire resistance of such items as cotton. It calls for mixing seven ounces of borax with three ounces of boric acid dissolved in two quarts of hot water.

But the effects will last only until the material is washed.

PRESS GUIDE IS AVAILABLE

A guide for press chairmen of organizations interested in getting news to the Marin Women's Section of the Independent-Journal is available at the San Rafael main office and the Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma I-J offices.

The booklet, "Getting News Into Your Newspaper," is issued as a service of the Independent-Journal Women's Section to assist press chairmen for women's organizations.

The booklets at the San Rafael office may be obtained from the switchboard on the main floor.

Boys Club Auxiliary Elects New President

A mother of four, Mrs. Richard Lewis, has been elected president of the Petaluma Boys' Club Auxiliary. Mrs. Lewis and her husband, an engineer at Hamilton Air Force Base, are the parents of Keith, 17, Gregory, 15, Mark 9, and Lisa Ann, 6. The family has lived in Sonoma County seven years.

"Supporting club activities through fund raising is the primary purpose of the auxiliary," Dolores Lewis says of the organization.

She has been a member for four years and has served on its board of directors since 1969. Membership is open to any woman in the Petaluma community.

Born in St. Louis, Okla., Mrs. Lewis is a graduate of Livermore High School in Livermore. Her other club interest is the St. Vincent de Paul Mother's Club.

Special interests of the new president include all spectator sports, especially ones in which her sons participate.

ART REVIEW

By LAURA DEVENDORF

SAN FRANCISCO — "Steel is Real" is the theme of the joint sculpture show by Richard Colombini of Corte Madera and Richard Decker of San Francisco, through March 15 at the San Francisco Art Institute, 800 Chestnut Street. Exactly what they mean by that theme is never quite clear. But if stretched to suggest that their work has presence, then the show is titled accurately.

Steel of itself is imposing, and especially so, when twisted and massed into the aggressive forms chosen by Colombini. In several pieces based on "Plant Forms," he creates spiked, pincered and twisted painted sculptures which seem more like mutated insects locked in combat than the soft twining imagery of growing things. They are angry, brutal things — hard and determined in their blackness and committed to action in their excited and abrupt wanderings.

This same sense of things taking off in every direction is inherent in other, more compact or mechanistic subjects in Colombini's work. And usually thrust or interlocking parts are the things which cause it.

In one sculpture, a network of orange pipes is pierced in several directions by black pointed shafts and a silver arrow. While in "Slash, Snip, Slice," a gigantic wire cutter snips at a pair of broken shears, part of which returns the favor by fracturing the wire cutter, while the other part hacks the sculpture's chisel-shaped base which itself is squashing a metal pipe.

All these statements have a slightly disturbing quality which makes them matter. By comparison, Colombini's other things seem ordinary or confused as to the point they want to make. And seeing Colombini's things played against Decker's makes the latter's facility for understatement even more apparent.

Even Decker's busiest, most organic pieces are far leaner lined. And for continuing interest they depend more on the pools and beads of melted metal and the surface subtleties caused by brushing or burn, than they do on active designs. At his best, Decker can make the starkest idea seem a complete experience as in the simple, copper toned tower topped by a rounded shape cut only by a silver plane with a hole in it.

As a sculptor, Decker is restrained, strong, subtle and a little too derivative. Colombini has a lot of undirected energy which borders confusion. But each has a sense of dramatic presence and a facility for the difficult steel medium which should be limited in the future only by their development of ideas.

Women's Group Sets Antidraft March

The Marin branch of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom will sponsor an antidraft march tomorrow beginning at 10:30 a.m. at the old courthouse in San Rafael, according to Kathleen Martin, treasurer of the group.

Many of the women will bring their young sons with them, she said. The marchers will walk to the post office branch on D Street, where the Selective Service System office for Marin is housed.

Candlelight Series Sets Final Event

Mill Valley's Candlelight Series will conclude on March 28 at 8 p.m. in Brown's Hall with a concert by French flutist Michel Debost, accompanied by pianist Christian Ivaldi.

Debost, recently appointed first flutist of the newly formed Orchestre de Paris, is a graduate of the Paris Conservatory and has won first prizes in international competition in Moscow, Prague, Munich, Geneva and Rome. Debost has appeared as soloist with major European orchestras.

His repertory includes the classic compositions as well as music of the moderns.

A professor at the Paris Conservatoire National, pianist Ivaldi has toured Europe and Canada with various groups and soloists, such as soprano Regine Crespin.

Ivaldi's association as a duo with Debost started in 1958. They have made recordings and some 200 appearances together.

Each minute of the day the federal government pays interest on the national debt of about $39,000, says the House Appropriations Committee.

Medi-Cal Overhaul Bills Set This Week

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation incorporating major features of Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposed overhaul of welfare and Medi-Cal is expected to be introduced this week.

The governor has said that California taxpayers will face an increase this year and every succeeding year unless the multi-billion dollar programs for the needy are reformed this year. The bills will play a key role in balancing his $6.7 billion state budget.

But Democrats in the Senate and Assembly insist a tax hike is inevitable this year.

Vital parts of the restructuring program —which Reagan outlined last week in a 180-page message to lawmakers — include "family responsibility" to support welfare members, meeting requirements of the "truly needy" by trimming payments for the "affluent poor" and requiring the ablebodied to work.

Democrats complained that the 1971 session already was more than two months old and the governor hadn't sent lawmakers bills on which to act.

"Significant parts of the program will be ready for introduction next week,'' State Human Relations Secretary James Hall told the Senate Finance Committee last week. "The bulk of it will be ready."

"We ask you to come fully prepared," warned Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, committee chairman. "Don't come in with old, stale statistics. There's nothing that will shoot you out of the water quicker than that."

But George Steffes, the governor's chief legislative aide, said at the close of business Friday that it had not been decided who would carry the program in the legislature.

For the whole program to function as envisioned, the legislature, Congress and the Nixon Administration would all have to approve.

Hall said some regulation changes not requiring legislative endorsement are already in effect.

For example, he told the committee, a new rule adopted on an "emergency basis" is aimed at preventing illegal aliens from becoming eligible for welfare. He did not elaborate but Reagan has said he wants all such persons to prove "they are legally entitled to remain in the United States and that such persons intend to reside in California permanently."

Theme Of Festival Announced

"Kaleidoscope" will be the theme of the Performing Arts Festival planned by students of Dominican College of San Rafael in conjunction with students from neighboring colleges on March 27.

The festival will be in the garden area adjacent to Bertrand Hall on the Dominican campus.

Continuous events will be an "automatic" art demonstration by Masatoyo Kishi; photography and weaving exhibits and modeling of gowns from the Julia Weber collection.

Special afternoon entertainment will include a mime performance, drama scenes, foreign language performances, poetry reading and music.

Drama students from the College of Marin will perform "Pyramis and Thisbe," a scene from the last act of Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream."

Evening events scheduled from 5 to 9 p.m. include a buffet supper with musical entertainment and a special program featuring Rita Abrams, composer of "Mill Valley," who will perform on various instruments including the medieval flute, early guitars and mandolins.

Police Puzzled In Killing Of 5 In Cycle Gang Fight

CLEVELAND (UPI)-The duel of knives and chains among members of two motorcycle gangs that left five men dead and 21 injured Saturday night still has police confused about exactly what happened.

Police Chief Lewis Coffey appealed Sunday to residents of the East Side neighborhood where the near-riot broke out at the Polish Women's Hall to give information to police. He promised anonymity.

The only explanation the police could make for the brawl, which erupted at a motorcycle exhibition show, was that it was the culmination of a feud between members of the Akron Breed and the Violators, a motorcycle club from New York affiliated with the Hell's Angels. "They came armed for trouble,", according to Police Prosecutor Everett Chandler, who said he was considering first-degree riot and first-degree murder charges against some suspects.

Seventy-three men and four women have been taken into custody for questioning, but no one has been accused in connection with the fighting or the deaths.

The atmosphere in the hall became very tense about 30 minutes before the fights began, the police said, when about 150 members of the Akron gang filed into the hall "in military style."

Nine policemen had been sent to the hall after police received an anonymous tip that there would be trouble. They confiscated many weapons, including knives, chains and clubs, before the two groups squared off.

Patrolman Lawrence Davis, 36, and his partner, Thomas Burton, 36, were among the first policemen to reach the scene.

Davis said a short time after he arrived, "all hell broke loose."

"We didn't know where to turn," Burton said. "We just started clobbering everyone."

City's Riots Breed Canine Breakdowns

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—A marked increase in the number of dogs suffering from "nervous breakdowns" in this riot-torn city has been noted by the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (RSPCA).

"Animals are very sensitive and the sudden explosions, shootings and noise can play havoc with their systems," an SPCA official said.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

MOBILE CLASSROOM

Taking School With Them, They Learn To Live As Family

By GEORGE NEVIN

With new school buildings in Marin County ever on the rise, Forest Knolls teacher Patricia J. Wright takes issue with the theory that magnificent structures equal good education.

In fact, the 29-year-old Miss Wright, who certainly has no edifice complex, thinks a permanent classroom is a barrier to learning. And she's put her theories into action with Pacific Trek Day School, which she founded in September.

For the student body of four, Miss Wright's Volkswagen camper is the passport to all of Northern California. And their experiences, they say, add up to the most interesting, most educational and certainly the most mobile school they've ever attended.

Their enthusiasm mirrors their teachers's belief that "containment in a classroom is a negative factor in learning."

"Confining children to one physical location is a form of sensory deprivation, especially during their most sensitive period, their prime learning time," Miss Wright said.

Miss Wright, who spent six years teaching in traditional public and private schools, also thinks the freedom of Pacific Trek has given her a fresh outlook on education.

"When there is a classroom base it's tempting for a teacher to indulge in inertia," she said. "But with a class in a camper or at my home or in public libraries, there's no chance of settling down."

One of the best features of the school, the teacher and students say, is that questions can be answered directly, not through books.

Field trips taken by the class since September have included a fish hatchery west of Sacramento, where salmon were spawning; the Pacific Coast near Monterey, to watch migrating whales; a logging camp in Mendocino, and, closer to home, the Bolinas Marine Biology Laboratory and shrines, museums and parks in Marin, Sonoma and San Francisco.

The longer trips, three-day camping jaunts, serve the additional purpose of training teacher and students to get along with each other, share chores and keep to a schedule.

They also have provided valuable training for the school's final exam in May —a two-week camping trip. "We don't know where we'll go yet," explained Miss Wright. The kids will decide and make all the arrangements — getting brochures, making reservations and buying the food."

All this emphasis on trips doesn't mean the Pacific Trek Day School is one big outing — far from it. "Half of each day usually is spent doing academic work at a library or my home," Miss Wright said. This enables her to tutor her charges individually in whatever subjects they need.

The students, all 12 years old (the school can accept students from 8 to 13), say they've never learned so much academically.

"I didn't get anything out of public school," said Bill Wright, Miss Wright's brother and the son of Jean Wright, 92 Railroad Avenue, Woodacre. "By fourth grade I just refused to do the work."

Two years of private school in the East Bay didn't help much either, he said. "Then I started to worry about not learning anything, so I came to this school."

At Pacific Trek, Bill found qualities lacking in the other schools — intensive tutoring and an individual interest in him as a student. With his desire to learn rekindled, Bill plans to attend public school next year in preparation for high school the year after — and then, perhaps, college.

Another student, Peter Marshutz, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Rogoff, live at 1040 Erica Road, Tamalpais Valley, agrees that his basic skills, especially math and reading, have improved considerably since he joined Pacific Trek.

Miss Wright concurs. "They (the pupils) have made amazing progress in math this year, They'll all pass my skill in the subject before the end of the year."

Peter and Susan Brown, daughter of Assemblyman Willie D. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, were tutored by Miss Wright last year at a private school in San Francisco.

The fourth student, Laura Spake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Spake of 372 Richardson Way, Tamalpais Valley, was out with the flu when an Independent-Journal reporter accompanied the school on a short field trip last week.

After a morning of study in the Mill Valley Public Library and a picnic lunch in Old Mill Park, Miss Wright drove her brood across the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge to tour a water treatment plant in the East Bay.

The bridge toll-taker greeted the camper occupants cheerily. "I've read all about you," he said as the teacher-driver dropped coins into his hand. "Where are you going today?"

The destination was the Sobrante Filter Plant in El Sobrante, operated by the East Bay Municipal Utility District. The group took a tour of the facility and learned how the water, fed by melting snow in the Sierra Nevada, is borne 110 miles through three huge aqueducts to serve the district's 1.1 million residents.

As might be expected in its first year of operation, Pacific Trek hasn't yet figured out answers to all the problems.

Both Susan and Peter think the school would be better with more students. "I miss playing capture the flag like we did last year," Susan complained good-naturedly. It's hard to get much of a game going with only two players per team, she said.

Miss Wright also frets about the small class size. "Ideally it would be better to have two classes. Two buses and 12 children would give us more breadth of personality and experience." But the maximum in each bus, she believes, should be six children.

The chief problem, she readily admits, is money. Even with tuition at $2,000 per pupil, her gross income doesn't match the salaries of most public and private school teachers in Marin. And from that gross must be subtracted operating expenses for the bus, all educational materials (Miss Wright doesn't use textbooks), insurance costs ("exorbitant," she says) and the cost of all the camping trips that so delight her students.

"I'd like to buy another bus and hire another teacher," she said, "but it's hard to find someone to work for the starvation wages I could afford to pay."

She's also hoping for a foundation grant to continue the school and permit her to lower the tuition and give scholarships, but fears she may not be able to hold out until one comes through. Besides, she said, competiton for such grants is very keen.

In the meantime, she gratefully accepts contributions from private parties interested in backing her unusual school.

Although it's hard to gauge the success of Pacific Trek in Conventional terms, Miss Wright said the parents of her students are pleased with their progress.

"They've noticed the children who tended to be shy have become more expressive and now will stand up for their rights," she said. "Others who were too aggressive have become less intensely focused on themselves and are willing to give a little."

In Miss Wight's opinion, the most important lesson the children have learned is how to live together like a family.

"The standard classroom creates an artificial environment of 35 children of one age," she said, "but our school is more like a family unit, with social interaction on a day-to-day basis. If we come to a difference of opinion we can't run away from it. We have to drop everything and face it."

As a result, she said, "We've had some pretty heavy experiences. Being so familiar with each other makes the children more vulnerable in some ways, because they can zero in on each other's weaknesses, but they also grow very close, too."

With at least two returnees expected from this year's crop of students and great interest from other parents, Miss Wright feels she will have no trouble filling her little school bus next year.

"And I can carry on another year by getting a summer job," she said.

After that, the future of Pacific Trek Day School may hinge on the generosity of contributions and foundations and her friends, who volunteer their time to do the necessary administrative work.

Death Row Man Stabbed, Mum On Who Did It

A Death Row inmate at San Qeuntin prison was stabbed yesterday but refused to tell officers how or by whom.

Million L. McShane, 29, was seen walking around the exercise area for the row about 1:25 p.m. as if he were injured, officers said.

McShane was questioned by officers and he showed them a puncture wound in his chest but refused to say how he was wounded. He was reported in good condition today at the prison hospital.

Officers found a seven-inch bed spring honed down to a sharp point and attached to a broom handle elsewhere in the cell block but none of the other prisoners would talk about it either.

McShane came to San Quentin in July 1969 from Los Angeles County after being convicted and sentenced to death for shooting a victim he had kidnapped.

Six Marinites Initiated Into Sororities

Six Marin co-eds attending the University of California in Berkeley have become members of National Panhellenic Sororities.

Alpha Phi sorority initiated two Kentfield girls — Betsy Block, a graduate of Redwood High School in Larkspur, and Judy Torrison, a graduate of Katherine Branson School in Ross.

New members of Delta Gamma are Linda Ball of Kentfield, a graduate of Redwood High; Barbara Biancolana of Greenbrae, graduate of San Francisco's Convent of Sacred Heart; and Ann Bolcom of Belvedere, graduate of San Dominico School, Sleepy Hollow.

Terra Linda Merger Before Local Agency

Merger of the Terra Linda Recreation-Park District with the Terra Linda Community Services District will come before the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission Wednesday night.

Commissioners will meet at 8 o'clock in Ross Town Hall.

If the merger resolution is approved, the matter must go to the voters of Terra Linda for approval. At the same election, a new five-man board of directors will be elected.

The commissioners have five other items on the agenda, all pertaining to the Novato area.

Novato Sanitary District seeks the annexation of 44 acres of open land at the end of Trumbull Avenue, to be developed by Sono-Marin builders. This is a continuation of the Marin Highlands development.

Robert A. Abeling, who owns a half-acre lot at 1625 Indian Valley Road, wants to get out from the city of Novato because the rest of Indian Valley is in the unincorporated area.

The city of Novato will ask for the following annexations:

1. Thirteen acres at the corner of Eucalyptus Avenue and Center Road, to be developed by Esquire Homes.

2. Fourteen acres at the intersection of Novato Boulevard and Eucalyptus Avenue, where cluster-type single-family homes are planned by Norman T. Gilroy.

3. Thirty-five acres east of Marin Valley Mbile Country Club, where a mobile home park is planned.

Poinsetia flowers were first brought to the U.S. from Mexico about 1830 by Ambassador Joel Robert Poinsett, the first U.S. representative to Mexico.

Alterations to Caretakers Residence
McNears Beach Park
Marin County, California
Marin County Parks and Recreation
San Rafael, California

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS INVITING SEALED PROPOSALS OR BIDS

Sealed Proposals will be received by, and shall be filed with the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin, State of California, Room #315, Marin County Civic Center, San Rafael, California, until 2:00 P.M., March 16, 1971, for:

The alterations and additions to an existing structure and necessary demolition and site work to create a two bedroom Caretakers Residence.

The work shall be done in accordance with official plans and specifications prepared in reference thereto which may be seen at the office of Parks and Recreation Department, County of Marin, Civic Center, San Rafael, California.

Proposals shall be filed with George H. Gnoss, Clerk of the Board of Supervisors, Civic Center, San Rafael, California.

Proposals will be opened and read at 2:00 P.M. in Room #330, Marin County Civic Center, on the date specified above.

The award of the contract, if it is to be awarded, will be to the lowest responsible bidder whose proposal complies with the requirements prescribed. The award, if made, will be made within thirty (30) days after the opening of the proposals.

The Board of Supervisors has made a determination of the prevailing rate of hourly wages applicable to the work performed. Copies of this determination are on file in the office of the County Clerk, Civic Center, Room #315, San Rafael, California, and are available to any interested party upon request.

The Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

RECYCLING

What to do, how to do it. Join this growing movement in Marin to help protect the world you live in put recyclables in the trash can - tins, newspapers, bottles. Help "recycle" them that they may be used again. Throwing them away is not only a waste but helps destroy the environment.

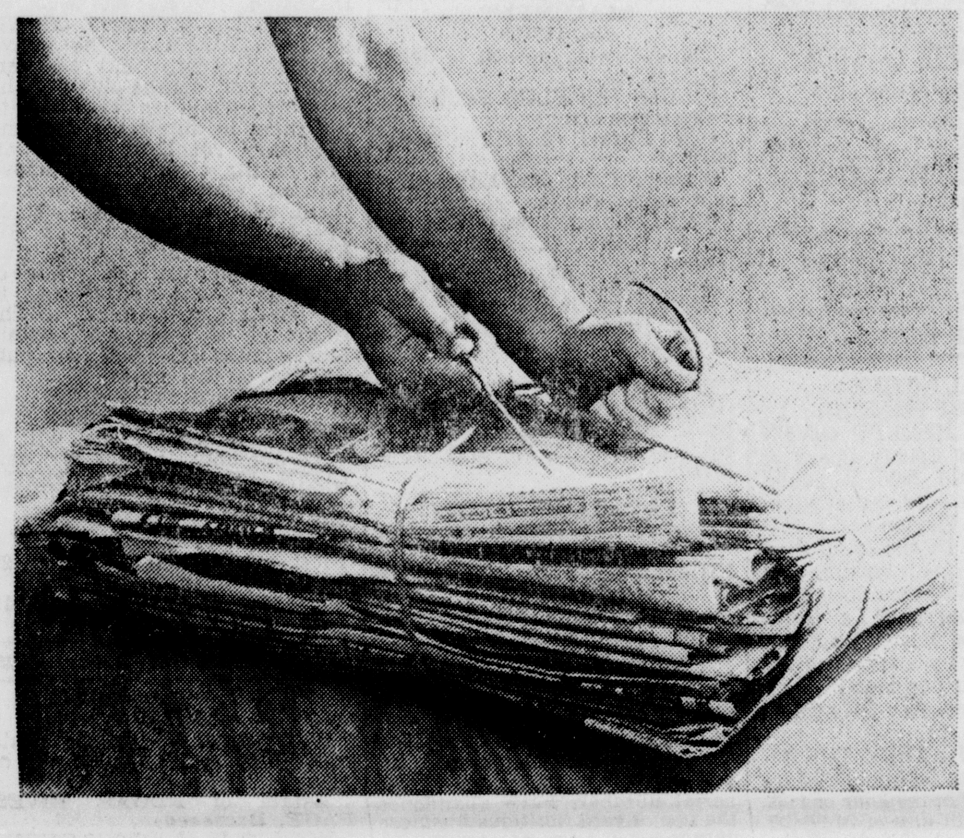
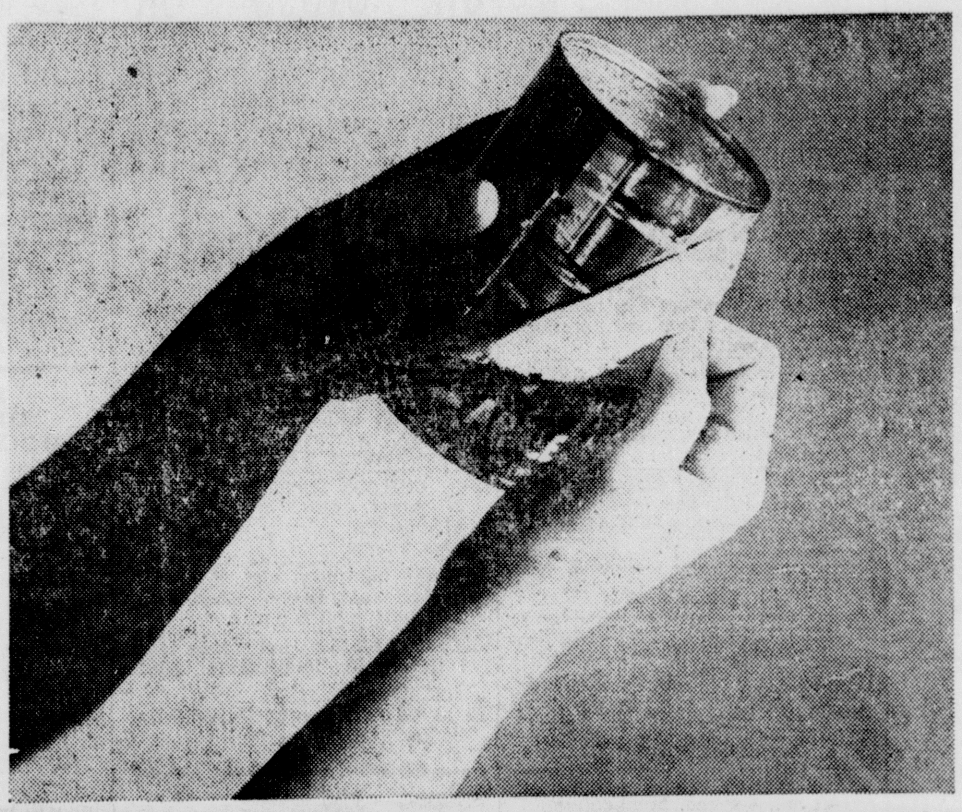
You've read a lot about ecology, about recycling. Now you can personally do something about it. A new county-wide ecology movement called "SURVIVAL" is now operating recycling depots at seven high schools in Marin (one near you). These are drop-off depots, open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. each Saturday and Sunday. All you need to do is gather your recyclables, as shown below, and take them to one of these centers. They'll do the rest.

Scores of dedicated young people are working on this project, demonstrating, in a practical way, that there IS an alternative to fouling our environment with our own trash. Join in and do your share. It will take you a little time, a little thought. But don't measure the rewards by "time". Measure them against the alternative. It's your world. Help live in it!

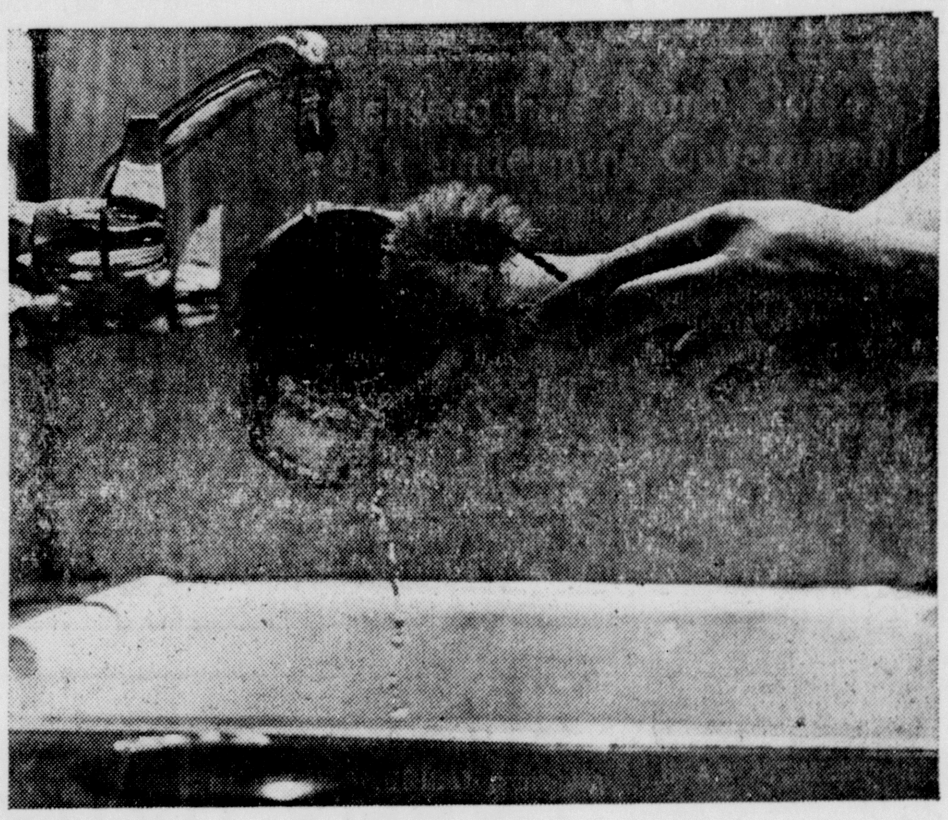
DO THIS in preparing newspapers, tins and glass for recycling



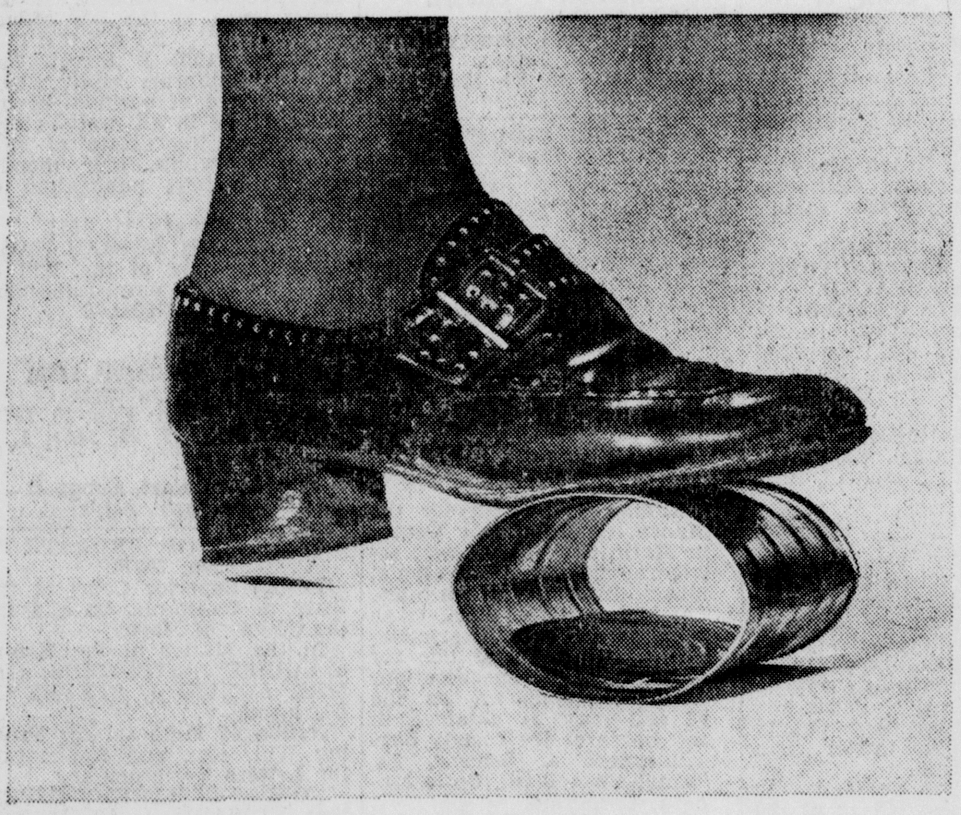
1. NEWSPAPERS: Cross-tie them securely in bundles which can be lifted by a girl. What better way to get rid of your old newspapers?



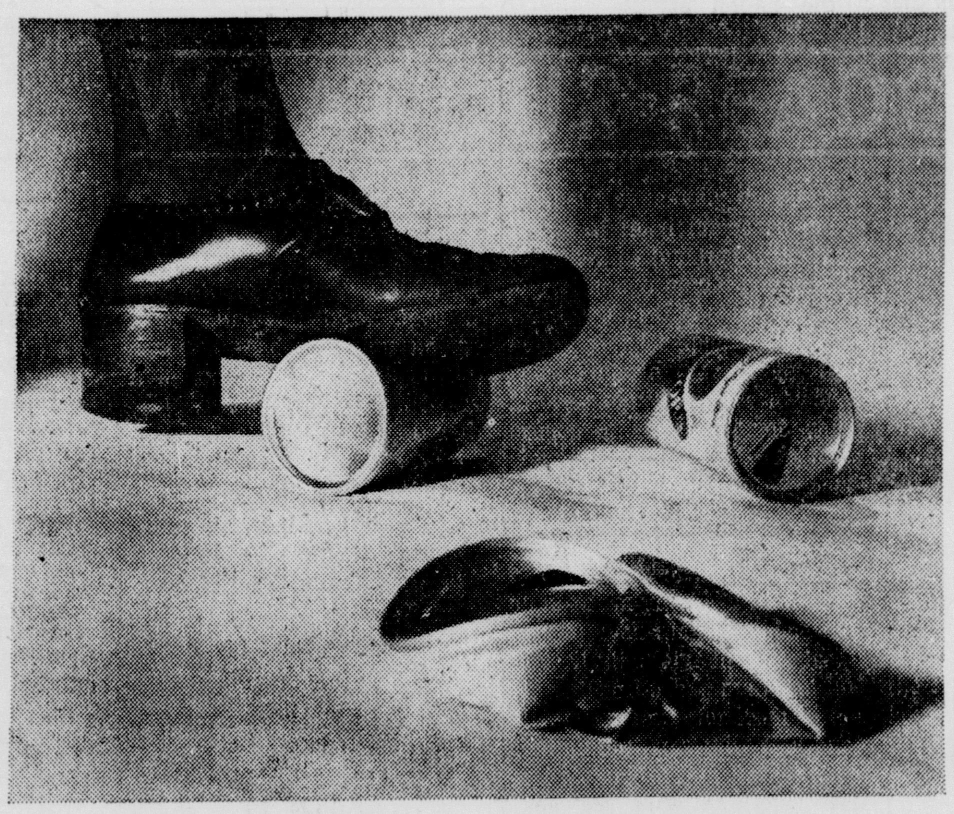
2. TIN CANS: Labels must be removed for recycling. Painted-on labels are OK.



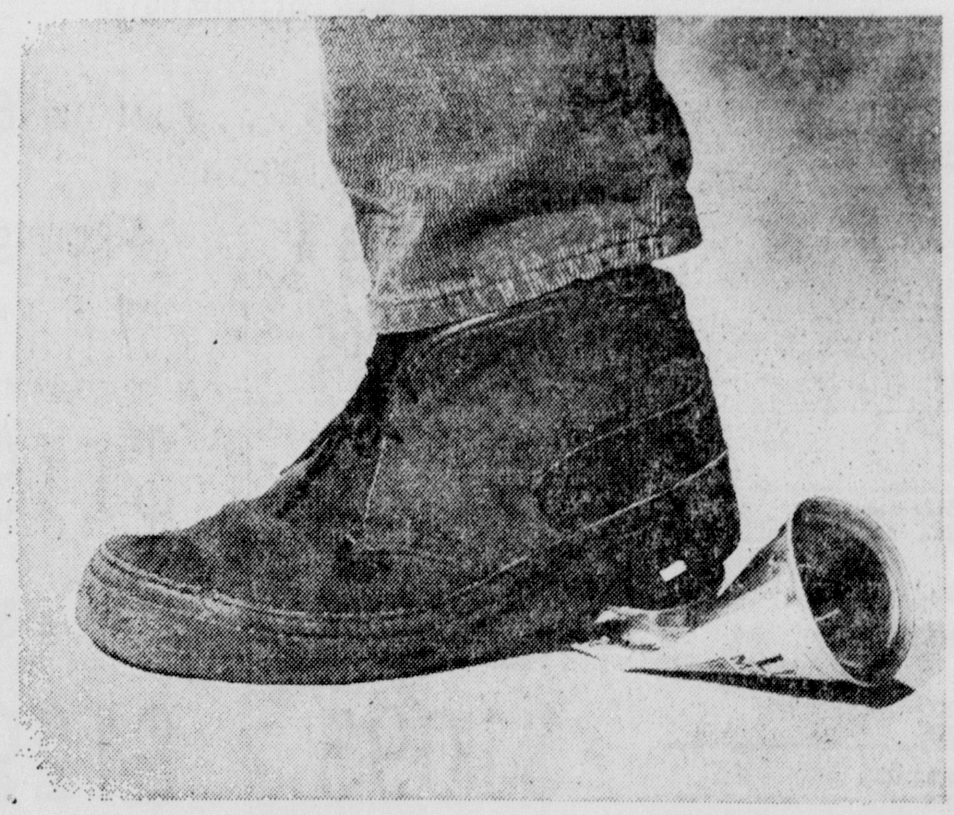
3. RINSE OUT all cans to help protect the health of others working at the recycling depots. It's recommended that you soak dogfood cans.



4. STEP ON IT! After placing both ends inside, flatten the can by stepping on it. Keep separate boxes or bags for tin cans.



5. ALUMINUM CANS are easily flattened by stepping on them. Separate aluminum from tin cans.



6. BI-METAL CANS must be flattened also. Put them in a separate container.

GLASS: All glass bottles must be separated by color. Use separate bags or boxes for "Brown," "Clear," and "Blue & Green" bottles.

DROP OFF YOUR RECYCLABLES AT THESE HANDY DEPOTS

Depots are open at the following high schools on Saturdays and Sundays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Look for them.

- SAN RAFAEL HIGH
- DRAKE HIGH
- REDWOOD HIGH
- TAMALPAIS HIGH
- TERRA LINDA HIGH
- NOVATO HIGH
- SAN MARIN HIGH

NOTE: Cardboard containers or boxes will be returned to you at time of drop-off. Please don't leave them at the depots. Re-use them for your next drop-off.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Who Remembers The Kid's Fight?

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Personally, I am not going to one of tonight's closed circuit telecasts of the Joe Frazier-Muhammad Ali fight. It's a small protest of my own. I just can't bring myself to go.

I have nothing against the fighters involved wanting to make a lot of money. That's perfectly natural, and they are doing what any smart businessmen would do—taking advantage of the market.

The same goes for the promoters and all others connected with the fight—I have nothing against them for wanting to make all that loot.

The reason I am not going to watch the fight, or contribute my dollars to the take, is that I would somehow feel ashamed and humiliated to help out a sport that the public, not too many years back, seemed finally to be done with in a major way because of its brutality.

And I would somehow feel cheapened to know I was willingly swept along by the tent show atmosphere that is part of the razzmatazz theatrical flavor surrounding the fight. It may be a small thing, but I don't like to feel I can be had that easily.

This is one fight where the true villain is the public—and not one of the boxers. For, by falling for the promotion of the match, hook, line and sinker, the public reminds us sadly that we have not come as far as we like to think from the 1930s and 1940s. And it reminds us that televised brutality is often easily forgotten.

For those who may not remember, ABC-Tv used to have a Fight-of-the-Week years ago, until finally the public got sick and tired of the series. But what really killed national interest in televised boxing was the fatal beating absorbed by Benny (Kid) Paret while millions watched. A wave of revulsion towards boxing swept the nation at the time, but apparently we have overcome that enough to regress.

I am no bleeding heart when it comes to rough sports. I am a fan of tough, competitive athletic action. But watching the weekend television shows that helped promote the bandwagon of the Frazier-Ali fight, I felt again the revulsion that was common after Paret died.

By now, of course, almost everyone has jumped on the bandwagon for tonight's fight, although the better sportswriters have rawn a proper bead on the goings-on. Nevertheless, the paying public offers itself up, almost begging to be taken advantage of. On video, I see a Vitalis commercial in which both Frazier and Ali take part—and who can blame them for laughing all the way to the bank?

There is one hopeful note, however, amid all the hoopla leading up to tonight's match: According to various reports, the fight is not selling tickets as well as expected in grassroots Middle America. And I like to think that maybe this is a sign that there is still some old-fashioned, down-to-earth horse sense in areas not yet desensitized by big town sharpies, who are the easiest marks of all.

Five Lectures On Artist And His Role

A series of five lectures on the artist and his role in society will be given tomorrow through Thursday at the College of Marin by Laguna Beach artist Dion Wright.

At noon tomorrow, Wright will discuss The Artist in Society in Room 252 of the college's Fine Arts Building. Three lectures are set for Wednesday, at 2 p.m. in the College Center on Evolution — the Painting, at 3:20 p.m. in Room 26 on Transcultural Synthesis and at 8 p.m. in the College Center on The Creative Artist in America.

The final talk will be on The Creative Process at 2 p.m. Thursday in Room 95, Olney Hall.

In addition, Wright will work mornings in the College Center on finishing a painting. His appearances are sponsored by the College of Marin Community Services Office and the Associated Students. All lectures are open to the public.

Superior Court On Two Charges

Albert Daniel Torres, 20, of no known address, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on charges of robbery and grand theft. He is to be arraigned next Monday.

Torres was arrested Feb. 11 after he allegedly grabbed a 17-year-old boy leaving a Sausalito billiard parlor and took $1.15 from him.

Doctors Report Way That Relieves Itching, Pain Of Swollen Hemorrhoidal Tissues

First Applications Give Prompt, Temporary Relief in Many Cases

There's a most effective medication that in many cases gives prompt relief for hours from such hemorrhoidal discomfort and actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by the inflammation. The answer is doctor-tested Preparation H®.

There's no other hemorrhoidal formula like Preparation H and it needs no prescription. Ointment or suppositories.

Martha Thinks Lindsay A Mark

NEW YORK (UPI)—Martha Mitchell, wife of Attorney Gneral John N. Mitchell, would like to see Mayor John V. Lindsay run for president—but not as a Republican.

Mrs. Mitchell was one of the thousands of readers of the New York Daily News who took part in a poll on whether the mayor should switch parties and try for the White House, the News said in today's editions. She checked the yes boxes on both counts and wrote: "He would be more fun to defeat!!"

Daily News Washington bureau chief Jerry Greene received her permission to reproduce her ballot, the News said.

As for age, she checked the "over 35" box, but she checked all the boxes for political affialiation—Democrat, Republican, Conservative, Liberal and Independent. For occupation she said, "Defender of America."

Singer Kills Son, Wife, Takes Life

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Bruce Cloud, 31, a former singer with the Dominoes, stabbed his wife and 2-year-old son to death and then took his own life, police said Sunday.

Cloud's body was found in his auto in a park. Police said he apparently was not able to kill himself with the knife and ran a hose from the car's exhaust pipe into the interior to pump in carbon monoxide gas.

The bodies of Cloud's wife, Margaret 27, and son Christopher, were found in the family's apartment. Police said a rambling, 12-page note written by Cloud described marital difficulties.

The deaths were listed as murders and suicide. Cloud sang ith the Dominoes in the 1960s and later appeared as a nightclub ballad singer.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Sometimes It Doesn't Always Pay To Make The Right Play

"The deepest finesse I ever took got my father in trouble," Edgar Kaplan told me recently. Kaplan, editor of The Bridge World, is today one of the most respected names in the game, but was not well known 25 years ago when he played in a friendly game with his father against two of the older Kaplan's best clients. Edgar Kaplan held the South cards of the hand shown today.

Opening lead — ♣ Q

WITH KING

West opened the queen of clubs, and Kaplan won in the dummy with the king. He led the deuce of trumps from the dummy, and East followed with the three.

"I did what any other bridge player would do," Kaplan related. "I could afford to lose one trump trick but not two. If I played the ace or king of trumps I might have to give up two trump tricks, and this is just what would have happened in the actual hand. But of course I took the safety finesse with the four of trumps."

This was a safety finesse because the contract was assured even if the finesse lost. If West could win the trick only two trumps would be left out, and declarer could later draw them with the ace and king.

VERY SUSPICIOUS

"As it happened, the four of trumps won the trick," Kaplan continued. "The player at my right gave a convulsive start and clutched his cards tighter to his chest. He gave me a look of dark suspicion and then looked worriedly at my father."

This was not all. Kaplan still had to limit the diamond loss to one trick. This called for another safety play. Kaplan drew two rounds of trumps with the ace and king, cashed the king of diamonds and then led a low diamond toward dummy.

SAFETY FINESSE

"When the eight of diamonds appeared, I took the safety finesse with dummy's nine. When this finesse worked, BOTH opponents glared at me."

Kaplan explained to his opponents that if his deep diamond finesse lost, only one diamond would be left out; and that he could later capture that diamond ith the ace. "They wouldn't listen," Kaplan reported. "They decided not to do business with the father of a card cheat — and it took eeks for my father to convince them that they hadn't been swindled. It doesn't always pay to make the right play."

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠- None
♥- J 10 5 2
♦- Q 10 8 6
♣- Q J 10 6 5.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid 1 no-trump.

The hand is strong enough for a response, but not for a bid of two clubs, which would promise about 10 points in high cards.

Anti-Squatter Law

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The City Council has adopted an ordinance permitting policemen and firemen to cite persons occupying uninhabited private or public buildings even if the structures are not posted against respassing.

ALMANAC

Today is Monday, March, 8, the 67th day of 1971.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Venus, Mars, and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Pisces.

On this day in history:

In 1894 New York became the first state to pass a law requiring dogs to be licensed.

In 1917 strikes and riots in St. Petersburg marked the start of the Russian Revolution.

In 1944 French authorities in Algiers adopted an ordinance giving French Moslems in Algeria the same rights as French non-Moslems.

In 1962 the house defeated a bill which would have increased its membership from 435 to 438.

A thought for the day: Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes said, "Certainty generally is illusion, and repose is not the destiny of men."

Warning On Carpets, Rugs

The San Francisco Better Business Bureau has urged Marin shoppers to notify the bureau if they are dissatisfied in dealing with sellers of rugs and carpets in the Bay Area.

The bureau noted that carpet advertising has improved since it began a study of selling practices in the industry last summer.

It asks consumers who have encountered misrepresentation to write the bureau at 414 Mason Street, SanFrancisco 94102.

The Final Countdown For Fight

NEW YORK (UPI)—Joe Frazier and Cassius Clay battle tonight in Madison Square Garden for more than a heavyweight championship, $2.5-million apiece or even their personal reputations.

With 300 million people watching around the world, each fighter will be seeking that niche among the hall of immortals which only one out of millions ever attains. The winner will become a legend; the loser will become another man who failed.

Frazier doesn't know, or pretends not to know, what is at stake, saying that all the bout means to him "is security for my family and myself," but Clay, also known as Muhammad Ali, understands.

"I will not be doing any talking this time," Clay says. "This fight is too important for that. I must look my best because this fight will be seen by all the future generations. I must be the greatest."

The two men, so different in their styles both in and out of the ring, were kept apart throughout preparations for the bout, avoiding any face-to-face confrontation until they are nose-to-nose in the center of the ring to hear final instructions before the tolling of the bell at 10:30 p.m. tonight.

Even the weigh-ins were held separately for the two. Frazier was to emerge from his secret headquarters where he was hidden away on Sunday after a threat on his life to weigh in first, and he was to be followed by Clay to the scales in the same 20-foot square where they will fight tonight.

After threats were received that Frazier should "lose or else," the 27-year-old champion's headquarters were shifted to another hotel and the security force that has followed him throughout the last weeks of the growing drama was strengthened even more.

It has been an emotional confrontation since that day in January when the contracts were finally signed after 3 1-2 years of waiting.

Both fighters are black, but Clay has called his opponent the "white hope" and an "Uncle Tom" because Frazier more closely meets that ethic of white, middle class America as the modest, soft-spoken boy who came out of the scratch-out-an-existence farmland of South Carolina to gain fame and money for fighting his way to the top. It is the story that Joe Louis wrote the first chapter to a generation ago.

"What is this stuff about: All I had to eat was beans and a crust of bread and when it was cold outside we couldn't play because we didn't have no shoes," Clay says. "What about the businessmen who are successful? Nobody tells about how poor and hungry they were. It's usually about fighters, and more often black fighters.

"Hear a man when he says everything I have I owe to boxing, and I'll show you a stupid man. Why doesn't he try to use his brains a little? For three and a half years, I couldn't fight, but I wasn't hungry. I bought a Rolls-Royce

By LARRY MOWELL

OAKLAND — It has not been a banner year for Joe Ellis. His acrobatic jump shots — which contributed almost 17 points a game to the Warriors last year — have been off the mark this year.

His average has slipped to 10.7 points a game and his shooting percentage has dipped to .389, worst among the team's regulars.

However, Saturday night Ellis hit a pressure-packed 15-foot jump shot with 1:26 remaining that gave the home team a 104-101 lead and all the momentum it needed for a 109-103 win over the Baltimore Bullets.

"You never saw a happier guy than me when Joe put that shot in, both for the points and for up here," Coach Al Attles said pointing to his head.

Obviously, Ellis and the rest of the team will need all the psychological lift they can muster should they make the playoffs against Lew Alcindor and the Milwaukee Bucks, 63-11 this year.

The win moved the Warriors a step closer to that playoff berth because Chicago knocked off pursuing San Diego 105-99 in a preliminary game at the Oakland Coliseum. The Warriors lead Seattle by three games and San Diego by three and one-half.

Jerry Lucas, driving more than he has all year, scored 30 points and pulled in 22 rebounds, Center Nate Thurmond added 23 points and Jeff Mullins added 22, including a three-point play that sealed the victory.

Guard Fritz Williams scored 16, but his biggest contribution was on defense. He held the Bullets' leading scorer, Earl Monroe, to 8 points.

Gus Johnson, the team's second high scorer was also held to 8, but Jack Marin and substitute guard Jack Marin provided a cannonade of long jump shots that kept the score close.

Marin had 29 for the game. Carter added 28.

The Warriors, who drew 10,388 fans last night, return to action tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Oakland Coliseum against the Boston Celtics.

Haywood Decision Is Upheld

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court sustained today the March 1 action of Justice William O. Douglas in allowing professional basketball star Spencer Haywood to resume playing with the Seattle Supersonics.

The National Basketball Association (NBA) took the matter to the court itself after Spencer won the Douglas decision.

Haywood has been trying to finish out the season despite an NBA lawsuit against him in U.S. District Court in Los Angeles. The District Court barred the NBA from taking any action against Seattle to stop him from playing, pending outcome of the case.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals however stayed the effect of the district court's order but Douglas reinstated it.

The NBA is challenging Haywood's status in the Association. He shifted to the Seattle team from the Denver Rockets of the rival American Basketball Association (ABA).

MARIN BOWLERS OPEN FIRE IN CHAMPIONSHIP TOURNAMENT

This was the scene Saturday at Nave Lanes near Ignacio as the Marin County Men's Bowling Association opened its annual championship "City Tournament" with singles and doubles at the Nave house and team event at Greenbrae Lanes. The tournament winds up next Saturday and Sunday at both houses. Results of early leaders were not yet compiled today but will be published later in the week. (I-J photo by Alfred Arn)

J. C. Snead Wins Doral Open Golf

MIAMI (UPI)—"You hit it, go find it and hit it again."

That's golf, according to Jesse Carlyle Snead, who shot a steady 69 Sunday to win the $30,000 first prize in the Doral Eastern Open Golf Tournament. It boosted his 1971 winnings to $57,000, compared with a total take of $11,500 all of last year.

Snead, who won the Tucson Open for $22,000 two weeks ago, shot a four-round total of 275 to nick second place finisher Gardner Dickinson by a stroke.

Although he never trailed after taking a one-stroke lead into the round, it got a little tense on the 18th hole. Dickinson holed a seven-footer in the rain for a birdy three to pull within a stroke as Snead watched from down the fairway.

"That tightened down the nut a little," Snead said. The former baseball player with the Washington Senators farm system—and nephew of Sam Snead—also said as he was lining up for his second shot on the hole, one of the spectators hollered, "miss it."

Snead wasn't at all happy about the distraction, apparently from a Dickinson fan. "You don't expect that on a golf course," he said.

Snead matched three birdies on the front nine with only one bogey, then holed a three-foot birdy putt on the par five 10th and parred the rest of the way in, with the rain starting to fall when he was on the 18th.

In third place two strokes behind Dickinson was Miller Barber, who shot a 68. Gibby Gilbert shot a 71 for fourth place at 279 and bunched at 280 were Bruce Devlin, Bruce Fleisher and Terry Dill.

Jack Nicklaus shot a bogey six on the first hole and finished at one-over par 73 and 282. Arnold Palmer fired his second straight 70 for 287 and Gary Player shot a 70 for even par 288 over the 7,028-yard Doral Blue Monster course. Sam Snead shot a 73 for 291.

Dickinson said he was pleased with his game and said before the tournament started he would have thought his rounds of 12 under par would be enough to win.

"Sam ought to get Jesse (J.C.) to show him how to do it," Dickinson said. "Asked how it is to have another Snead playing, he said, "Yeah, there always seems to be one out there."

The 6-2, 195-pound Snead said his uncle had given him a lot of help, but "he said it was like trying to train a bear."

He said during his high school sports career and one year as a baseball, basketball and football player at a small Tennessee junior college, it would irritate him to be known as Sam Snead's nephew. But now, he

Marin Girls Lead Gymnastics Field

Chris Nikas of Terra Linda High School dominated the individual competition, and Tamalpais High of Mill Valley led Marin County teams to a near sweep of the Northern California Gymnastics meet Saturday at Terra Linda.

Tam finished first in the final computations, with Terra Linda taking third and Novato fourth. Montgomery of Santa Rosa broke the Marin stranglehold by taking second.

Miss Nikas, a senior, was the only girl to compete in the advanced class, and was not challenged by any of the beginners, novices, or intermediates in the field from some 25 schools.

San Rafael Divides Pair Of Games With S.F. Foes

The San Rafael High School Bulldogs opened their 1971 baseball season Saturday by splitting a doubleheader in Albert Park against two different San Francisco teams, while other MCAL teams, in their second day of non-league action, dropped three of four games.

San Rafael lost to Washington, 8-3, but came back to defeat Wilson, 3-1. In a doubleheader in Novato, San Marin won the first game of a twinbill against Galileo, 8-4, but lost the nightcap, 3-2. Terra Linda got beaten by Santa Rosa in that North Bay city, 4-2, and in the second day of the San Carlos Invitational Tournament, Marin Catholic was wiped out twice, by Hillsdale, 10-0, and then by San Carlos, 8-1.

San Rafael coach Jack Sims put entirely different teams on the field against the two city teams, with the exception of centerfielder Dirk Gansloser. In the first game, the Bulldogs went down to defeat despite outhitting Washington, 10-6. Mike Spezzi and Holt Green slammed two hits apiece in the losing effort.

San Rafael salvaged the nightcap against Wilson with two quietly-produced runs in the fourth inning. Craig Hecht scored on a balk, and seconds later Gregg Werner came home on an infield grounder by Rick Klarkowski, who also drove in the Bulldogs' first run with a double.

Catcher Jack Burnam had three hits including a double to pace San Marin in the opener, but Galileo's Steve Filipas, the losing pitcher in that game, came back in the nightcap to slam a last inning double that drove home the winning run and gave the city team a split.

After collecting just three hits in a season-opening loss to Napa Friday, Terra Linda could manage only four safeties Saturday and bowed to Santa Rosa. But two of the hits were doubles, by Jim Cottington and Bill Sherbert, and the latter was impressive in four innings he pitched.

"We just didn't get much pitching," coach Gary Hughes said after his Marin Catholic Wildcats got bombed twice to end up 0-3 in the San Carlos tourney. They didn't get much hitting either — only eight hits in two games. The only bright moments for the Kentfield team ame when Steve Sherry rapped a double in the first game, and Don Bianchini did likewise in the nightcap.

Serra of San Mateo won the tournament.

New York City Before The Fight

NEW YORK — Well, how are things in Gloccamorra?

You come into this town, they should put a sign on the outskirts, "Management Not Responsible For Lost or Stolen Articles. Or Personal Injury." Darkest America.

Know what they have in the bushes now? Blow guns. And arrows tipped with sodium pentothal. They tranquilize you like a cape buffalo while they rifle your pockets. They're going to film the next "Tarzan" film on location here in Central Park.

The taxi rates went up 48%. You heard me. They got a notice posted on the windows. It reads something like, "If the meter reads $5.50, you pay $219.25." I know it doesn't prove out arithmetically, but let me tell you something: The meter trips every 72 seconds for "waiting time." You can go broke in a traffic jam. I got stuck in one the other night and finally told the driver, "Let me out here. I'd rather take my chances with the blow guns."

I won't say the city is run by Alice in Wonderland, but a headline on one side of the paper the other day read "Eight Thousand Fired." On the other side , it said "City To Pay $24 Million For Yankee Stadium." Bounce that around City Hall.

I'M BACK here to cover the Ali-Frazier fight, but until Saturday one fighter was in Florida, and the other in Philadelphia. That's because the fight is being run by amateurs. They gave each of these fighters $2.5 million in chas before they ever laced on a glove.

THEY'RE LUCKY the fighters bothered to train. When you get that much in front, the temptation would be to show up with champagne in the waterbucket and white tie and tails and treat the customers to a 15-round minuet, and then head directly back to your yacht.

So, they made the fighters show up for a "physical" last Wednesday. The doctors determined that neither one of them has leukemia, bad breath, pericarditis, athlete's foot, a fever, cradle cap, chicken pox, leprosy or hardening of the arteries. They also made sure they could frost a glass. The doctor made them touch the floor with their hands, say "Ah!" and take a deep breath. He then pronounced them alive.

Frazier had a blood pressure of 128 on one side of his body, and 120 on the other. Figure that one out. His pulse was 84. Ali's pulse was 80. But his tongue had callouses all over it.

THIRTY FLOORS above Park Ave. in a suite in the Waldorf Towers, Jack Kent Cooke, who put up $4.5 million to loose this spectacle on the world, sat and answered a constantly-ringing phone, and allowed as how he was enjoying the gamble. The head of Teleprompter Corp., the closed-circuit TV organization he controls, has just been indicted stay in New York and pump up the TV gate. If it was my $4½ million, I would have been poised on a ledge, but J. K. Cooke, who could see the good side of a train wreck, was as sunny as South Africa.

IF IT WAS my $4½ million, I would have been poised on a ledge, but J. K. Cooke, who could see the good side of a train wreck, was as sunny as South Africa.

"If I put 1½ million people in my seats around the world, we make $1½ million. That's $750,000 after taxes. That's 50 cents a seat."

IT'S ALSO 3% on his investment, which the government would be glad to pay him at no risk, one writer pointed out.

"There's no risk here," Jack quickly insisted. "We've got our money back already." But, just in case, he admitted he has insured the attraction at a cost of $1 million. Ali and Frazier aren't the only ones getting rich on the fight.

New York being New York, no one is wondering who is going to win the fight but how the fix is going to go. New Yorkers would look for the larceny in the story of creation.

Not that suspicion dampens their enthusiasm. You can't buy a ticket for the live fight. And, it will be close-circuited in the Felt Forum at $30 a head, and the Felt Forum is just down the hall from the real thing. It's another room in the Garden. It's also sold out.

It may be Boxing's last hurrah, but the funniest line of the week was that Muhammad Ali was going to register at the St. Regis "under an alias." One wonders what that could be — "Cheng Ching Po," perhaps?

One wonders also about a society that will eagerly pay two men $5 million to fist fight for 45 minutes, and fire 8,000 teachers because there's not enough money in the till to pay them for such a triviality.

Too Many Errors; Giants Lose Again

PHOENIX (UPI)—Alan Gallagher borrowed a page from Chicken Little in Sunday's exhibition baseball game.

The sky and a baseball seemed to fall on the third baseman of the San Francisco Giants with the bases loaded and two out in the eighth inning. He said he couldn't see the popup and muffed it for an error.

That opened the door for five Cleveland runs and the Giants' 3-2 lead was turned into a 7-3 loss.

But Gallagher refused to blame the blinding "high sky" over this Arizona desert city for the muff. "I just couldn't catch that blankety-blank ball," he said.

Only an inning earlier, Gallagher drove in two runs with a triple to spring the Giants to their one-run lead.

Today righthander Juan Marichal tests his arm seriously for the first time this spring when he goes against the Lotte Orions of Tokyo. The Giants and Orions haven't met since last spring when the Giants toured Japan.

Gaylord Perry worked the first three perfect innings for the Giants against the Indians. Other Giant pitchers were John Cumberland and Don Carrithers who had induced Roy Foster to pop to Gallagher in the eighth before the flood gates opened.

In three games this spring, the Giants have committed nine errors and allowed 12 unearned runs.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

It's A Good Start For Jim Maloney

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A one-game winner may turn out to be the most important pitcher in the California Angels' pennant fortunes for the second straight year.

The Angels staged a surprise threat for the American League West Division title when Clyde Wright, a one-game winner in 1969, enjoyed a 22-12 campaign in 1970. Now they're hoping that Jim Maloney, a one-game winner in 1970, will give them similar aid in 1971.

Maloney was acquired by the Angels after a 1-3 season with the Cincinnati Reds but is viewed as a potential 15-game winner on the strength of the 134-80 career record which he compiled in eight previous seasons with the Reds. Maloney was sidelined most of the 1970 season after suffering a torn Achilles tendon.

Maloney made his first appearance in an exhibition game with the Angels Sunday and pitched three scoreless innings in a 7-5 loss to the Chicago Cubs at Palm Springs, Calif.

"I was very pleased with the way he pitched," said Manager Lefty Phillips, who said during the winter that the Angels could win the West title if Maloney wins 15 games. "He pitched as well as you can ask for at this stage of the spring."

Joe Pepitone's three- run triple climaxed a six-run sixth inning rally which enabled the Cubs to score their victory but the Angels considered the loss less important than Maloney's spring debut.

On other fronts: Chico Salmon's ninth-inning homer gave the Baltimore Orioles a 43 victory over the New York Yankees. Mike McCormick yielded the homer and was the loser ... Ray Powell singled home the winning run in the seventh inning as the Minnesota Twins beat the Detroit Tigers, 4-3, for their second straight win over former manager Billy Martin.

Homers by Willie Stargell and Charlie Sands powered the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 3-2 win over the Philadelphia Phillies ... Bill Grabarkewitz hit a two-run double and Bill Russell drove in two runs with a double and a homer in the Los Angeles Dodgers' 2-0 victory over the Atlanta Braves. Hank Aaron homered for the Braves ... Rookie Rich McKinney had three singles and Carlos May hit a homer and a single to lead the Chicago White Sox to a 5-1 triumph over the Reds.

S.F. Golf Title To Gary Vanier

The 20-year-old golfer from Oakland beat veteran Verne Callison of Sacramento over 36 holes Sunday. Vanier and the 52-year-old Callison each shot one-under-par 71 over the first 18 holes. Then Vanier fired a 72 while Callison had a 75 on the final 18.

In Saturday's semifinals, Vanier ousted 17-year-old Bruce Robertson of San Mateo, 5 and 4. The balding Callison sank several pressure putts to turn back Lew Garbutt, a Sacramento lawyer, 2 and 1.

A's Dobson Rounding Into Form

TEMPE, Ariz. (UPI) — Chuck Dobson is rounding into form as a starter for the Oakland Athletics but relievers Jim Roland and Marcel Lachemann may need a little more work.

Dobson hurled four scoreless innings for the A's against the Milwaukee Brewers Sunday, striking out three and giving up two hits. However, Roland allowed one run and Lachemann was touched for two more as the Brewers downed the A's 3-2.

Andy Kosco homered off lefty Roland in the sixth to tie the score 1-1. Then Floyd Wicker doubled off Lachemann with two out in the eighth to score the tying and winning runs.

Oakland moved out to a 1-0 lead in the third when Frank Fernandez stole home on a double steal. The A's took a 2-1 lead in the top of the eighth.

The A's collected only five singles, including two by infielder Jim Driscoll. Bobby Brooks, Angel Mangual and Reggie Sanders got the others.

On Saturday at Mesa, Reggie Jackson powered two home runs, including one with the bases loaded, to lead the A's to a 13-9 win over Milwaukee. There were 19 walks in the contest which was the first featuring the three-ball walk experiment of A's owner Charles O. Finley. Batters walked with three balls instead of the customary four.

Novato Lacrosse Team Triumphs, 12-2

Novato got four goals from Paul Meaney and defeated San Francisco, 12-2 in a Northern California Lacrosse Association game yesterday in San Francisco.

Santa Rosa Wins Cage Tournament

Santa Rosa High School romped to the championship in the annual Top of the Bay post season basketball tournament Saturday night by defeating Cardinal Newman, also of Santa Rosa, 80-58 at Sonoma State College.

A capacity crowd of 3,200 witnessed the final game, which was never in doubt. The Panthers outscored the defending champion Cardinals in every quarter, and had things wrapped up by halftime, when they led, 31-17.

In other final games, Miramonte of Orinda outdueled Napa for third place, 73-65, Liberty of Brentwood captured the consolation prize with a 66-41 victory over Woodland, and Sonoma, pre-tourney favorites, edged Eureka, 65-58.

Marin Mothers Win In Hockey

Marin Amateur Hockey League stars played in three Northern California all-star games Saturday, and in a game yesterday, mothers of Marin players beat mothers of Belmont players, 8-2.

Marin star Sean Mitchell scored a three-point hat trick to lead the NorCal all-stars to a 6-5 win over Berkeley, in Berkeley, while the Bantam and Pee Wee all-stars were tied by Belmont, 1-1 and 2-2.

SWIM RELAYS

Terra Lindans Dominate Meet

With meet records falling like snow in the Sierra, Terra Linda High School's Trojan swimmers rolled up 124 points to dominate aquatic teams in the 5th Annual Marin County Athletic League relays in Larkspur Saturday.

En route to the impressive victory, Terra Linda cracked three MCAL records, including the long free style relay, where sophomore Rich DeMont joined Thom Guthrie, Jim Barton, and Don Lafrenz to demolish the existing record by more than 10 seconds.

This same Trojan relay combination had set another meet record in the 400 free relay earlier in the day.

Also recording a new league record for Terra Linda were Dennis Knowles, Casey Flaherty, Jerry Taylor, and Jeff Grant in the 200 butterfly relay.

Leading a moderately impressive second place showing for Redwood were Paul Cane, Brian Hennessy, Doug Brockbank, and freshman standout Spencer Eldred, as they combined for two new league marks, in the 400 breast relay and the 400 individual medley relay.

Novato added to the record books in the diving relay, as superstar John Summerfield, coupled with Steve Sanders and Jim Ferris, easily outclassed the competition.

FINAL SCORING

Colored Gloves As Symbols Of Protest

Phoenix — Juan Marichal and Gaylord Perry came to camp this spring with colored gloves. The pitchingaces of the Giants said they intend to use them during the season.

Section 1.15 of the Official Baseball Rules states "The pitcher's glove shall be uniform in color, and shall not be white or gray."

Neither Marichal's nor Perry's new gloves violate that rule. They are blue, red and green, not a mixture of those colors but solid blue, solid red and green. Any mixture of colors would violate the "uniform in color" phrase of the rule.

Perry's new glove is red. Marichal has three new gloves — blue, red and green.

"YOU KNOW how red upsets bulls," said Perry. "Just think what my glove will do to hitters when I wave it in front of them."

"Blue is my favorite color," said Marichal, "but I also am going to use my red and green gloves, too. I plan to switch them each inning. I want to make the hitters mad."

Whether the colored gloves will be a distraction to batters, causing them to take their eye off the ball, remains to be seen. But colored gloves brought to Florida spring training camps already have prompted a protest from Gil Hodges. The manager of the Mets says he intends to make his protest official to Chub Feeney, president of the National League.

Perry feels that it's time pitchers were shown some consideration by baseball's rules committee which in recent years (1) lowered the pitching mound (2) narrowed the strike zone (3) passed tough legislation banning super sinkers more vulgarly known as spitballs and grease balls.

"And don't forget the jackrabbit ball they slipped in on us last year," said Perry, "or this year's lobbying for three-ball walks. All of the important rules changes these past years have favored the hitters. It's time something was done for pitchers.

WHILE WHITE gloves are banned for pitchers, white shoes are permitted. The A's wear white shoes. A high-kicking pitcher seemingly could cause a batter a distracting eye problem with white shoes. But the A's don't have any high-kickers in Marichal's class. Chuck Dobson is the A's highest kicker.

Marichal kicks as high as a chorus girl in his delivery. What if Marichal decides to wear white shoes this season? Had he given any consideration to that? "No," he smiled but the way he said it left the impression he would give the matter further thought.

Marichal's over-the-head-kick drooped last year when his stamina was sapped by a severe reaction to penicillin treatment for a mysterious virus he picked up in Japan during the Giants' unsuccessful experiment with overseas spring training.

He is kicking as high as ever this spring, completely recovered from last year's lingering illness. His kick, as it is, creates a natural distraction for batters. A white shoe kick by Marichal would look pretty except, of course, to hitters.

Petty Claims Win In Richmond 500

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)— Richard Petty, starting on the back row, quickly moved his Plymouth through the herd Sunday and claimed the Richmond 500 as his second victory of the five-race-old Grand National stock car season.

It was the 121st career win for the 33-year-old, Randleman, N.C., pilot, the winningest driver in stock car history. He finished with an average speed of 79.836 miles an hour in the 250-mile event.

SANTA CLARA (UPI)—John Gianelli, 6-10 junior center from the University of Pacific, has been voted the most valuable player in the West Coast Athletic Conference by coaches.

Gianelli led the conference in rebounding and ranks fourth in the nation in that department while leading UOP to the WCAC championship.

Bowling

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI)—Veteran bowler Dick Weber threw four straight strikes to edge brother-in-law Norm Meyers and pocket $7,000 as the winner's share of the $60,000 Professional Bowlers Association Buckeye Open.

Weber was third going into the final round Saturday of the nationally televised tournament. He eliminated Don Russell and Wayne Zahn in the match games and then took Meyers 237-235.

Tennis

HAMPTON, Va. (UPI)— Romania's Ilio Nastase has another $18,250 today to spend on the girls.

The fun-loving tennis star defeated American Clark Graebner of New York Sunday in the U. S. National Indoor Tennis Championships, 7-4, 6-4 and 7-6 for the singles title.

Then he and fellow Romanian Ion Tiriac beat Grebner and Brazil's Tomas Koch in doubles, 6-4, 4-6 and 7-5.

FIGHT

and a new house because I was using my brain."

Frazier retaliates by calling his opponent "a phony and a clown" for failing to live up to the Black Muslim principles Clay preaches. "He has misled a lot of people," the squat Philadelphian says, "but, as for me, this is just another fight—for myself and nobody else."

Even the odds reflect the emotional pitch of the bout. Frazier is a slight favorite in the United States, but the rest of the world has established Clay as the choice wherever there is betting.

Physically, the advantages appear to lie with Clay. He is one of the largest men ever to reign as heavyweight champion, and Frazier is one of the smallest. The 29-year-old Clay is nearly four inches taller at 6-foot-3, has a 6½-inch reach advantage at 80 inches and also is heavier.

Not only that, but Clay also is faster, and his punching power, often underrated, can be testified to by his 25 knockouts in 31 consecutive victories. Frazier, whose biggest assets are his power, non-stop determination and ability to weather the firestorm of the ring, has 23 knockouts in 26 fights.

"No short-armed, slow-thinking, flat-footed fighter is gonna beat me," Clay boasts. "It'll be pop, pop, POP, and he'll know the masquerade is over. The press has turned him into a giant, and that's good. Because think how great that makes me when I beat him. Then you'll know who the champion really is."

Clay has never recognized Frazier as heavyweight champion, and neither has the cult that has grown up around Clay. Clay was at the height of his ability in 1967 when he was stripped of the championship and banned from boxing for refusing to go into the Army.

Not until Oct. 26 last year after a lengthy court battle was Clay permitted to fight again, and he made his return in eloquent style, stopping Jerry Quarry in three rounds. On Dec. 7, he became the first man ever to stop the hulking Argentine, Oscar Bonavena, in 15 rounds, and the stage was set for a meeting with Frazier.

Frazier had won his title on Feb. 16 last year by knocking out Jimmy Ellis, one of Clay's former sparring partners, in five rounds, and he followed with a two-round knockout over Bob Foster on Nov. 18. But his claim to the title was tarnished by Clay's return, and only a showdown could erase the stains.

The showdown will be seen in 35 foreign countries as well as 350 closed circuit television sites around the United States, and 19,500 fans, paying up to $800 on the scalpers' market for their $150 ringside seats, will be at the Garden. The live gate will amount to $1.25-million.

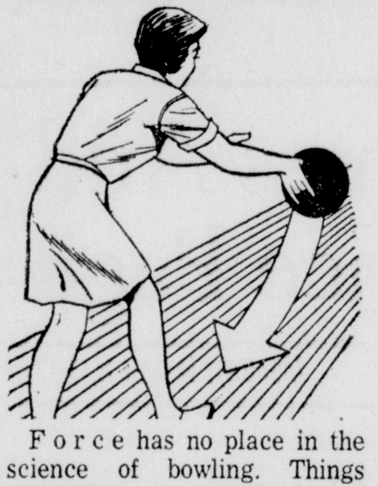
BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG



Force has no place in the science of bowling. Things should happen naturally. One of the easiest is letting the ball fall smoothly as you begin your second step and the backswing. Forcing will disrupt your rhythm.

A Pair Of Ties For Seals

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — You can hardly call the California Golden Seals matinee idols, but they are improving.

Notorious losers on the road, the Seals finally snapped out of their lethargic wanderings with a pair of weekend ties at Philadelphia and Pittsburgh in afternoon games. The Seals built a 3-0 lead over Pittsburgh Sunday afternoon only to have the Penguins storm goalie Gary Smith for three goals in less than four minutes in the final period for a 3-3 standoff.

That completed the final eastern swing this season for the Seals. They have two remaining "western" road games at Vancouver and Los Angeles.

Doug Roberts scored a goal late in the first period for California and teammates Gerry Ehman and Ernie Hicke tallied in the second period. Hicke's came on a power play and was the 20th of the season for the rookie.

But the Penguins bombarded Smith when the third period started and Andy Bathgate scored at 3:50. Then Syl Apps and Wally Boyer followed in quick succession for the tie when it appeared the Seals had wrapped up their fourth road win of the season.

On Saturday, the Seals scored three times in the final 8 1-2 minutes to gain a 4-4 tie with the Flyers. After Gary Dornhoefer's second NHL hat trick put the Seals behind 4-1, Dennis Hextall, Ehman and Tony Featherstone scored to even it up. Featherstone's unassisted goal came when he poked the puck into the net from between the pads of goalie Doug Favell.

As things stand, the Seals show a poor road record of 3-30-4. To put it another way, they have picked up only 10 points out of a possible 74 while away from home. Their last road win was over Detroit Dec. 20.

MCAL RELAYS

Records Fall In Prep Track

A full scale assault on the record book marked the Marin County Athletic League track and field relays that opened the 1971 season Saturday at College of Marin in Kentfield.

Eight league records were set, three by Tamalpais High School, and the Indians of Mill Valley took five of the 12 events to win the team competition.

Sparked by Gerald Robertson and Richard Brown, both of whom were involved in three of the record shattering events, Tam rolled up 47 points to edge Terra Linda, which set two marks and finished with 43. The only other team within striking distance of the leaders was San Rafael, which wound up 32 points and a record.

The team of Robertson, Brown, Braj Carry and Greg Biber stormed to record wins in both shuttle-hurdles events, 280 and 480 yards, and Robertson and Brown anchored a record setting four man effort in the high jump. That event saw the day's most outstanding individual performance, a 6-foot-3 leap by Robertson, who holds the MCAL record at 6-4. Biber and Carry also figured in winning the long jump.

Terra Linda won the other three field events, the pole vault, discus, and shot put in record fashion, to easily outdistance third place San Rafael. Bruce Little had a hand in victories in the shot and the discus.

Other events in which records were set included the 2-mile, where Redwood broke the old mark by 10 seconds with an 8:21 clocking, and the mile, which San Marin ran in 3:34.1, one-tenth of a second faster than the old mark.

FINAL SCORING

Tamalpais, 47; Terra Linda, 43; San Rafael, 32; Redwood, 19; San Marin, 18; Novato, 12; Drake, 6, Marin Catholic, 4.

SUMMARY

280 Shuttle high hurdles — Tamalpais (Brown, Carry, Biber, Robertson), 37.3 (Old record 38.3 by San Rafael). 2 Mile — Redwood (Norton, Guerin, Blake, Sweeny), 8:21.8 (Old record 8:21.8 (Old record 8:31.5 by San Rafael). 440 — San Rafael (Duncan, Grigg, MacLean, Crovo), 44.7; Distance medley — Tamalpais (Wood, Ringleman, Roecks, Arago), 10:57.8. 880 — San Rafael (Duncan, Grigg, MacLean, Crovo), 1:34.8 (Old record 1:35.7 by San Rafael). 480 Shuttle Low Hurdles — Tamalpais (Brown, Carry, Biber, Robertson), 56.5 (Old record 57.4 by San Rafael). Mile — San Marin (Lathrop, Briot, Golfer, Chappell), 3:34.1 (Old record 3:34.3 by Tamalpais). High Jump — Tamalpais (Robertson, Brown, Downing, Martinez), 22-1 (Old record 21-6 by Terra Linda). Long Jump —Tamalpais (Biber, Shlette, Carry, Domingus), 78-2½. Shot Put — Terra Linda (Skeen, Crowhurst, Little, LaHaye), 178-4½ (Old record 175-6½ by Terra Linda). Discus — Terra Linda (Little, Borcherding, Madden, Skeen), 486-3½. Pole Vault — Terra Linda (Lesser, Aguila, Melcron), 30 (New event).

Penguin Is Out

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Rookie left wing Greg Polis of the Pittsburgh Penguins may be lost to the National Hockey League team for the remainder of the season because of the flu and throat trouble. Polis has scored 18 goals for Pittsburgh this season—a record for a Peguins' rookie.

Optoelectronics Wins Contract For Infrared Detector Units

Marin County lost a growling electronics industry last year when Optoelectronics, Inc. at Northgate Industrial Park changed its mind about occupying a permanent plant there and moved to Petaluma instead.

The company, originally in a temporary location at 4340 Redwood Highway and now at 1309 Dynamic Street, Petaluma, has just reported being awarded a $479,000 production engineering contract by the U.S. Army Electronics Command for infrared photodetector assemblies. It is currently establishing an East Coast office in Massachusetts in addition to one in Washington, D.C. opened last November.

Optoelectronics, founded in 1969, now employs 38 persons and plans to recruit still more personnel to step up its production of infrared systems for many new applications, both by the government and by private industry.

VOSSBRINK PHARMACY at 894 Fourth Street, San Rafael, which was sold to Webb and Rogers last July, has closed out its prescription department and is now in the process of selling off its stocks.

Ralph A. Vossbrink owned the store for about 33 years before retiring last year.

NEW VICE PRESIDENT at Bank of Marin is F. M. Ganey of Concord, who has been in the banking business over 47 years. He was with the First National Bank of Great Falls, Montana for over 18 years, eight of which he served as president and trust officer. Later he was president of Concord National Bank before it was merged into the Central Banking System. From 1967 through 1969 he was senior vice president of Commonwealth National Bank in San Francisco. He retired from banking then to enter into private financial advising and consulting.

WILLIAM J. BREEN of San Rafael is celebrating 35 years of service with Bank of America this month. Now vice president, corporate agency and business services, at the bank's San Francisco headquarters, he has also headed the personnel relations departments in Los Angeles and San Francisco. He joined Bank of America at San Francisco and has also served in San Mateo, Redwood City and Redding offices.

Breen

Hixon

BRUCE R. HIXON of Marinwood has been promoted to assistant vice president at Bank of California's San Francisco main office. He joined the bank in 1964 and has served as assistant credit officer and as loan officer prior to his recent appointment.

MRS. ERICA HANSELL, president of Hansell Associates, Inc., San Rafael, and Mrs. Kay Kinney, director of the Hansell European summer job program, attended the recent western regional conference of Coserv in San Francisco, sponsored by the National Council of Community Services to international visitors. Conference chairman was Judge Stanley A. Weigel, vice president of Coserv.

INSURANCE: Paul M. McKimmie of Greenbrae and Bernard R. (Barney) Whitehill of Sleepy Hollow have received New York Life Insurance Co. Group Leader Awards for sales and records during 1970 . . . Circle of Honor awards have been presented by State Mutual of America to Frank A. Tallarida of San Rafael and Jack G. Nixon of Lucas Valley for total sales of over $1 million last year.

FRANK W. LAMB of San Rafael has now moved his insurance office from San Francisco to Northgate Industrial Park.

Under the name of Frank W. Lamb and Co., he handles commercial and industrial insurance, with property and casualty coverage. The location is 77 Mark Drive, in the same building he originally planned to occupy.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have a 950-share investment in Boise Cascade at a cost of $18 per share. I am in the 50 per cent tax bracket. In view of the profit drop should I hold or sell Boise? — B. B.

A. A deficit in the final 1970 quarter pulled earnings down to $1.16 a share from $2.40 in 1969. Unexpected costs incurred from upgrading environmental standards at these developments plus a recession-related slowdown in real estate sales resulted in nonrecurring charges on 1970 earnings.

A more expansive federal monetary policy has recently eased mortgage interest rates, spurring housing starts. For January, building permits issued rose 52 per cent year-to-year on an annualized basis. In addition, lumber prices have firmed, with a 15 per cent boost noted since the first of 1971.

Approximately two-thirds of Boise's business is construction-related; improved conditions in this industry should begin to be evident in company earnings by mid-year. Shares have exceptional longer-range growth characteristics and should be retained.

Q. I would appreciate your comment on Boston Capital. I have 200 shares which cost me $10 per share. I am 87 and need income. — E. S.

A. This venture capital company is a speculation on the success of its two major holdings, Ohio Nuclear and Waukesha Industries. No dividend has been paid since January of 1970, thus this is an unsuitable investment for you. Sale at this time would entail little loss of principal.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL

You Can't Forgive A Debtor, But You Can Deduct Bad Debt

You can deduct your personal bad debts if:

1. A valid debt was created in 1970 or existed at January 1, 1970, and some event occurred in 1970 which leads you to believe that the debt was uncollectible such as bankruptcy, disappearance of the debtor, etc.

2. The bad debt must have been included in your income or been a part of your capital. You cannot have a bad debt deduction for uncollectible wages, fees, rents, etc.

3. You cannot forgive a debtor his debt and take a deduction for it. You must have made every reasonable effort to collect.

Personal loans to members of your family can be charged off as bad debts, if there is evidence it was a loan and that you made every reasonable effort to collect.

Sometimes what looks like plain bad luck can become a bad debt deduction. The IRS says a nonbusiness bad debt deduction is allowable for unrecoverable deposits made for the construction of a residence when the construction company becomes insolvent and fails to perform under the contract.

The rules for business bad debts are different and are covered in Document 5176 which is free at your local IRS office.

Losses sustained on purchases of undelivered stock from a securities corporation that subsequently becomes bankrupt are deductible as short-term capital losses under the nonbusiness bad debt provisions. If there had been any dishonesty connected with these, they might have been deductible as theft losses not subject to the $1,000 per year limitations.

If your bad debt is a personal debt, the deduction is made on separate Schedule D of the tax return as a short-term capital loss. Such losses cannot be deducted from other income in an amount over $1,000 per year. However, they can be deducted from capital gains in any amount.

If you have a bad debt loss of more than $1,000, claim $1,000 for 1970 and carry the balance over to 1971. Your deduction is limited to not more than $1,000 per year. You can take it all in any year you have capital gains to cover it.

You must attach a statement to your tax return and show: The nature of the debt; name of the debtor and his business or family relationship to you, if any; when the debt became due; what efforts you have made to collect the debt; how you determined the debt to be worthless.

1971 CALIFORNIA REALTY FUND

BACKGROUND
In 1970, the California Realty Fund acquired six apartment complexes totaling 1,379 units with a total value in excess of $20 million. A total of $3,320,000 of equity capital was utilized to purchase these properties.

POTENTIAL SAFETY
In the opinion of the General Partner of the Fund, the acquisitions made to date provide the Fund with geographical diversification, an opportunity for appreciation, and financial stability, in that the properties are all leased back to the sellers.

OBJECTIVES
In 1971, it is the intention of the General Partner to acquire additional apartment complexes, as well as other types of income-producing property, such as shopping centers, office buildings, industrial complexes, and mobile home parks. This will provide the Fund with a diversified real estate investment portfolio.

ADVANTAGES
We fully intend to structure the acquisition of these properties so that the following benefits will be derived by the Limited Partner Investors:
1971 Tax Deductibility .... 50 to 60% of investment
Future Annual Tax Deductibility .... 15 to 20% of investment
Annual Cash Flow (Tax Sheltered) .... 5 to 7% of investment

DOW-JONES AVERAGES

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Dow Jones 2 p.m. interim stock averages: 30 industrials 898.62, up 0.62; 20 transportation 202.56, off 0.67; 15 utilities 122.51, up 0.39; 65 stocks 296.71, up 0.02.

Turnover Heavy In Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices were irregularly higher in heavy turnover near noon Monday.

Analysts noted that investors appeared a little hesitant as a result of the expiration of the Middle East cease-fire and developments on Southeast Asia.

Prices moved higher in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange. Of the 1,036 issues, 571 pointed higher, while 219 retreated.

Among the most active Amex issues were Instrument Systems fractionally higher on more than 100,000 shares, Mouldings Inc. also up slightly on 50,000 shares, and Asamera Oil fractionally higher on around 50,000 shares.
